Naguib, 'Bowing To People's Will,' Agrees To Continued Council Rule

President Would Delay Assembly Election In Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt, March 28 (AP)—An aide to Mohamed Naguib said tonight the President, "bowing to the people's will," had agreed in principle that Egypt's Revolutionary Council should remain in power and that the election of a Constituent Assembly and rebirth of political parties be called off.

Maj. Ismail Farid, personal aide de camp to Naguib, made the announcement, however, as joint conferences between the Revolutionary Council and civilian ministers continued.

Salah Salem, guidance minister, also left the conference which had been going on for more than seven hours and addressed a crowd which shouted, "We want revolution. We don't want parties."

Salem said, "I can promise you we (army officers) shall not leave you. We will continue until the evacuation of imperialist (British) forces (from the Suez Canal zone) and until the country is completely purged of corrupt elements."

Officers Back Council

Two hundred police officers gathered at their club in Cairo and adopted a resolution supporting continued rule by the Revolutionary Council, and opposing the rebirth of political parties. They added that if elections are held they would "refuse to help in running it," as police are usually called upon to do.

The length of the conference indicated an immense tug of war was on behind the scenes between Naguib, who wants to reinstitute parliamentary government in Egypt, and major elements of the ruling Revolutionary Council which fears a return to elections and political parties would mean a return to corrupt practices.

Crowds Roam Streets

Guidance Minister Salah Salem told a tumultuous crowd protesting the Ruling Council's earlier decision to step aside for a return to party politics that they had "agreed in principle" to maintain power.

However, he told the throng massed outside Naguib's office, "we have not yet decided how the council will remain in office and by what means."

While Egypt's rulers met to make their crucial decisions, shouting crowds roamed the streets urging them not to hand back the country to the old-line politicians who flourished under deposed King Farouk.

Ike's Housing, Tax Programs Face New Tests

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower's housing and tax programs, which already have been bounced around on Capitol Hill, face new tests in Congress this week.

A major floor fight is in prospect tomorrow when the House begins consideration of a bill that strips the administration's public housing program down to little more than a skeleton.

There were unconfirmed reports the President might make some public move before Tuesday in behalf of his housing recommendations. The House Appropriations Committee overrode Eisenhower's request for a four-year 140,000-unit public housing program, and voted only enough funds for a two-year 35,000-unit "cleanup" operation.

"Racket," Taber Says

The committee decided that this "be the end" of federal public housing ventures. Chairman Taber (R-NY) called them "a racket."

Another housing battle is in prospect later in the week when the House turns to the President's recommendations for slum clearance and a liberalized home loan program.

The tax fight is due to be renewed when Senate and House conferees attempt to compromise differing versions of a general cut in excise taxes.

Speedy Action Possible

The conferees meet tomorrow, and Republican leaders hope to speed the bill to President Eisenhower by Tuesday to help him meet an April 1 deadline.

The bill passed by the Senate contains $1,034,000,000 of reductions in excise or sales taxes, 122 million dollars more than the House voted. It also extends until April 1, 1955 a series of post-Korea excises on liquor, tobacco, automobiles, trucks and gasoline. This will yield $1,077,000,000 that otherwise would be lost.

CALLS FOR HELP — Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce (above), U. S. ambassador to Italy, reportedly has asked President Eisenhower for help in combatting Communist propaganda. The President is considering sending Vice President Nixon to Italy for a brief goodwill tour. Mrs. Luce recently has come under attack of left-wing Italian senators.

Federal, State Action Looms In Dock Strike

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—Longshoremen continued picketing along the New York waterfront today despite the threat of federal and state action to end the costly 24-day-old strike.

Police patrols were on the alert and normal pier work was reported at several Manhattan docks and in Brooklyn, 2,100 men were busy at seven piers.

There was one other crack in the striking union's efforts to paralyze the port, when two tugs helped an arriving liner dock. Tugworkers are affiliated with the striking independent International Longshoremen's Assn.

The rest of the waterfront was in the usual Sabbath doldrums.

Strikers Plan Protest March

Tomorrow the strikers plan a march on Washington to protest the government's role in the situation.

On Tuesday the National Labor Relations Board will consider an examiner's recommendation that a recent representative bargaining election—pitting the old ILA against the new AFL dock union—be voided.

The struggle for control of the docks began last September when the AFL ousted the ILA for failing to rid its ranks of racketeering elements and set up its own waterfront union.

What started on March 5 as a "wildcat" strike, costing the port of New York an estimated million dollars a day, last week was sanctioned by old ILA officials in defiance of a federal injunction.

Mitchell, Dewey Blast Tieup

Yesterday a joint statement by Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey denounced the walkout as "primarily a criminal conspiracy" and "not a legitimate labor dispute at all."

The statement further declared that the federal and state governments, with the cooperation of city police, were "determined to restore order to the waterfront and bring to an end the illegal activities which have done untold damage to American shipping."

Ike May Send Nixon To Italy To Help Envoy

Aid In Fighting Red Propaganda Sought By Ambassador Luce

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower is considering sending Vice President Nixon to Italy — at the urgent request of Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce — for a brief goodwill tour to combat Communist propaganda.

Associates said the President has not yet made up his mind if or when he can spare Nixon from his Washington duties for a flying visit to a country where conditions are being viewed with increased concern here.

Mrs. Luce Under Attack

Mrs. Luce recently has come under attack of 35 extreme left wing Italian senators, who asked the Rome government to label her unwelcome and thus force her withdrawal from the country. No one expects this to happen.

Mrs. Luce's urgent request for help was understood to have been made directly to the President when she was in Washington earlier in the year.

She was understood to have said the visit of such a high ranking American official as Nixon would be welcomed in Italy by anti-Communist elements as indicating top-flight U. S. interest in their cause.

Nixon Toured Asia

Nixon has won praise within the administration for his goodwill tour of Asia last fall and his admirers feel that he would acquit himself well in Europe.

Since the vice president would not bear any diplomatic title and thus would not be directly responsible for foreign policy, some administration officials believe he could talk more frankly to the Italians about the dangers of communism than a State Department representative.

Embassy Officials In Dark

ROME, March 28 (AP)—United States Embassy officers said tonight they knew nothing about reports that Vice President Nixon may come to Italy on a goodwill tour.

Reports from Washington said the President is considering sending Nixon at the urgent request of U. S. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce, to combat Communist propaganda.

"We have had no advice whatsoever to that effect," an embassy spokesman said.

In France, where she has been conferring with U. S. and NATO officials, Mrs. Luce said she had no comment on the report.

Change In Butter Prop Plan Denied

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson tonight denied reports that his department plans to switch to a gradual decline in butter price supports rather than going through with the sharp drop from 90 to 75 per cent of parity scheduled for April 1.

Benson made the comment in answer to a question on the NBC television show "Meet the Press" about a statement Friday by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis). The senator had said "some people" in the Agriculture Department assured him they expected such a last minute change in plans to higher supports.

The big drop in butter supports has been criticized severely by some dairy groups and some dairy state congressmen.

The agriculture chief said he had no choice, under the law, except to reduce dairy products to the legal minimum because demand is not meeting the heavy supply and government-purchased butter is piling up in warehouses.

Strange Things Happening In Moscow

Eisenhower Salutes Indochina Defenders

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — President Eisenhower spoke out strongly today in praise of the defenders of Dien Bien Phu, and expressed "my admiration and best wishes" to the commander of that beleaguered Indochinese fortress.

Through diplomatic channels, he dispatched an unusual message to President Rene Coty of France and to Bao Dai, chief of state of Viet Nam, commending the "gallantry and stamina of the commander and the soldiers who are defending Dien Bien Phu."

The White House announced the action while Secretary of State Dulles was putting the final touches on a speech which is expected to include strong policy statements on the Indochina crisis.

Dulles Conferred With Ike

Dulles conferred with Eisenhower at the White House yesterday about what he plans to say in an address in New York Monday night to the Overseas Press Club.

He will speak at 9 p.m. EST.

Communist Vietminh forces have been attacking much smaller French loyal forces at Dien Bien Phu with a ferocity that has led some observers to believe they are seeking primarily a victory which would bolster the Red bargaining position at the Geneva Conference opening April 26.

The problems of Indochina and Korea will be discussed at that meeting, to be attended by the United States, Great Britain, France, Russia and Red China.

Eisenhower's message was seen as an effort to bolster the morale of the defenders and to assert once again the prime importance this country attaches to the outcome of the fighting in the seven-year-old Indochinese War, of which many Frenchmen are becoming weary.

Identical Messages

The President sent identical messages to the heads of the French and Viet Nam governments.

"In common with millions of my countrymen," he said, "I salute the gallantry and stamina of the commander and soldiers who are defending Dien Bien Phu. We have the most profound admiration for the brave and resourceful fight being waged there by troops from France, Viet Nam, and other parts of the French Union.

"Those soldiers, true to their own great traditions, are defending the cause of human freedom and are demonstrating in the truest fashion qualities on which the survival of the free world depends."

W. Virginia Town Auctions Off Jail To Repair Streets

SAND FORK, W. Va., March 25 (AP)—Crime seems to present no problem for this town of some 250 persons.

The jail was auctioned off yesterday for $231 and proceeds are to be used to repair town streets. Council member Ray Jones said the small, frame building hadn't been used for at least 16 years to put badmen behind bars.

A local trucker bought the jail house, but he hasn't said what he's going to do with it.

"Joe Must Go" Club Is Formed

SAUK CITY, Wis., March 28 (AP) — A "Joe Must Go" club to handle a campaign aimed at recalling Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) from office was formed today.

Between 400 and 500 people, from 43 of Wisconsin's 71 counties, met in a ballroom in this small town of 1,700 on the banks of the Wisconsin River.

The meeting was quiet and orderly, but as time went on the gathering became more lively and, led by about 20 University of Wisconsin students, chanted "Joe must go." Several television and motion picture newsreel cameramen were on hand to record the event.

Leroy Gore, editor of the weekly Sauk Prairie Star, who initiated the recall campaign, told the audience that 125,000 people already had signed petitions for a special recall election. He said that nearly 404,000 signatures would be needed within a 60-day period to bring about the special election. Ivan Nestingen, an attorney from Madison who was temporary chairman of the meeting, said the petition campaign would close May 17.

French Assaults Force Vietminh To Delay Attack

HANOI, Indochina, March 28 (AP)—French forces smashed at Vietminh entrenchments surrounding their beleaguered fortress of Dien Bien Phu again today, forcing the Communist-led rebels to halt preparations for a new infantry assault. A French army spokesman said the Vietminh had dug a network of trenches less than 600 feet from the dust bowl bastion. Today's raids, he added, forced the rebels to taper off, at least for the moment, construction of positions obviously intended as takeoff points for mass infantry charges.

French Planes Grounded

Bad flying weather, however, put a damper on the French aerial assault. The rebels took advantage of the lull to move up fresh troops and supplies. The Vietminh commander, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap appeared unwilling to try a new assault until he has mustered high numerical superiority over the French defenders.

Giap, busy rounding up guerrilla fighters to bolster his regular striking force, has ignored appeals by the French commander in chief, Gen. Henri Navarre, for a cease-fire until the French wounded can be removed from the hemmed-in fortress.

The battle for Dien Bien Phu is being watched closely by people in France and many other lands. They feel that if the French can knock out of action the rebel horde besieging the fortress, they will have taken the first big step toward ending the seven-year Indochina War.

Siege In 129th Day

If rebel chieftain Moscow-educated Ho Chi Minh wins, however, he will have inflicted a major defeat on the French and put the Reds in a powerful bargaining position for the Geneva Conference next month.

The siege of Dien Bien Phu—last French stronghold in the Thai People's country—is now in its 129th day. The approach of the rainy season, which will turn the dust bowl plain into a sea of red mud, poses a problem for both sides. Ground fighting becomes virtually impossible during the monsoon season and the air war is brought to a halt.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 28 (AP)—Queen Ingrid celebrated her 44th birthday today.

Four Men Die As Blast Rips British Vessel

277 Women, Children Saved In Sea Drama Off N. African Coast

ALGIERS, Algeria, March 28 (AP)—The British troopship Empire Windrush was blasted by an explosion and swept by flames today as she steamed homeward along the North African coast. Almost 1,500 passengers and crew members scrambled to safety in a speedy and notably calm rescue operation.

The ship was left adrift—still burning—in the Mediterranean, a total loss.

Among those rescued without mishap were 277 women and children, dependents of servicemen, who had boarded the Empire Windrush at Asian ports. Seventeen hospitalized soldiers also were saved.

The explosion rocked the 14,651-ton vessel shortly before 8 a.m., when it was a little more than 20 miles offshore. Three men and an officer in the engineroom were killed in the blast.

Captain Orders Ship Abandoned

Within minutes, said Capt. W. Wilson, the rest of the engineroom crew was forced by the fire to come above and the flames were spreading out of control. Acrid smoke spread throughout the decks.

It was then that he gave the order to abandon ship, the captain said.

The women and children went first in lifeboats. The troops followed, scrambling over the rails and jumping into the sea with their lifejackets. The crew and more soldiers followed on ropes.

Ships of four nations—the Dutch freighter Mentor, the British cargo vessel Socotra, the Italian tanker Taigete and the Norwegian freighter Hemsefjell—quickly converged to take the survivors aboard. The Taigete took the women and children and the men were distributed among the other ships.

Within two hours of Wilson's order, all were safe. By midafternoon, all had reached Algiers.

No Indication Of Panic

There was not the slightest indication of panic among the soldiers or the women, crews of the rescue ships said. The sea was calm throughout the operation. Aside from a few men slightly injured when they jumped into the sea or scrambled down the ropes, no one was hurt.

The last they saw of the Empire Windrush it was drifting, still blazing fiercely, less than 30 miles off Cherchel, a coast town about 20 miles west of Algiers.

Three British warships, an aircraft carrier and two destroyers, were ordered to Algiers to pick up the survivors for their homeward journey.

The Empire Windrush was en route from Japan to Southampton, where it was due April 2, and had called at Hong Kong, Singapore, Colombo, Aden and Port Said. Most of the women and children had embarked at Singapore.

Air Force Probe Set By Flanders

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) criticized the Air Force today for paying commercial air carriers to transport military personnel and cargo without first collecting money the air lines owed the government for gasoline and oil.

"As a result, the government stands to lose a considerable amount of money," Flanders said. He announced a public hearing tomorrow before a Senate Armed Service subcommittee on the subject.

H. Lee White, assistant secretary of the Air Force for management, was listed as the initial witness before the subcommittee headed by Flanders. The group also includes Sens. Byrd (D-Va) and Case (R-SD).

Japanese Fishermen's Burns Almost Healed

TOKYO, Monday, March 29 (AP)—Doctors reported today burns and surface injuries have almost healed on 21 Japanese fishermen showered by the March 1 Bikini H-bomb explosion.

Radioactivity of skin and hair also has almost disappeared, the doctors said.

Siamese Girls Are Part Of Triple Birth

MONTREAL, March 28 (AP)—Triplet girls, two of them joined at the head, were born Saturday night to a Montreal mother in Catherine Booth Hospital here.

All were reported in good health at birth.

The hospital immediately invoked a news blackout on details of the birth at the request of the parents whose names were withheld.

The obstetrician who delivered the girls said the first baby was perfectly normal and weighed about five pounds. The Siamese babies followed and weighed between 4½ and five pounds each.

The doctors said he knew of no previous case where Siamese babies came as part of a triple birth.

8 Perish In Plane Crash

OSLO, Norway, March 28 (AP)—A Norwegian Catalina flying boat returning to home base after dropping mail on Norway's Spitzbergen Islands crashed into the sea today three miles south of Bear Island, about midway between Spitzbergen and the northernmost tip of Norway.

Eight lives were lost, air force headquarters announced tonight. Only one crew member survived.

Tito Challenged By Underground

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 28 (AP)—A secret underground organization challenged President Tito's Communist government today and called upon the Yugoslav people to overthrow the country's "dictatorship." It was the first sign of an organized opposition here in six years.

A communique outlining aims and objectives of the organization—which said it was organizing a Socialist party—was circulated among foreign correspondents stationed here. It bore no signature. It cautioned those who received it to destroy the copies for fear Yugoslavia's security police might attempt to trace identification.

Perhaps significantly, the document was distributed on the eve of the fourth plenary session of Yugoslavia's Central Committee, which meets tomorrow for the first time since Milovan Djilas, a vice president, was strippped of his rank for attacking government policies early this year.

Rep. Bentley Leaves Washington Hospital

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich) who was wounded seriously when a group of Puerto Rican Nationalists fired on the House March 1, left the hospital today to begin a period of convalescence.

Dr. Joseph R. Young, Casualty Hospital chief of staff, said Bentley may be able to resume his congressional duties within a month.

Of the five congressmen hit in the firing only one remains in the hospital. He is Rep. Kenneth Roberts (D-Ala) who is suffering considerable pain because of a nerve injury in the leg.

Audrey Hepburn Captures "Tony" For Acting Sweep

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—Audrey Hepburn made a clean sweep tonight of the year's top feminine acting awards by winning Broadway's "Tony" medallion for her performance in the stage play "Ondine."

The trophy to Miss Hepburn was one of 6 announced by the American Theatre Wing "for distinguished contributions to the current theatre season."

Chosen as the best dramatic play was "Teahouse of the August Moon" and "Kismet" was named the best musical. David Wayne received the stellar male dramatic award for his role in "Teahouse."

The presentations were made at a dinner in the Hotel Plaza attended by about 1,000 persons and broadcast over the NBC radio network.

The "Tonys," named in honor of Antoinette Perry, the Theatre Wing's director of World War II activities, are the legitimate theatre's equivalent of filmland's "Oscars." Tonight's were the eighth annual awards.

It was last Thursday that Elfin Miss Hepburn got an "Oscar" for her starring role in her first movie "Roman Holiday." Her portrayal of a water sprite in the medieval fantasy "Ondine" is her second Broadway part.

The best play award for "Teahouse of the August Moon" went to John Patrick, who wrote the play which is based on a book by Vern Sneider.

For authorship of "Kismet," individual medallions were given Charles Lederer and Luther Davis, who wrote the book, and to George Forrest and Robert Wright who arranged the music that was composed long ago by Alexander Borodin.

Train Leaves Rails On Flaming Trestle

STEILACOOM, Wash., March 28 (AP) — A 73-car northbound Union Pacific freight train was partly derailed crossing a flaming wooden trestle over a Puget Sound bay early today.

A brakeman was slightly burned.

A dozen cars in the center of the train were derailed by the heat-twisted tracks. Eight cars plunged into the water 30 feet below. Four others dangled precariously from the bridge, about 13 miles south of Tacoma.

Union Pacific officials estimated the loss to cars and merchandise at "about $300,000."

The brakeman, L. R. Pearson of Portland, Ore. was burned slightly.

Baghdad Struggles To Ease Flood Threat

BAGHDAD, March 28 (AP)—Flood waters gravely threatened Baghdad tonight by pressing against the city's eastern dyke, which threatened to collapse.

The Baghdad-Babubah railway line was blown up in an effort to ease the pressure and divert water into the Diyala River.

All communications to the south, east and north were cut, and no cars or trains can enter or leave the city.

Earth Swallows Village

TEHRAN, Iran, March 28 (AP) — Tehran newspapers said today giant cracks which opened in the earth after a heavy quake Thursday swallowed the village of Jezinan, about 40 miles west of Tehran.

The papers said about 200 houses vanished but the gaps opened so slowly all the villages' 840 inhabitants escaped injury.

Judge Directs Baltimore Dockers To Work All Cargo

BALTIMORE, March 28 (AP)—Federal Judge William C. Coleman tonight issued a temporary restraining order directing Baltimore longshoremen to work cargo diverted here from New York's strikebound waterfront as well as regular Baltimore shipping.

The order was signed about 6:30 p.m. (EST) after officials and attorneys of the National Labor Relations Board and of the Baltimore Steamship Trade Assn. had conferred with the judge an hour and 15 minutes.

Judge Coleman directed August Idzik, international representative of the independent International Longshoremen's Assn. and officers of its six Baltimore locals to appear in court at 4 p. m. Tuesday for a hearing to determine whether a temporary injunction will be issued.

Baltimore's 4,500 longshoremen responded to a request by national officials of the union and agreed Friday not to work any more strike diverted cargo after 6 p. m. Friday.

But yesterday a local leader reported that there had been a reversal of that decision and that they would continue working diverted cargo.

A few hours later, however, Idzik said there had been a new decision and the cargo would not be worked.

That's when the NLRB moved ahead with its plans to seek a court order today. Regional Director John A. Penello contended the union's refusal was a secondary boycott.

Some sources said that work never had actually stopped on the cargo.

Weather Forecast

The trophy to Miss Hepburn was one of 6 announced by the American Theatre Wing "for distinguished contributions to the current theatre season."

Chosen as the best dramatic play was "Teahouse of the August Moon" and "Kismet" was named the best musical. David Wayne received the stellar male dramatic award for his role in "Teahouse."

The presentations were made at a dinner in the Hotel Plaza attended by about 1,000 persons and broadcast over the NBC radio network.

The "Tonys," named in honor of Antoinette Perry, the Theatre Wing's director of World War II activities, are the legitimate theatre's equivalent of filmland's "Oscars." Tonight's were the eighth annual awards.

It was last Thursday that Elfin Miss Hepburn got an "Oscar" for her starring role in her first movie "Roman Holiday." Her portrayal of a water sprite in the medieval fantasy "Ondine" is her second Broadway part.

The best play award for "Teahouse of the August Moon" went to John Patrick, who wrote the play which is based on a book by Vern Sneider.

For authorship of "Kismet," individual medallions were given Charles Lederer and Luther Davis, who wrote the book, and to George Forrest and Robert Wright who arranged the music that was composed long ago by Alexander Borodin.

Ike May Send Nixon To Italy To Help Envoy

Aid In Fighting Red Propaganda Sought By Ambassador Luce

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower is considering sending Vice President Nixon to Italy — at the urgent request of Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce — for a brief goodwill tour to combat Communist propaganda.

Associates said the President has not yet made up his mind if or when he can spare Nixon from his Washington duties for a flying visit to a country where conditions are being viewed with increased concern here.

Mrs. Luce Under Attack

Mrs. Luce recently has come under attack of 35 extreme left wing Italian senators, who asked the Rome government to label her unwelcome and thus force her withdrawal from the country. No one expects this to happen.

Mrs. Luce's urgent request for help was understood to have been made directly to the President when she was in Washington earlier in the year.

She was understood to have said the visit of such a high ranking American official as Nixon would be welcomed in Italy by anti-Communist elements as indicating top-flight U. S. interest in their cause.

Nixon Toured Asia

Nixon has won praise within the administration for his goodwill tour of Asia last fall and his admirers feel that he would acquit himself well in Europe.

Since the vice president would not bear any diplomatic title and thus would not be directly responsible for foreign policy, some administration officials believe he could talk more frankly to the Italians about the dangers of communism than a State Department representative.

Embassy Officials In Dark

ROME, March 28 (AP)—United States Embassy officers said tonight they knew nothing about reports that Vice President Nixon may come to Italy on a goodwill tour.

Reports from Washington said the President is considering sending Nixon at the urgent request of U. S. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce, to combat Communist propaganda.

"We have had no advice whatsoever to that effect," an embassy spokesman said.

In France, where she has been conferring with U. S. and NATO officials, Mrs. Luce said she had no comment on the report.

Change In Butter Prop Plan Denied

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson tonight denied reports that his department plans to switch to a gradual decline in butter price supports rather than going through with the sharp drop from 90 to 75 per cent of parity scheduled for April 1.

Benson made the comment in answer to a question on the NBC television show "Meet the Press" about a statement Friday by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis). The senator had said "some people" in the Agriculture Department assured him they expected such a last minute change in plans to higher supports.

The big drop in butter supports has been criticized severely by some dairy groups and some dairy state congressmen.

The agriculture chief said he had no choice, under the law, except to reduce dairy products to the legal minimum because demand is not meeting the heavy supply and government-purchased butter is piling up in warehouses.

Train Leaves Rails On Flaming Trestle

STEILACOOM, Wash., March 28 (AP)—A 73-car northbound Union Pacific freight train was partly derailed crossing a flaming wooden trestle over a Puget Sound bay early today.

A brakeman was slightly burned.

A dozen cars in the center of the train were derailed by the heat-twisted tracks. Eight cars plunged into the water 30 feet below. Four others dangled precariously from the bridge, about 13 miles south of Tacoma.

Union Pacific officials estimated the loss to cars and merchandise at "about $300,000."

The brakeman, L. R. Pearson of Portland, Ore. was burned slightly.

Strange Things Happening In Moscow

Eisenhower Salutes Indochina Defenders

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — President Eisenhower spoke out strongly today in praise of the defenders of Dien Bien Phu, and expressed "my admiration and best wishes" to the commander of that beleaguered Indochinese fortress.

Through diplomatic channels, he dispatched an unusual message to President Rene Coty of France and to Bao Dai, chief of state of Viet Nam, commending the "gallantry and stamina of the commander and the soldiers who are defending Dien Bien Phu."

The White House announced the action while Secretary of State Dulles was putting the final touches on a speech which is expected to include strong policy statements on the Indochina crisis.

Dulles Conferred With Ike

Dulles conferred with Eisenhower at the White House yesterday about what he plans to say in an address in New York Monday night to the Overseas Press Club.

He will speak at 9 p.m. EST.

Communist Vietminh forces have been attacking much smaller French loyal forces at Dien Bien Phu with a ferocity that has led some observers to believe they are seeking primarily a victory which would bolster the Red bargaining position at the Geneva Conference opening April 26.

The problems of Indochina and Korea will be discussed at that meeting, to be attended by the United States, Great Britain, France, Russia and Red China.

Eisenhower's message was seen as an effort to bolster the morale of the defenders and to assert once again the prime importance this country attaches to the outcome of the fighting in the seven-year-old Indochinese War, of which many Frenchmen are becoming weary.

Identical Messages

The President sent identical messages to the heads of the French and Viet Nam governments.

"In common with millions of my countrymen," he said, "I salute the gallantry and stamina of the commander and soldiers who are defending Dien Bien Phu. We have the most profound admiration for the brave and resourceful fight being waged there by troops from France, Viet Nam, and other parts of the French Union.

"Those soldiers, true to their own great traditions, are defending the cause of human freedom and are demonstrating in the truest fashion qualities on which the survival of the free world depends."

Baghdad Struggles To Ease Flood Threat

BAGHDAD, March 28 (AP)—Flood waters gravely threatened Baghdad tonight by pressing against the city's eastern dyke, which threatened to collapse.

The Baghdad-Babubah railway line was blown up in an effort to ease the pressure and divert water into the Diyala River.

All communications to the south, east and north were cut, and no cars or trains can enter or leave the city.

Earth Swallows Village

TEHRAN, Iran, March 28 (AP) — Tehran newspapers said today giant cracks which opened in the earth after a heavy quake Thursday swallowed the village of Jezinan, about 40 miles west of Tehran.

The papers said about 200 houses vanished but the gaps opened so slowly all the villages' 840 inhabitants escaped injury.

W. Virginia Town Auctions Off Jail To Repair Streets

SAND FORK, W. Va., March 25 (AP)—Crime seems to present no problem for this town of some 250 persons.

The jail was auctioned off yesterday for $231 and proceeds are to be used to repair town streets. Council member Ray Jones said the small, frame building hadn't been used for at least 16 years to put badmen behind bars.

A local trucker bought the jail house, but he hasn't said what he's going to do with it.

"Joe Must Go" Club Is Formed

SAUK CITY, Wis., March 28 (AP) — A "Joe Must Go" club to handle a campaign aimed at recalling Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) from office was formed today.

Between 400 and 500 people, from 43 of Wisconsin's 71 counties, met in a ballroom in this small town of 1,700 on the banks of the Wisconsin River.

The meeting was quiet and orderly, but as time went on the gathering became more lively and, led by about 20 University of Wisconsin students, chanted "Joe must go." Several television and motion picture newsreel cameramen were on hand to record the event.

Leroy Gore, editor of the weekly Sauk Prairie Star, who initiated the recall campaign, told the audience that 125,000 people already had signed petitions for a special recall election. He said that nearly 404,000 signatures would be needed within a 60-day period to bring about the special election. Ivan Nestingen, an attorney from Madison who was temporary chairman of the meeting, said the petition campaign would close May 17.

Judge Directs Baltimore Dockers To Work All Cargo

BALTIMORE, March 28 (AP)—Federal Judge William C. Coleman tonight issued a temporary restraining order directing Baltimore longshoremen to work cargo diverted here from New York's strikebound waterfront as well as regular Baltimore shipping.

The order was signed about 6:30 p.m. (EST) after officials and attorneys of the National Labor Relations Board and of the Baltimore Steamship Trade Assn. had conferred with the judge an hour and 15 minutes.

Judge Coleman directed August Idzik, international representative of the independent International Longshoremen's Assn. and officers of its six Baltimore locals to appear in court at 4 p. m. Tuesday for a hearing to determine whether a temporary injunction will be issued.

Baltimore's 4,500 longshoremen responded to a request by national officials of the union and agreed Friday not to work any more strike diverted cargo after 6 p. m. Friday.

But yesterday a local leader reported that there had been a reversal of that decision and that they would continue working diverted cargo.

A few hours later, however, Idzik said there had been a new decision and the cargo would not be worked.

That's when the NLRB moved ahead with its plans to seek a court order today. Regional Director John A. Penello contended the union's refusal was a secondary boycott.

Some sources said that work never had actually stopped on the cargo.

French Assaults Force Vietminh To Delay Attack

HANOI, Indochina, March 28 (AP)—French forces smashed at Vietminh entrenchments surrounding their beleaguered fortress of Dien Bien Phu again today, forcing the Communist-led rebels to halt preparations for a new infantry assault. A French army spokesman said the Vietminh had dug a network of trenches less than 600 feet from the dust bowl bastion. Today's raids, he added, forced the rebels to taper off, at least for the moment, construction of positions obviously intended as takeoff points for mass infantry charges.

French Planes Grounded

Bad flying weather, however, put a damper on the French aerial assault. The rebels took advantage of the lull to move up fresh troops and supplies. The Vietminh commander, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap appeared unwilling to try a new assault until he has mustered high numerical superiority over the French defenders.

Giap, busy rounding up guerrilla fighters to bolster his regular striking force, has ignored appeals by the French commander in chief, Gen. Henri Navarre, for a cease-fire until the French wounded can be removed from the hemmed-in fortress.

The battle for Dien Bien Phu is being watched closely by people in France and many other lands. They feel that if the French can knock out of action the rebel horde besieging the fortress, they will have taken the first big step toward ending the seven-year Indochina War.

Siege In 129th Day

If rebel chieftain Moscow-educated Ho Chi Minh wins, however, he will have inflicted a major defeat on the French and put the Reds in a powerful bargaining position for the Geneva Conference next month.

The siege of Dien Bien Phu—last French stronghold in the Thai People's country—is now in its 129th day. The approach of the rainy season, which will turn the dust bowl plain into a sea of red mud, poses a problem for both sides. Ground fighting becomes virtually impossible during the monsoon season and the air war is brought to a halt.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 28 (AP)—Queen Ingrid celebrated her 44th birthday today.

277 Women, Children Saved In Sea Drama Off N. African Coast

ALGIERS, Algeria, March 28 (AP)—The British troopship Empire Windrush was blasted by an explosion and swept by flames today as she steamed homeward along the North African coast. Almost 1,500 passengers and crew members scrambled to safety in a speedy and notably calm rescue operation.

Among those rescued without mishap were 277 women and children, dependents of servicemen, who had boarded the Empire Windrush at Asian ports. Seventeen hospitalized soldiers also were saved.

The explosion rocked the 14,651-ton vessel shortly before 8 a.m., when it was a little more than 20 miles offshore. Three men and an officer in the engineroom were killed in the blast.

Captain Orders Ship Abandoned

Within minutes, said Capt. W. Wilson, the rest of the engineroom crew was forced by the fire to come above and the flames were spreading out of control. Acrid smoke spread throughout the decks.

It was then that he gave the order to abandon ship, the captain said.

The women and children went first in lifeboats. The troops followed, scrambling over the rails and jumping into the sea with their lifejackets. The crew and more soldiers followed on ropes.

Ships of four nations—the Dutch freighter Mentor, the British cargo vessel Socotra, the Italian tanker Taigete and the Norwegian freighter Hemsefjell—quickly converged to take the survivors aboard. The Taigete took the women and children and the men were distributed among the other ships.

Within two hours of Wilson's order, all were safe. By midafternoon, all had reached Algiers.

No Indication Of Panic

There was not the slightest indication of panic among the soldiers or the women, crews of the rescue ships said. The sea was calm throughout the operation. Aside from a few men slightly injured when they jumped into the sea or scrambled down the ropes, no one was hurt.

The last they saw of the Empire Windrush it was drifting, still blazing fiercely, less than 30 miles off Cherchel, a coast town about 20 miles west of Algiers.

Three British warships, an aircraft carrier and two destroyers, were ordered to Algiers to pick up the survivors for their homeward journey.

The Empire Windrush was en route from Japan to Southampton, where it was due April 2, and had called at Hong Kong, Singapore, Colombo, Aden and Port Said. Most of the women and children had embarked at Singapore.

Air Force Probe Set By Flanders

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) criticized the Air Force today for paying commercial air carriers to transport military personnel and cargo without first collecting money the air lines owed the government for gasoline and oil.

"As a result, the government stands to lose a considerable amount of money," Flanders said. He announced a public hearing tomorrow before a Senate Armed Service subcommittee on the subject.

H. Lee White, assistant secretary of the Air Force for management, was listed as the initial witness before the subcommittee headed by Flanders. The group also includes Sens. Byrd (D-Va) and Case (R-SD).

Japanese Fishermen's Burns Almost Healed

TOKYO, Monday, March 29 (AP)—Doctors reported today burns and surface injuries have almost healed on 21 Japanese fishermen showered by the March 1 Bikini H-bomb explosion.

Radioactivity of skin and hair also has almost disappeared, the doctors said.

Mundt Would Defer New Hearings Until After M'Carthy-Army Probe

Lack Of Counsel Delays Inquiry

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said today the Senate Investigations subcommittee should finish its fact-finding job in the row between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and top Army officials before embarking on any new hearings.

McCarthy, who has turned over the subcommittee's chairmanship to Mundt while that probe is made, has indicated he would like to go ahead with other investigations in the meantime.

Inability to obtain special counsel has delayed the start of the subcommittee's public hearings on the charges and counter-charges exchanged by McCarthy and Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and their aides.

Mundt said he did not think it would be possible now for the hearings, which are to be telecast, to get under way before next week.

McCarthy last week suddenly called and then canceled within an hour, a subcommittee meeting to go over what he called evidence of Communists in defense plants and of graft and corruption in Alaskan development projects, with a view to starting public hearings.

The three Democrats on the subcommittee and Sen. Potter (R-Mich) vetoed the move, saying agreement had been reached earlier by all the members that no other hearings would be held until after the public airing of the McCarthy-Army dispute.

McCarthy joined in the agreement, but said later that at the time it was made, members had anticipated a prompt hearing of his controversy with Army officials.

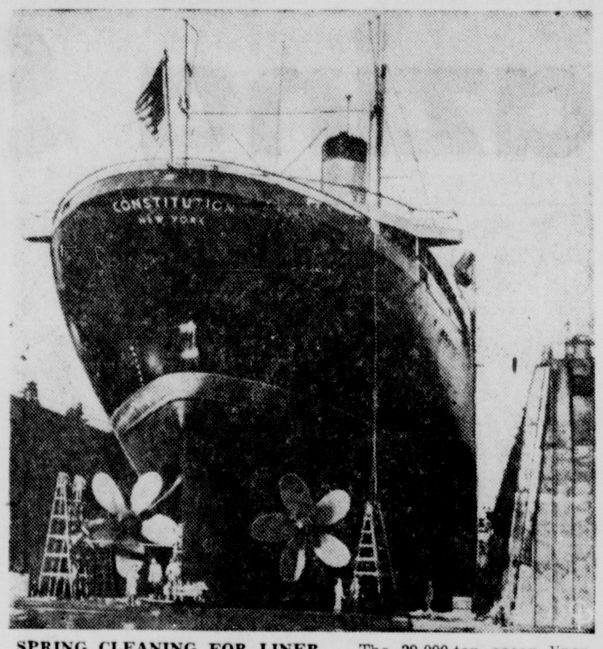

Despite the delay, however, Mundt aligned himself with subcommittee members opposing a change in plans.

"I certainly don't think we should open any new hearings," he said in an interview. "I think we ought to finish this job before we have any other hearings."

Mundt did say, however, he had been receiving some letters saying the subcommittee ought to get its probe out of the way "so you can go back to investigating Communists and crooks."

McCarthy also has said that what he has called "this tempest in a teapot" was preventing the subcommittee from making full use of its regular staff and its funds for searching out any Communists or their protectors in government.

The parrot lives longer than any other bird.

SPRING CLEANING FOR LINER — The 29,000-ton ocean liner Constitution is shown in a Baltimore drydock where it is undergoing an annual spring overhauling. Third largest American passenger vessel in Atlantic service, it will be ready to sail from New York April 21 on a Mediterranean cruise.

Dog Keeps Watch Over His Master's Body For 15 Weeks

BAMFORD, England, March 28 (AP)—Fifteen weeks ago Joseph Tagg, 86, disappeared while tending his sheep. Missing with him was his 12-year old collie, "Tip."

After the stormiest winter in years two shepherds tending flocks in the area came across them today. Tagg was dead. Tip, weak and hungry but still alive, lay near the body.

Disappointed Painter Strangles His Wife

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., March 28 (AP)—A 32-year-old millworker, disappointed with a painting job and angered because his wife tried to finish the work, strangled her with a clothesline early today, Patrolman George Botnovich reported.

Botnovich said Eugene Powers was jailed on a murder charge.

The officer told this story:

Powers was painting an upstairs bedroom last night. When his efforts turned out badly, he said his wife tried to take over.

"Then I got real mad and started to hit her," Powers was quoted as saying.

Powers then dragged his wife downstairs and strangled her with a clothesline, Botnovich said, and a few minutes later he phoned police.

Tornado Hits Town

ANDERSON, Ind., March 28 — A small tornado chewed into Anderson late this afternoon, working through 10 blocks of residences with enough force to tear several houses off foundations.

Five Prisoners Flee Minn. Jail

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 28 (AP)—Five prisoners, one brandishing a homemade stiletto, slugged one guard and overpowered another to escape from the Ramsey County Jail here today.

All the men are considered by authorities to be dangerous. The homemade weapon was fashioned with a piece of wire inserted between two sticks.

One of the men, Murl Russell Jarvis, 29, Richmond, Ind., was only recently returned here to stand trial on a charge of bank robbery. Jarvis was charged with taking $101 from the First National Bank of Cannon Falls, Minn., Dec. 8.

Jarvis is also accused in connection with the robbery of the Farmers Savings Bank, Bondurant, Iowa., Dec. 18 in which between $5,000 and $8,000 was stolen, and with the Nov. 9 holdup of a Hastings, Minn. grocery in which a bandit took $1,400.

Another of the escapees, Arland L. Gerberding, 33, Madelia, Minn., has four convictions, the last of them Wednesday for his role in a Jan. 8 St. Paul bar holdup.

Too Much Reliance On H-Bombs Opposed

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) said tonight it was dangerous to rely too much on H-bombs, at the expense of strength in conventional weapons, since the hydrogen bomb may eventually be outlawed.

In a TV debate (Dumont's "Meet Your Congress"), Jackson also criticized the massive retaliation policy enunciated by Secretary of State Dulles. He said there is danger of "putting all our eggs in one basket."

Jackson was joined in his attack on the "new look" military program by Rep. Yorty (D-Calif). The policy was defended by Sens. Martin (R-Pa) and Case (R-SD).

Pope Celebrates Mass

VATICAN CITY, March 28 (AP)—Pope Pius celebrated mass in the private chapel of his Vatican apartment today for the first time since he became ill more than two months ago.

Wage Cuts Opposed

WOONSOCKET, R. I., March 28 (AP) — Some 5,000 textile workers in Rhode Island and Maine voted overwhelmingly today against acceptance of management proposals for wage cuts.

Western Europe Relies On Planes To Block Russia

LONDON, March 28 (AP)—Western Europe is spending more money than ever before in peacetime on air power to block Soviet aggression. The pattern resembles that of the United States.

Allied strategists believe that if war comes the first blinding phase will be fought out between giant atomic air fleets.

The Western European nations are building protective umbrellas of jet fighters, but the theory is some bombers would get through. So statesmen such as Prime Minister Churchill frankly are preparing to fight if necessary through crippling devastation.

To deter attack, Britain's Royal Air Force is creating a powerful counterpunch, a spanking new fleet of atomic jet bombers.

This RAF force would act in concert with what still remains western Europe's No. 1 guardian angel—the U. S. Strategic Bomber Force—after the first blow from the East.

The west European countries plan this year to put more than one fourth of their defense budgets—about three billion dollars—into their air forces. This is less than one-tenth of what American spending on air power will be, but is still a whopping big sum on this side of the Atlantic.

Spending on air power will take a record high percentage of the defense budgets. The percentage has more than doubled since 1946, the first year after World War II, in countries such as France and Britain.

But the European allies—unlike the United States—are not making big cuts in their armies. Manpower will stay about the same as last year along the 4,000-mile defense line running from Norway to Turkey.

With both the Communist and Western worlds in possession of nuclear weapons, British Defense Minister Lord Alexander sees any global war beginning with a period of intense atomic attacks, lasting a relatively short time but inflicting great destruction and damage.

Confederate Veteran 'Commands' Jet Base

AUSTIN, March 28 (AP)—The band played Dixie, the crowd let off rebel yells and an 111-year-old Confederate veteran in a movie studio uniform today took honorary command of a jet air force base.

He was Walter Williams, the oldest of five living veterans of the War between the States. Williams, obviously weary, watched as modern low slung sports cars seeking national honors flashed by on the Bergstrom Air Force Base runways here.

Then he ate lunch with Col. Ben Lichty, base commander, and actor James Stewart, who had substituted for him earlier in reading the orders of the day. Williams flew here from Bryan, near his home at Franklin.

Stevenson In Hospital

Farmer Dies After His Foot Torn Off

FREMONT, Mich., March 28 (AP) — Death brought relief today to Fred Obits, whose left foot was torn off in an agonizing farm accident.

Obits, 37, was tinkering with an automatic spray rig shortly before lunch Saturday. A power shaft connected with a tractor caught his pantleg and pulled his foot into the whirling mechanism.

Obits' 5-year-old son, Bruce, playing nearby, screamed for help. His mother, Lucy, came running from the farmhouse.

Mrs. Obits, in her panic, was unable to shut off the engine. Instead she ran to the house and called Obits' brothers, half a mile away. By the time they arrived Fred's foot had been severed at the ankle, freeing him from the shaft.

U. S. Executions Take Big Drop

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—The Federal Prison Bureau said today there were fewer executions in the United States in 1953 than in any year since accurate record-keeping was started in 1930.

The total number of death sentences carried out by civil authorities was 62—20 fewer than in 1950, the previous low year.

The record high was established in 1935 with 199 executions. The average for the years 1930-52 was 140.

There were executions last year in only 21 of the 44 jurisdictions in which the death penalty is legal, that is 42 states, the District of Columbia and under federal law.

Four states accounted for 26 executions, or 42 per cent of the total. These were California and Georgia with 8 each, and New York and North Carolina with 5 apiece.

Of the 62 executions last year, 51 were for murder, 7 for rape, 2 for espionage and 2 for kidnaping.

USIA Will Double Overseas TV Time

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—The government's foreign propaganda chief reported today that television is proving to be an effective medium for telling America's story abroad and he is therefore doubling overseas television programs.

Theodore C. Streibert, director of the U. S. Information Agency, announced tonight that the 30 minutes of TV film made available to 18 posts in 14 countries each week will be increased to 75 minutes of film on April 15.

The limited use so far made of television abroad by USIA, Streibert said, indicates "that there are vast opportunities" for using the eye as well as the ear — target of the Voice of America for years — to sell the United States and its policies and to fight anti-American propaganda.

Crash Into Tree Fatal

SALISBURY, Md., March 28 (AP) — William Ayrs Riley, 23, of Parsonsburg, was killed a few miles east of here early today when his car crashed into a tree at the intersection of Hearn and Walston Switch Roads.

Byrd, Under New Mahoney Attack, Picks Up Backing

[By The Associated Press]

Dr. H. C. Byrd gained the support Sunday of South Baltimore's Della-Wyatt Democratic faction while George P. Mahoney, his opponent in the race for Democratic nomination for governor, attacked Byrd in an address at a Baltimore Democratic meeting.

More than 150 precinct and ward leaders in the organization headed by State Sen. George W. Della and Joseph M. Wyatt gave their endorsement to Byrd at the Sunday meeting.

Julian B. Carrick, leader of another faction in the district, had already endorsed Mahoney. Another group, made up of former Carrick men, was reported trying to put across Delegate Ward L. Reisinger for the seat now held by Della, who is president of the Senate.

Mahoney spoke at a meeting of the D'Alesandro Club of Maryland Sunday night, contending that Byrd was on record as saying the position of governor would bring him no honor, but that he would bring honor to the governorship.

Mahoney read a clipping he described as being from the Washington Post on Sunday, Jan. 10. It quoted Dr. Byrd as saying:

"This will be the most unusual campaign you ever saw. I've got more to offer this job than the job has to offer me .... I don't believe it is necessary to run around the state importuning every Tom, Dick and Harry."

"How do you like that?" asked Mahoney. "No wonder his students and employes at the university called him 'the king'."

Mahoney said he felt otherwise and added: "I don't care if your name is Tom, Dick or Harry, I'd like to have your vote ...."

In another Sunday development, F. Byrne Austin, former executive director of the War Claims Commission, announced at Takoma Park today that he would seek Democratic nomination to Congress from Maryland's Six District.

Charles M. Irelan of Silver Spring, onetime legal adviser to President Truman, had previously announced his candidacy for the nomination. The incumbent is Rep. Dewitt S. Hyde of Bethesda, a Republican. Hyde has said he will seek reelection.

AEC Chairman Back

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) — Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, arrived by plane tonight from the commission's Pacific proving grounds.

Strauss was on his way to Washington after a visit to the proving grounds following the March 1 hydrogen bomb test.

He declined to discuss any aspects of the explosion which turned out to be much more devastating than had been expected.

He said he would report to President Eisenhower but said, "It will be a purely routine session."

St. Louis Executive Lists 10 Ways To Invite Heart Attack

KANSAS CITY, March 28 (AP)—Ten rules for membership in the Coronary Club—all invitations to heart attacks—are cited by Francis J. Curtis, St. Louis business executive.

Curtis, vice-president of Monsanto Chemical Co., listed his rules in urging conservation of executives in a speech to the American Chemical Society.

Here are Curtis' 10 rules which he says are invitations for a heart attack:

1. Your job comes first; personal considerations are secondary.
2. Go to the office evenings, Saturdays, Sundays, holidays.
3. Take the briefcase home on evenings you don't go to the office. This way you can review completely all troubles and worries of the day.
4. Never say no to a request; always say yes.
5. Accept all invitations to meetings, banquets, committees, etc.
6. Don't eat a restful relaxing meal—always plan a conference for the meal hour.
7. Regard fishing, hunting, golf, bowling, billiards, cards, gardening, as a waste of time or money.
8. Believe it's poor policy to take all the vacation allowed you.
9. Never delegate responsibility to others, carry the entire load yourself at all times.
10. If your work calls for traveling, work all day and drive all night to keep the next morning's appointment.

Curtis said he believes a main way to help people avoid coronaries is through psychological help, such as conferences between a man and his boss where problems are discussed openly to resolve or avoid unnecessary worries.

"I believe that worry has killed more men than cancer, though cancer often gets the credit. . . ."

First use of scrap iron in America for resmelting purposes occurred in Massachusetts in 1646.

Mundt Would Defer New Hearings Until After M'Carthy-Army Probe

Lack Of Counsel Delays Inquiry

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said today the Senate Investigations subcommittee should finish its fact-finding job in the row between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and top Army officials before embarking on any new hearings.

McCarthy, who has turned over the subcommittee's chairmanship to Mundt while that probe is made, has indicated he would like to go ahead with other investigations in the meantime.

Inability to obtain special counsel has delayed the start of the subcommittee's public hearings on the charges and counter-charges exchanged by McCarthy and Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and their aides.

Mundt said he did not think it would be possible now for the hearings, which are to be telecast, to get under way before next week.

McCarthy last week suddenly called and then canceled within an hour, a subcommittee meeting to go over what he called evidence of Communists in defense plants and of graft and corruption in Alaskan development projects, with a view to starting public hearings.

The three Democrats on the subcommittee and Sen. Potter (R-Mich) vetoed the move, saying agreement had been reached earlier by all the members that no other hearings would be held until after the public airing of the McCarthy-Army dispute.

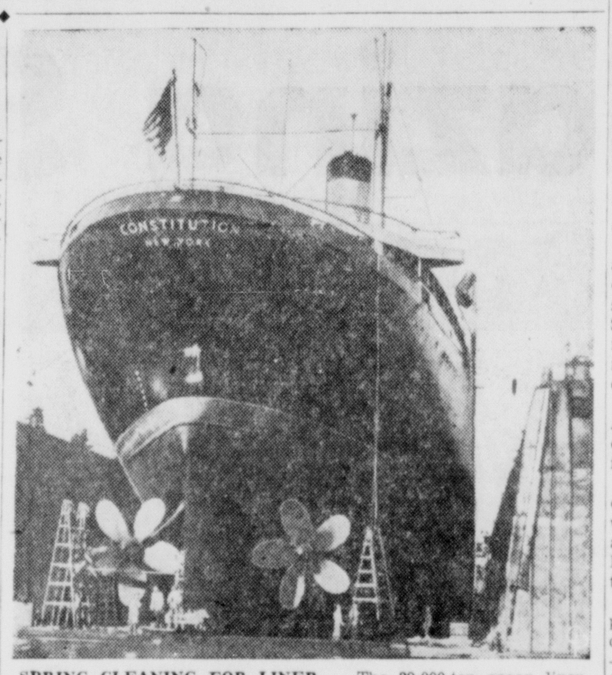

McCarthy joined in the agreement, but said later that at the time it was made, members had anticipated a prompt hearing of his controversy with Army officials.

Despite the delay, however, Mundt aligned himself with subcommittee members opposing a change in plans.

"I certainly don't think we should open any new hearings," he said in an interview. "I think we ought to finish this job before we have any other hearings."

Mundt did say, however, he had been receiving some letters saying the subcommittee ought to get its probe out of the way "so you can go back to investigating Communists and crooks."

McCarthy also has said that what he has called "this tempest in a teapot" was preventing the subcommittee from making full use of its regular staff and its funds for searching out any Communists or their protectors in government.

Dog Keeps Watch Over His Master's Body For 15 Weeks

BAMFORD, England, March 28 (AP)—Fifteen weeks ago Joseph Tagg, 86, disappeared while tending his sheep. Missing with him was his 12-year old collie, "Tip."

After the stormiest winter in years two shepherds tending flocks in the area came across them today. Tagg was dead. Tip, weak and hungry but still alive, lay near the body.

Disappointed Painter Strangles His Wife

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., March 28 (AP)—A 32-year-old millworker, disappointed with a painting job and angered because his wife tried to finish the work, strangled her with a clothesline early today, Partrolman George Botnovich reported.

Botnovich said Eugene Powers was jailed on a murder charge.

The officer told this story:

Powers was painting an upstairs bedroom last night. When his efforts turned out badly, he said his wife tried to take over.

"Then I got real mad and started to hit her," Powers was quoted as saying.

Powers then dragged his wife downstairs and strangled her with a clothesline, Botnovich said, and a few minutes later he phoned police.

Tornado Hits Town

Five Prisoners Flee Minn. Jail

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 28 (AP)—Five prisoners, one brandishing a homemade stiletto, slugged one guard and overpowered another to escape from the Ramsey County Jail here today.

All the men are considered by authorities to be dangerous. The homemade weapon was fashioned with a piece of wire inserted between two sticks.

One of the men, Murl Russell Jarvis, 29, Richmond, Ind., was only recently returned here to stand trial on a charge of bank robbery. Jarvis was charged with taking $101 from the First National Bank of Cannon Falls, Minn., Dec. 8.

Jarvis is also accused in connection with the robbery of the Farmers Savings Bank, Bondurant, Iowa., Dec. 18 in which between $5,000 and $8,000 was stolen, and with the Nov. 9 holdup of a Hastings, Minn. grocery in which a bandit took $1,400.

Another of the escapees, Arland L. Gerberding, 33, Madelia, Minn., has four convictions, the last of them Wednesday for his role in a Jan. 8 St. Paul bar holdup.

Too Much Reliance On H-Bombs Opposed

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) said tonight it was dangerous to rely too much on H-bombs, at the expense of strength in conventional weapons, since the hydrogen bomb may eventually be outlawed.

In a TV debate (Dumont's "Meet Your Congress"), Jackson also criticized the massive retaliation policy enunciated by Secretary of State Dulles. He said there is danger of "putting all our eggs in one basket."

Jackson was joined in his attack on the "new look" military program by Rep. Yorty (D-Calif). The policy was defended by Sens. Martin (R-Pa) and Case (R-SD).

Western Europe Relies On Planes To Block Russia

LONDON, March 28 (AP)—Western Europe is spending more money than ever before in peacetime on air power to block Soviet aggression. The pattern resembles that of the United States.

Allied strategists believe that if war comes the first blinding phase will be fought out between giant atomic air fleets.

The Western European nations are building protective umbrellas of jet fighters, but the theory is some bombers would get through. So statesmen such as Prime Minister Churchill frankly are preparing to fight if necessary through crippling devastation.

To deter attack, Britain's Royal Air Force is creating a powerful counterpunch, a spanking new fleet of atomic jet bombers.

This RAF force would act in concert with what still remains western Europe's No. 1 guardian angel—the U. S. Strategic Bomber Force—after the first blow from the East.

The west European countries plan this year to put more than one fourth of their defense budgets—about three billion dollars—into their air forces. This is less than one-tenth of what American spending on air power will be, but is still a whopping big sum on this side of the Atlantic.

Spending on air power will take a record high percentage of the defense budgets. The percentage has more than doubled since 1946, the first year after World War II, in countries such as France and Britain.

But the European allies—unlike the United States—are not making big cuts in their armies. Manpower will stay about the same as last year along the 4,000-mile defense line running from Norway to Turkey.

With both the Communist and Western worlds in possession of nuclear weapons, British Defense Minister Lord Alexander sees any global war beginning with a period of intense atomic attacks, lasting a relatively short time but inflicting great destruction and damage.

Confederate Veteran 'Commands' Jet Base

AUSTIN, March 28 (AP)—The band played Dixie, the crowd let off rebel yells and an 111-year-old Confederate veteran in a movie studio uniform today took honorary command of a jet air force base.

He was Walter Williams, the oldest of five living veterans of the War between the States. Williams, obviously weary, watched as modern low slung sports cars seeking national honors flashed by on the Bergstrom Air Force Base runways here.

Then he ate lunch with Col. Ben Lichty, base commander, and actor James Stewart, who had substituted for him earlier in reading the orders of the day. Williams flew here from Bryan, near his home at Franklin.

Stevenson In Hospital

Farmer Dies After His Foot Torn Off

FREMONT, Mich., March 28 (AP) — Death brought relief today to Fred Obits, whose left foot was torn off in an agonizing farm accident.

Obits, 37, was tinkering with an automatic spray rig shortly before lunch Saturday. A power shaft connected with a tractor caught his pantleg and pulled his foot into the whirling mechanism.

Obits' 5-year-old son, Bruce, playing nearby, screamed for help. His mother, Lucy, came running from the farmhouse.

Mrs. Obits, in her panic, was unable to shut off the engine. Instead she ran to the house and called Obits' brothers, half a mile away. By the time they arrived Fred's foot had been severed at the ankle, freeing him from the shaft.

U. S. Executions Take Big Drop

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—The Federal Prison Bureau said today there were fewer executions in the United States in 1953 than in any year since accurate record-keeping was started in 1930.

The total number of death sentences carried out by civil authorities was 62—20 fewer than in 1950, the previous low year.

The record high was established in 1935 with 199 executions. The average for the years 1930-52 was 140.

There were executions last year in only 21 of the 44 jurisdictions in which the death penalty is legal, that is 42 states, the District of Columbia and under federal law.

Four states accounted for 26 executions, or 42 per cent of the total. These were California and Georgia with 8 each, and New York and North Carolina with 5 apiece.

Of the 62 executions last year, 51 were for murder, 7 for rape, 2 for espionage and 2 for kidnaping.

USIA Will Double Overseas TV Time

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—The government's foreign propaganda chief reported today that television is proving to be an effective medium for telling America's story abroad and he is therefore doubling overseas television programs.

Theodore C. Streibert, director of the U. S. Information Agency, announced tonight that the 30 minutes of TV film made available to 18 posts in 14 countries each week will be increased to 75 minutes of film on April 15.

The limited use so far made of television abroad by USIA, Streibert said, indicates "that there are vast opportunities" for using the eye as well as the ear — target of the Voice of America for years — to sell the United States and its policies and to fight anti-American propaganda.

Byrd, Under New Mahoney Attack, Picks Up Backing

[By The Associated Press]

Dr. H. C. Byrd gained the support Sunday of South Baltimore's Della-Wyatt Democratic faction while George P. Mahoney, his opponent in the race for Democratic nomination for governor, attacked Byrd in an address at a Baltimore Democratic meeting.

More than 150 precinct and ward leaders in the organization headed by State Sen. George W. Della and Joseph M. Wyatt gave their endorsement to Byrd at the Sunday meeting.

Julian B. Carrick, leader of another faction in the district, had already endorsed Mahoney. Another group, made up of former Carrick men, was reported trying to put across Delegate Ward L. Reisinger for the seat now held by Della, who is president of the Senate.

Mahoney spoke at a meeting of the D'Alesandro Club of Maryland Sunday night, contending that Byrd was on record as saying the position of governor would bring him no honor, but that he would bring honor to the governorship.

Mahoney read a clipping he described as being from the Washington Post on Sunday, Jan. 10. It quoted Dr. Byrd as saying:

"This will be the most unusual campaign you ever saw. I've got more to offer this job than the job has to offer me .... I don't believe it is necessary to run around the state importuning every Tom, Dick and Harry."

"How do you like that?" asked Mahoney. "No wonder his students and employes at the university called him 'the king'."

Mahoney said he felt otherwise and added: "I don't care if your name is Tom, Dick or Harry, I'd like to have your vote ...."

In another Sunday development, F. Byrne Austin, former executive director of the War Claims Commission, announced at Takoma Park today that he would seek Democratic nomination to Congress from Maryland's Six District.

Charles M. Irelan of Silver Spring, onetime legal adviser to President Truman, had previously announced his candidacy for the nomination. The incumbent is Rep. Dewitt S. Hyde of Bethesda, a Republican. Hyde has said he will seek reelection.

AEC Chairman Back

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) — Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, arrived by plane tonight from the commission's Pacific proving grounds.

Strauss was on his way to Washington after a visit to the proving grounds following the March 1 hydrogen bomb test.

He declined to discuss any aspects of the explosion which turned out to be much more devastating than had been expected.

He said he would report to President Eisenhower but said, "It will be a purely routine session."

St. Louis Executive Lists 10 Ways To Invite Heart Attack

KANSAS CITY, March 28 (AP)—Ten rules for membership in the Coronary Club—all invitations to heart attacks—are cited by Francis J. Curtis, St. Louis business executive.

Curtis, vice-president of Monsanto Chemical Co., listed his rules in urging conservation of executives in a speech to the American Chemical Society.

Here are Curtis' 10 rules which he says are invitations for a heart attack:

1. Your job comes first; personal considerations are secondary.
2. Go to the office evenings, Saturdays, Sundays, holidays.
3. Take the briefcase home on evenings you don't go to the office. This way you can review completely all troubles and worries of the day.
4. Never say no to a request; always say yes.
5. Accept all invitations to meetings, banquets, committees, etc.
6. Don't eat a restful relaxing meal—always plan a conference for the meal hour.
7. Regard fishing, hunting, golf, bowling, billiards, cards, gardening, as a waste of time or money.
8. Believe it's poor policy to take all the vacation allowed you.
9. Never delegate responsibility to others, carry the entire load yourself at all times.
10. If your work calls for traveling, work all day and drive all night to keep the next morning's appointment.

Curtis said he believes a main way to help people avoid coronaries is through psychological help, such as conferences between a man and his boss where problems are discussed openly to resolve or avoid unnecessary worries.

"I believe that worry has killed more men than cancer, though cancer often gets the credit. . . ."

First use of scrap iron in America for resmelting purposes occurred in Massachusetts in 1646.

Noel Speir Cook Seeks 3d Term At State House

Noel Speir Cook, local attorney, has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election to the House of Delegates on the Republican ticket.

Cook was born at Frostburg and is descended from the Speir family, among the early Scottish settlers of Lonaconing and long prominent in business in this county. He was graduated from Beall High School and Frostburg State Teachers College.

He worked at the Celanese plant and taught school for a short time before entering the University of Maryland Law School, from which he was graduated in 1930, having attended night classes while working in the daytime at the Fidelity and Deposit Company, Baltimore, as assistant to Theodore R. McKeldin, present Governor of Maryland.

While at the university he was president of the Junior class and in his Senior year he distinguished himself by winning the Honor Case, the most coveted prize that the law school offers. He passed the bar examinations a few months after his graduation and became associated with the Baltimore law firm of Keech, Deming, Carman and Tucker, where he remained until 1934. At that time he returned to Frostburg to resume practice in this county. He was attorney for the Town of Lonaconing for a number of years and at the present time is vice president of the Allegany County Bar Association.

Cook was elected to the House of Delegates in 1946 and was re-elected in 1950. During both sessions he was appointed by the Speaker to serve on the powerful House Judiciary Committee.

He is a member of the Young Men's Republican Club of Frostburg and was the first Frostburg member of Cumberland Chapter, Order of DeMolay. He is a 32d degree Mason and is a member of the Elks, Eagles, Tall Cedars, Ali Ghan Shrine, El Fidel Club, and Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity.

In 1935 Cook was married to Ann Ruddle, of Franklin, W. Va., who was then a staff nurse at Memorial Hospital. They reside in Frostburg and attend St. Paul's Lutheran Church, where Cook is a member of the Church Council.

Local GI Arrives Here From Europe

Sgt. Charles E. Likens, son of William E. Likens, 56 Hill Street, has returned to the United States from Europe where he served with the 556th Ordnance Company.

Following a rotation leave at home, he will report to Fort Meade for reassignment.

MARION JACKSON DOWNS

Nationally Known Soloist To Give Recital March 31

Marion Jackson Downs, who will be presented in a Lenten Recital at Centre Street Methodist Church, Wednesday, March 31, at 8 p. m., is nationally known for the excellence of her singing voice and her charming personality. She is the widow of a Methodist minister better known for his work with Youth and his successful pastorates in the state of Texas.

Mrs. Downs has been soloist and guest artist at many occasions of national importance to Methodist women, namely, the National Assembly at Cleveland, Ohio in 1950; Northeastern Jurisdiction meeting at Buck Hill Falls, Pa. in 1953. She has been heard across the country before many W.S.C.S. groups, and has just returned from a trip through the midwest for a series of Lenten concerts.

The concert locally is being sponsored by Centre Street Methodist Church and Central Methodist. Proceeds from the silver offering to be taken will be presented as a gift to Mrs. Downs and to pay local expenses.

Naughton To Speak At Bank Seminar

An invitation has been extended by the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania and the Investment Bankers Association of America to Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Second National Bank, to appear on the program of their Annual Seminar at Philadelphia in April. The bid involves participation in a panel discussion of the investment standards and practices of commercial banks.

Naughton's panel has been assigned two hours on April 12, the opening day of the Seminar. Other members of the panel are three senior officers of large commercial banks in New York, Philadelphia and Cleveland.

The first round-the-world flight was made in 1924 by United States Army pilots.

Frostburg Doctor Heads Committee For 'Curly' Byrd

Dr. W. O. McLane of Frostburg has been named chairman of the Byrd for Governor Committee in Allegany County for the June primary election.

The announcement of Dr. McLane accepting the chairmanship coincides with a visit of the Democratic gubernatorial candidate to Allegany and Garrett counties this week.

Dr. Harry C. Byrd, president emeritus of the University of Maryland, will be in Garrett County today and then comes to Allegany County for tonight, tomorrow and Wednesday.

Dr. McLane was graduated from the University of Maryland Medical School in 1924. After two years of interneship, he began his medical career in Frostburg.

Since then he has continued uninterrupted practice in the Mountain City.

He is a former chairman and present member of the Board of Directors of Miners Hospital in Frostburg.

Dr. and Mrs. McLane have five daughters and one son. He is a member of Farrady Post 24, American Legion; Frostburg Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, and Frostburg Lodge, BPO Elks.

Dr. McLane will announce the members of his county "Byrd for Governor" committee at a later date.

Dr. Byrd will spend today touring Garrett County with his candidate for attorney general, State Senator Ferdinand C. Sybert of Howard County.

Tuesday and Wednesday Dr. Byrd and Sen. Sybert will have Cumberland as their headquarters for visits throughout the county.

No public meetings have been scheduled as this visit by the gubernatorial candidate will be for him to meet many citizens of the county. Dr. Byrd is, however, no stranger here, having made many trips while president of the University of Maryland.

Anniversary Set By Area Firemen

The Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Company will observe its 20th anniversary with a dinner in the fire hall this evening.

The unit's ladies auxiliary will serve the meal for the celebration.

The company was formed March 31, 1934 and incorporated February 28, 1936. Charter members still active are H. E. Abe, C. E. Mathews, L. R. Brooks and H. A. Henderson.

William Ruckman is president; Denver Sacks, vice president; Bernard I. Wenrick, recording secretary; Lloyd Brooks, financial secretary; Howard Henderson, treasurer; Brown Strawderman, chief; Jacob Ross, assistant chief, and H. E. Abe, Floyd D. Ackerman and R. C. Simpson, trustees.

The company has a building, 50 feet by 45 feet which it constructed in 1937. It includes truck room, dressing rooms, kitchen, and stage.

The unit has an Army surplus truck equipped with a 500-gallon-per-minute pump and a one-ton dual wheel forest fighting unit with a 300-gallon-per-minute pump.

Romney Mayor Gets Marriage License

Red Cross Fund Short Of Goal

Allegany County faces the possibility of not meeting its minimum quota of $35,000 in the annual Red Cross fund drive for the first time in its history.

At the conclusion of reports made Saturday at campaign headquarters in the Post Office, Walter Haschert, general chairman, reported that $27,478.91 has been contributed, more than $7000 short of the goal with only three days to go.

Funds collected to date are as follows:

Advance gifts, $10,915; clubs and organizations, $398; national firms, $953.50; classified, $6,444.97; women, $4,988.94; Frostburg, $2,060; Westernport, $1,000; Midland, $150; Mt. Savage, $300; Eckhart, $209 and Vale Summit, $59.50. Reports from Lonaconing, Barton and Ridgeley were not included.

The campaign is conducted nationwide through the month of March, and the more than 400 volunteer solicitors in the county will be asked by Haschert to conclude an intensive drive for the remaining three days in a last minute effort to bring contributions up to the assigned quota.

Officials said the campaign started off auspiciously when the advanced gift group under the chairmanship of Matthew J. Mullaney reached its quota within the opening week. To date none of the other divisions have reported sufficient amounts to meet their quota.

The various heads of these groups, which include the Women's, Classified, Organizations and County Chairman divisions, are being briefed over the weekend as to the urgent need of every solicitor devoting full time from now until Wednesday evening to make every effort to reach all possible subscribers.

Failure to meet the required minimum of $35,000, it is feared by local Red Cross officials, may curtail the highly successful blood program as well as the other services of Red Cross. Workers have been urged by the campaign committees to point out that the funds are needed urgently to (1) prepare for disaster whenever and wherever it occurs; (2) for the veterans and their families which services only Red Cross is qualified to handle, not only locally but throughout the world.

It was stated that any persons desiring to join in Red Cross work or contribute to the needed funds, if not reached by the army of solicitors, may make their contributions at Headquarters in the Post Office or by telephoning a request for a volunteer worker to call at their homes or offices.

Those taking an active part in the campaign have announced their willingness to work around the clock from now until Wednesday night to achieve the goal which the county has never before failed to meet.

Three Suits Filed Against Western Maryland Railway

Three damage suits, in which a total of $82,500 is being asked in declaration were filed in Circuit Court Saturday against the Western Maryland Railway Company.

The cases resulted from a collision between a coal truck and a locomotive on January 28, 1953 at the Virginia Avenue crossing of the railway.

One suit, filed by Attorney James S. Getty, is for $50,000 damage for Mary V. King, administratrix of the estate of Grover C. Harmon, who died from injuries received in the crash. A second suit of $25,000 by the State of Maryland for the use of Mary V. King, mother of Harmon. The third suit, filed by David Kauffman, attorney for Robert C. Klavuhn, 110 Knox Street, owner of the truck, asks damages of $7,500.

The declaration in the $50,000 suit states that Harmon was operating a coal truck of the Klavuhn company and was headed in a northerly direction when a Western Maryland locomotive traveling towards Cumberland struck the truck.

It is alleged that the crash was the result of negligence on the part of the railway company. Harmon was seriously injured in the crash and died about six months later on June 13 at University Hospital in Baltimore City where he was taken for treatment.

In the suit for $25,000 damages the declaration alleges that medical and hospital expenses for Harmon from the time of the crash in January of 1953 to his death in June of the same year totaled $10,000.

The $7,500 suit filed by Kauffman for the Klavuhn firm states that the locomotive, with a string of cars attached, approached and rapidly passed the crossing at Virginia Avenue without any warning such as sounding the whistle or ringing the bell or otherwise notifying the driver of the approach of the train. It was also stated the locomotive was traveling at a too great rate of speed.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Find time to meditate now and then — you'll find it gives a lift to the spirits.

I imagine everyone dislikes the necessity of facing another "work week" every Monday morning. Somehow nothing seems so distant as the end of that week. Yet, how often those thoughts are immediately dispelled by the glimpse of someone with a particular sparkle on that day, helping you to get your schedule off to a bright start!

Today began most pleasantly for me, when one of the Powers Girls — Polly Barnes — came into my office. She wore such a glowing smile that I ventured the suggestion that her weekend had been delightful.

Polly assured me it was. "You may be surprised, though," she said, "when I tell you I spent Saturday just thinking. I woke with the realization that I'd set no plans for the day, so I decided to make the most of an open schedule."

Meditation Period

"I lay in bed for awhile, relaxing. I listed mentally all the petty problems bothering me, and resolved every single one of them. Then I played a question-answer game, all by myself: What had I accomplished during the week for me? What had I done for others?"

When Polly said that, I chuckled, and asked how she scored her self-testing. Her score was reasonably good, she admitted, but not one hundred per cent.

"I fell down on such things as thank-you notes, and writing regular letters to my family, and keeping up with new books," she told me. "So after breakfast I made up for my small sins! I wrote six notes, telephoned my parents, and read most of a novel a friend had lent me weeks ago. Oh yes, next day I finished the book — and returned it."

Polly's day was one of such relaxation and accomplishment that she plans to declare a "Self Day" every few weeks, and I heartily endorse her idea.

Time To Unwind

It's so easy, in this busy world of ours, to become "wound up." Every so often, we need to unwind and relax. You'll live longer, and happier, if you allow yourself this essential luxury now and then.

Read. Listen to records. Or just lie back with your eyes closed and meditate. Problems won't seem so insurmountable, unimportant annoyances will assume their proper perspective.

Remember that when you are relaxed, it is easier for the inner charm and sparkle to surface. Your glow will show after a "Self Day," just as Polly's did!

Noel Speir Cook Seeks 3d Term At State House

Noel Speir Cook, local attorney, has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election to the House of Delegates on the Republican ticket.

Cook was born at Frostburg and is descended from the Speir family, among the early Scottish settlers of Lonaconing and long prominent in business in this county. He was graduated from Beall High School and Frostburg State Teachers College.

He worked at the Celanese plant and taught school for a short time before entering the University of Maryland Law School, from which he was graduated in 1930, having attended night classes while working in the daytime at the Fidelity and Deposit Company, Baltimore, as assistant to Theodore R. McKeldin, present Governor of Maryland.

While at the university he was president of the Junior class and in his Senior year he distinguished himself by winning the Honor Case, the most coveted prize that the law school offers. He passed the bar examinations a few months after his graduation and became associated with the Baltimore law firm of Keech, Deming, Carman and Tucker, where he remained until 1934. At that time he returned to Frostburg to resume practice in this county. He was attorney for the Town of Lonaconing for a number of years and at the present time is vice president of the Allegany County Bar Association.

Cook was elected to the House of Delegates in 1946 and was re-elected in 1950. During both sessions he was appointed by the Speaker to serve on the powerful House Judiciary Committee.

He is a member of the Young Men's Republican Club of Frostburg and was the first Frostburg member of Cumberland Chapter, Order of DeMolay. He is a 32d degree Mason and is a member of the Elks, Eagles, Tall Cedars, Ali Ghan Shrine, El Fidel Club, and Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity.

In 1935 Cook was married to Ann Ruddle, of Franklin, W. Va., who was then a staff nurse at Memorial Hospital. They reside in Frostburg and attend St. Paul's Lutheran Church, where Cook is a member of the Church Council.

Local GI Arrives Here From Europe

Sgt. Charles E. Likens, son of William E. Likens, 56 Hill Street, has returned to the United States from Europe where he served with the 556th Ordnance Company.

Following a rotation leave at home, he will report to Fort Meade for reassignment.

Nationally Known Soloist To Give Recital March 31

Marion Jackson Downs, who will be presented in a Lenten Recital at Centre Street Methodist Church, Wednesday, March 31, at 8 p. m., is nationally known for the excellence of her singing voice and her charming personality. She is the widow of a Methodist minister better known for his work with Youth and his successful pastorates in the state of Texas.

Mrs. Downs has been soloist and guest artist at many occasions of national importance to Methodist women, namely, the National Assembly at Cleveland, Ohio in 1950; Northeastern Jurisdiction meeting at Buck Hill Falls, Pa. in 1953. She has been heard across the country before many W.S.C.S. groups, and has just returned from a trip through the midwest for a series of Lenten concerts.

The concert locally is being sponsored by Centre Street Methodist Church and Central Methodist. Proceeds from the silver offering to be taken will be presented as a gift to Mrs. Downs and to pay local expenses.

Naughton To Speak At Bank Seminar

An invitation has been extended by the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania and the Investment Bankers Association of America to Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Second National Bank, to appear on the program of their Annual Seminar at Philadelphia in April. The bid involves participation in a panel discussion of the investment standards and practices of commercial banks.

Naughton's panel has been assigned two hours on April 12, the opening day of the Seminar. Other members of the panel are three senior officers of large commercial banks in New York, Philadelphia and Cleveland.

The first round-the-world flight was made in 1924 by United States Army pilots.

Frostburg Doctor Heads Committee For 'Curly' Byrd

Dr. W. O. McLane of Frostburg has been named chairman of the Byrd for Governor Committee in Allegany County for the June primary election.

The announcement of Dr. McLane accepting the chairmanship coincides with a visit of the Democratic gubernatorial candidate to Allegany and Garrett counties this week.

Dr. Harry C. Byrd, president emeritus of the University of Maryland, will be in Garrett County today and then comes to Allegany County for tonight, tomorrow and Wednesday.

Dr. McLane was graduated from the University of Maryland Medical School in 1924. After two years of interneship, he began his medical career in Frostburg.

Since then he has continued uninterrupted practice in the Mountain City.

He is a former chairman and present member of the Board of Directors of Miners Hospital in Frostburg.

Dr. and Mrs. McLane have five daughters and one son. He is a member of Farrady Post 24, American Legion; Frostburg Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, and Frostburg Lodge, BPO Elks.

Dr. McLane will announce the members of his county "Byrd for Governor" committee at a later date.

Dr. Byrd will spend today touring Garrett County with his candidate for attorney general, State Senator Ferdinand C. Sybert of Howard County.

Tuesday and Wednesday Dr. Byrd and Sen. Sybert will have Cumberland as their headquarters for visits throughout the county.

No public meetings have been scheduled as this visit by the gubernatorial candidate will be for him to meet many citizens of the county. Dr. Byrd is, however, no stranger here, having made many trips while president of the University of Maryland.

Anniversary Set By Area Firemen

The Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Company will observe its 20th anniversary with a dinner in the fire hall this evening.

The unit's ladies auxiliary will serve the meal for the celebration.

The company was formed March 31, 1934 and incorporated February 28, 1936. Charter members still active are H. E. Abe, C. E. Mathews, L. R. Brooks and H. A. Henderson.

Red Cross Fund Short Of Goal

Allegany County faces the possibility of not meeting its minimum quota of $35,000 in the annual Red Cross fund drive for the first time in its history.

At the conclusion of reports made Saturday at campaign headquarters in the Post Office, Walter Haschert, general chairman, reported that $27,478.91 has been contributed, more than $7000 short of the goal with only three days to go.

Funds collected to date are as follows:

Advance gifts, $10,915; clubs and organizations, $398; national firms, $953.50; classified, $6,444.97; women, $4,988.94; Frostburg, $2,060; Westernport, $1,000; Midland, $150; Mt. Savage, $300; Eckhart, $209 and Vale Summit, $59.50. Reports from Lonaconing, Barton and Ridgeley were not included.

The campaign is conducted nationwide through the month of March, and the more than 400 volunteer solicitors in the county will be asked by Haschert to conclude an intensive drive for the remaining three days in a last minute effort to bring contributions up to the assigned quota.

Officials said the campaign started off auspiciously when the advanced gift group under the chairmanship of Matthew J. Mullaney reached its quota within the opening week. To date none of the other divisions have reported sufficient amounts to meet their quota.

The various heads of these groups, which include the Women's, Classified, Organizations and County Chairman divisions, are being briefed over the weekend as to the urgent need of every solicitor devoting full time from now until Wednesday evening to make every effort to reach all possible subscribers.

•Vietminh Gamble No Big Chance

In the long-drawn-out Indochinese struggle the Vietminh forces have consistently held to guerilla tactics. They have raided villages, attacked outlying forts, threatened cities—and they have avoided a conclusive test of strength. So it is not saying much, in a sense, to say that the present struggle for the fortress of Dien Bien Phu is the greatest pitched battle of the war.

Estimates of the size of the forces involved in this operation range between 35,000 and 65,000 men. Ho Chi-minh may have thrown as many as 45,000 soldiers into this effort, and the defenders may number 20,000. But those are the high figures. The French garrison is probably considerably smaller and may not total more than 11,000 effectives.

There is, then, a big difference between this battle and one of the major drives in the Korean War, when the Chinese "human waves" were made up of hundreds of thousands of men, not tens of thousands. Still, Ho is believed to have committed to this battle three of his eight divisions. That fact, and the determination displayed by his troops in pressing their attack, shows that much is at stake at Dien Bien Phu.

Possession of the fort would not win the war for Ho Chi-minh but it would put him in a strong position for the bargaining that will begin at Geneva on April 26 when Korea and Indochina will be discussed by Britain, France, Russia, the United States and China. If he fails, his postion will not be much worse than it is now, for he will still have the capacity to keep the war going.

The Vietminh leader has much to gain and little to lose at Dien Bien Phu. That is why he has made the largest commitment of his career—and why his followers have already suffered casualties estimated at between 6,000 and 8,000. In the cold arithmetic of war, these losses may be regarded as a good investment.

Young men in business are advised to be careful about their dress, presumably so they will become successful enough so they can afford to go around looking like bums.

Life expectancy has been increased to 67 years. Fifty years ago the average citizen escaped the tax collector 25 years sooner.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Baruch And McCarthy

There is enough dirt in the current Cohn-Adams quarrel without dragging anti-Semitism and anti-Catholicism into it and those who are doing it are definitely performing a disservice to the United States.

I see that Drew Pearson and other have engaged in conveying unchecked information describing a meeting at which only Bernard Baruch, Joe McCarthy and I were present. None of the purveyors of misinformation were there. None of them can know first-hand what occurred there. And I have never read more lies about a quiet three quarters of an hour meeting in all the six decades of my life. My own silence about it up to now is due to a repugnance for breaching an elemental rule of hospitality which even newspaper reporters are expected to follow.

The meeting occurred only because Bernard Baruch and Senator McCarthy had never met before and each expressed a curiosity to see the other. Baruch was concerned over what seemed to him a generalization about his old alma mater, the College of the City of New York, which he felt was unfair. McCarthy had told me that he had corrected the erroneous implication.

I have for Mr. Baruch not only a high regard and respect but a deep affection. Joe McCarthy and I are friends and he was, on that particular day, my guest. So I brought the men together for a short visit. I had a feeling that Baruch really wanted to have a look at this unusual personality and McCarthy wanted to know this extraordinarily brilliant mind. There could have been no other purpose for the meeting.

Baruch is a courtly gentleman who never runs out of manners. He would not receive a man and insult him. McCarthy approached Baruch deferentially, as a younger man would one of Mr. Baruch's age and achievements. I must say that I have never seen Joe more mannerly.

The conversation started on the City College theme but passed swiftly because McCarthy said that he had already expressed his regrets that his statement had been so broad but that his regrets had gone unnoticed.

The subject then turned to world communism, each contributing something of his experience. Mr. Baruch spoke of the necessity of facing up to this Marxist disease. I found this part of the conversation extremely interesting. Both avoided any reference to the current quarrels.

I have seen it mentioned in one or two peephole columns, and Drew Pearson repeats it, that McCarthy attacked the Jewish managers of the great radio networks. This is a lie. Nothing of the sort was said. McCarthy was punctilious in not overstepping the bounds of hospitality, giving Mr. Baruch the lead in the conversation. Not once were the words "Jew" or "Jewish" spoken by either party.

Then the conversation turned on flexible price supports in agriculture. Mr. Baruch spoke admiringly of Ezra Taft Benson. McCarthy did not commit himself on this subject.

Ten minutes or so before the party broke up, Roy Cohn, who was supposed to be present, showed up and we went our way.

Drew Pearson makes the point that those who were present will deny his allegations. I go further. I state categorically and would do so under oath if necessary that whoever told Pearson or anybody else a story different from this eye and ear witness account of what occurred planted an untruthful story and those who are repeating falsehoods ought to go after him for doing it.

I am sure that if Senator McCarthy or anyone else abused Mr. Baruch's hospitality by making an improper request of him or intimidating him, Mr. Baruch would know how to close the session. The least he could do would be to shut off his hearing aid. At no time did either party refer to the rejection of time for McCarthy by the radio networks nor was the name of President Eisenhower mentioned. It was an unfocussed conversation.

Actually, the interview was surrounded by all the urbanities of civilized, mature men, who greeted each other as new acquaintances do and departed with the usual amenities. Something has been made of the New York police being in the hall outside Mr. Baruch's door, because someone had threatened to kill the senator.

This is all there is to it and whoever says differently lies. I write this for the record.

Administration Sees 'Sensible Boom' Following Spring

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

President Eisenhower is now getting an almost daily briefing on the economic situation. When he said at his press conference on Wednesday that he saw no need for "slam bang" action on the economic front, it was reflecting, of course, the combined best judgment of the men who brief him.

Chief among the briefers are the President's three-man Council of Economic Advisors; his special economic assistant, Dr. Gabriel Hauge; and — the man he listens to most carefully — Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey. These men unanimously agree that there is no clear and present danger of the economic down trend getting out of hand. Yet it is worth noting that the President left the door very much open to strong action in the future. And this suggests two questions which need to be answered.

If the down trend continues, at what point will the administration decide that the time for counter measures has come? And what sort of action will the administration take?

The President and his advisers have not, of course, defined in advance the precise point at which action will be taken. Yet they do have a fairly clear picture of the sort of economic situation which would demand strong counter measures.

If unemployment climbs to around eight per cent of the total labor force — a bit over 5,000,000 unemployed — and if other economic factors show a "net negative drift," strong counter measures will then be in order.

Three-Phase Plan

For human and political as well as economic reasons, the employment figures will be the most important in arriving at a judgment. In a press conference statement on February 17, in fact, the President used no other criteria, when he said that "we would have a very definite warning" if employment did not "begin to turn up" in March.

The figures for March will not be available until mid-April, but the expectation is that there will be another slight increase in unemployment. Yet unless something suddenly goes very wrong, there is no intention of taking counter measures until the whole economic picture for the spring begins to be available towards the end of May.

Even if unemployment is pushing up to the 5,000,000 mark by that time, "slam bang" action will not necessarily be taken. The President's advisers point out that in 1949, under the Truman administration, unemployment almost reached 5,000,000. The Democrats took no strong counter measures, but the economy righted itself naturally, even before the Korean War began.

Yet if there are other bad signs as well — if income and production dip again, if the current construction boom suddenly slackens, above all if there are sharp reductions in business spending for plant and equipment — then the administration will act. According to present planning, if the worse comes to the worse, this action will fall into three main phases.

Phase one will consist of executive action, like lowering interest rates further and generally adopting an all-out easy money policy. This will cause sharp pain to Secretary Humphrey, a hard money man from way back. But if it must be done it will be done.

Foresee "Sensible Boom"

If this limited surgery fails, more radical surgery will be proposed to Congress, in the form of another across-the-board cut in income taxes, probably of 10 per cent. This too will be done with infinite reluctance, and there is no intension of adopting the Democratic proposal for an increase in personal exemptions. But again, what must be done, will be done.

Finally, if the economy still looks like taking a real nose-dive, massive expenditures for public works will be proposed. This will only be done if there seems to be absolutely no other way out. But if the Eisenhower administration decides to prime the pump, the pump will be primed in a way to make Franklin D. Roosevelt look like a piker.

The President's advisers, it should be said, all believe that the odds are heavily against any such drastic steps being necessary. They all privately see the immediate economic future in about the same way — a gradual levelling off through the spring, followed by a gentle climb back towards a "sort of sensible boom." But if things don't work out that way, they have no intention of letting nature take its course.

"It's an unprecedented thing we're trying to do," one of them remarked. "After every war, way back to the Revolution, we've always had a terrible economic collapse. It won't be easy to prevent it happening again. But we do have new and powerful means at our disposal, and I think the thing can be done. At any rate, we've just got to do it."

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

On Thursday, January 28, there appeared in this oblong of querulous comment a line we felt would reverberate from the hills and bowl up the valleys.

It was in an article slugged, "Shriek of Silence."

It was about congressional quizzing of fellow travelers and ran, "If the answer tends to incriminate and degrade you that's not the fault of the question."

We still feel that way about gimmicks in general and gadgets in particular. I claim you should look your fellowman in the eye. Even if it's through a keyhole.

The claim of guilt by association has its boosters and rappers. There are two schools of thought on it and you cannot be teacher's pet in both.

The term "Shriek of silence" was based on the thought if you stand as mute as Tara's harp your silence plays a tune on your conscience.

Guilt by association doesn't mean birds of a feather are tarred together. We do claim if you are using a two-man saw you should know the guy on the other end.

No congressional committee baits you with that double-edged question, "When did you stop beating your wife?"

Either way you are as guilty as a shark spitting up a hat, shoes and cuff links.

Anyway, the beating has become more equitable. This is a man's world until the wife has had that second martini.

We feel that only Arthur Murray can lead the witness legally. And that only on the dance floor.

In courts of investigations there is no hiding. Emerson said when you have committed a crime the world is made of glass. What's the matter with printing the Fifth Amendment on cellophane?

More Experiments Needed On Cigarets And Cancer

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Smoking is on the medical pan and most of the excitement centers about the relationship between tobacco and lung cancer. The evidence is still presumptive, however, because scientific methods are exacting and when proof exists it leaves no doubt. The link between smoking and lung cancer was strengthened last year by the report that tar collected from a cigaret smoking machine produced cancer of the skin in mice.

From the scientist's point of view, this means there is something in tobacco that causes malignancies. It does not mean lung cancer, however, because no one knows whether the skin of a mouse reacts in the same way to tobacco smoke as does the lining membrane of the bronchi.

Furthermore, scientists never have been able to produce lung cancer in mice in this way. Experiments along this line usually are accomplished by placing mice in closed containers into which tobacco smoke is introduced. In one test in which 125 mice were used, two developed lung cancer but when the experiment was repeated no lung tumors were found. In this particular study, it was concluded that the two isolated malignancies developed spontaneously. In all fairness, these facts should be taken into consideration.

Meanwhile it cannot be denied that lung cancer is on the increase, more so in heavy smokers than in light smokers or total abstainers. But tobacco smoke is not the only irritant that most of us are forced to inhale with every breath; hence air pollution is another possibility. We are assured of one thing: the problem has reached a climax and action will be taken from now on.

The hacking and wheezing exhibited by the heavy smoker has been given the fancy name, smoker's respiratory syndrome. In addition, shortness of breath and constriction in the throat and upper air passageways are present. When the condition is severe it may be mistaken for bronchial asthma of allergic origin but studies usually reveal the difference. The fiery red throat, covered with a purulent discharge, is so typical the physician recognizes it immediately as smoker's throat. The same type of inflammation extends down the windpipe and into the bronchi. Wheezing is due to accumulated mucus that partially obstructs the air passageways and to spasm resulting from the constricting action of nicotine.

Victims of this syndrome are advised to stop smoking. Cure occurs within seven days in early cases but longer time is required in those who have been indulging for several decades. In some instances, an antibiotic is helpful whereas in others, treatment is of no value as the changes are permanent.

TOMORROW: Unrealized potentials.

DON'T ANSWER

M. C. writes: I have been bothered for a number of months with head noises which frequently express themselves as voices asking questions such as "Where are you?" and "How do you do?" A few months ago I called some friends crazy for claiming they saw flying saucers and I'm afraid if I told them about my head noises they would call me nuts. A phychiatrist I talked to said I appeared normal to him. What do you think is the trouble?

REPLY

There is no need to worry so long as you don't talk back to an imaginary companion. Meanwhile, consult a competent ear surgeon for treatment of your head noises.

KIDNEY INFECTION

M. W. writes: Does drinking large quantities of liquid help get rid of pus in the kidneys?

REPLY

It helps to keep the structures well irrigated. The ideal treatment is a combination of adequate fluid intake and a suitable renal antiseptic such as gastrisin or penicillin or one of the other antibiotics.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Nothing less than heartbreaking is Louis Sobol's tale of two shipwrecked Broadwayities, marooned on a South Seas atoll for months, who shrieked with joy to see a bottle floating in on the tide. With trembling hands one of them extracted a note from the bottle. Then his face fell. "Oh, nuts!" he exclaimed. "It's from us!"

Fellow, worse for wear, stumbled into a taxi and ordered, "Take me over to Broadway and Forty-ninth." The driver said, "You're at Broadway and Forty-ninth right now." "Jush splendid!" was the response. "But next time, d-don't d-drive so f-fast!"

"Well," said Pa Simpkins to his son, home from the state agricultural college, "what new fangled ideas they been teaching you?" Darndest thing," said the son, "but they're getting a milklike substance out of an ordinary peanut." Milk out of a peanut!" marveled Pa. "They must use a mighty low stool!"

Committee On Un-American Activities Split Because Of Internal Dissension

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Here are some of the backstage reasons why members of the House Committee on Un-American Activities are aroused over its operations and why the ranking Republican, Congressman Pat Kearney of New York, recently issued a public statement calling the committee setup "rotten."

The committee has some devoted, conscientious members and investigators. However, bickering among the highly paid staff, which draws annual salaries of $197,000, is so bitter that some congressmen on the committee say privately that only the discovery of "another set of pumpkin papers" can restore its prestige and morale.

Chairman Velde of Illinois, now fighting for re-election and the chief cause of the bickering, knows he has to come up with something spectacular to save face, but in his efforts to do this so far, he has simply managed to pull more and more boners — such as subpoenaing Harry Truman.

Here's the run-down on the key figures on the staff. It's a huge staff with an annual payroll which eats up all but $78,000 of the committee's $275,000 appropriation.

Charles E. McKillips — A third-rate committee investigator frequently in hot water. Is so inept that on more than one occasion congressmen have been advised that "someone is trying to impersonate a committee investigator." It was no impersonator, however; it was just McKillips.

At the time of the "pumpkin papers" discovery, McKillips almost got fired because as a "gag" he deliberately posed sleeping in front of the committee safe. The safe contained the pumpkin papers and McKillips was assigned to guard them. The picture of the "sleeping" McKillips was carried by the wire services coast to coast, and the committee members failed to detect anything funny about it.

More recently the committee voted to drop McKillips after he submitted expense vouchers which included the cost of a trip to the Atlantic City race track. When he was not dropped, Congressman Kearney asked his fellow Republican, Congressman Velde, why McKillips was still on the payroll.

"I have overruled our action," Chairman Velde replied.

George Williams — Investigator, former FBI man, was in charge of the investigation of Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam which backfired. He joined the committee in April 1953 through the influence of his sister, Patsy Rhodes, who is secretary to Congressman Moulder of Missouri, a committee member. Salary: $9,211.28.

Dolores Anderson — She's the fiancee of Chairman Velde, is an A-1 stenographer and accompanies him on various business trips. Because of her closeness to Velde she's a real backstage power and is feared by other staff members, which adds to committee bickering.

Leslie Scott — An Illinois newspaperman and publisher. Scott's job is to check on Velde's constituents and help his re-election campaign. He owns the Lacon Home Journal and the Toluca Star Herald, both in Velde's district, but draws a salary of $6,927.78 from the taxpayers.

Earl Fuoss — Former FBI man. Leader of one of the warring factions that's splitting the committee. Though not a heavyweight, Fuoss has considerable power since he's largely responsible for getting Robert Kunzig named as committee counsel, and Kunzig knows it.

Robert Kunzig — Committee counsel. Politically active in Pennsylvania; was an Eisenhower delegate to the Chicago Republican Convention. Other staff members regard him as one who uses his position to play favorites. He was responsible for subpoenaing Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, which backfired. When asked by committee members why he issued the subpoena, he explained: "The McCarthy Committee was taking this up and I thought we should get in the act."

Tom Beale — Chief clerk, older than most staff members, quiet, conscientious, competent.

Courtney Owens, Donald Appell, Bill Wheeler — Committee investigators. All topnotch men.

Jackson Jones — Able young investigator and a hard worker. Jones was fired while the committee was holding hearings in Chicago because he refused to cooperate with Kunzig. Other committee members have demanded that he be retained.

Capital News Capsules

Too Small An Army — Army Chief of Staff General Ridgway has carried his fight against Army cuts to the Senate Appropriations Committee. He told senators flatly that he did not recommend the cutbacks in Army funds, though he said he was required to accept the decisions of his superiors and do his utmost to carry them out. He also testified that the Army hasn't spent a cent of the $2,000,000,000 diverted from the Air Force budget last year to help the Army pay its Korean War bills. He pleaded with Congress to reappropriate this money to the Army.

Rhee To Geneva — The American embassy reports President Syngman Rhee himself wants to head up the Korean delegation to the Geneva Peace Conference. Rhee has told his cabinet that if he is there in person he could dominate the conference, also make sure Secretary Dulles does not sell Korea out to the Communists. The American embassy is trying to discourage Rhee by pointing out that his firm leadership is needed in Korea.

Optimistic Outlook For '54

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — I urge readers not to take too seriously the federal unemployment figures which are released the second week of each month. Until they are issued on a per-capita basis and properly adjusted, I believe them to be unreliable and misleading.

Figures Are Guessed At

There are 63,000,000 employes (other than farmers) in these United States. Of these, only very few employes are interviewed. There are over 45,000,000 families in the United States. Of these, only 25,000 families are interviewed. Thus, it will be seen that to give out a figure of "3,385,000" is really ludicrous. It surely would be more logical to say about "3,400,000," and call it a "rough estimate."

The figures never show the real situation. When families are interviewed they report not only those who have been laid off, but many who are ill, or working at home, or perhaps too lazy to work. Recently, to help the Republicans get the farm vote, the coverage has been increased from 123 counties to 450 counties. This greatly increases the percentage of farm families included in the count. I forecast such figures will be found very unreliable as regards the status of those helpers who live on the farm, whether or not a salary is being paid them.

Politics Creep In Badly

When I was director of information and education of the Labor administration, I tried to overcome the political slant. For instance, during the Truman administration, the Republican families were constantly expecting a business collapse. Hence, they gave the interviewer a pessimistic report pretending business was bad; while Democratic homes gave good reports. Now the conditions are opposite. The Democratic homes are talking grief.

Another feature to be considered is that some states have a greater percentage of itinerant workers. Under present laws in many states, if persons on the labor force are employed for one or two quarters within a certain twelve-month period, then the person is entitled to unemployment insurance of from $20 to $30 per week, even though the person is not a resident of the state and perhaps has even left the state altogether. Your state's reported unemployment should really be adjusted in accordance with this unreasonable and nonconforming legislation. Any reader can get a free copy of what each of the 48 states is rolling up for federal unemployment benefits by writing to the Bureau of Employment Security Division of Reports, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C. Before leaving your present state to seek a job somewhere else, you should carefully read this report by states.

What Latest Figures Show

The reported unemployment of the entire United States on February 13, 1954, was 3,385,000 by the standard method, 3,671,000 by the new "CIO" method. These both are based on a total population of about 161,350,000, but this population is increasing about 250,000 a month. This means that the unemployed, figured on a labor force of 63,000,000, is, on a per-capita basis, only two per cent of the entire population. This compares with about ten per cent unemployed in 1932. I severely criticize any of the Labor Department or Commerce Department (who are the remains of a Democratic bueaucracy) for refusing to use the per capita figures. The are not only ignoring the growth of the country, but may also be changing the method of compiling the figures, to please the CIO crowd. This is like changing the rules of a game in the midst of a game. Furthermore, the increase reported under these new rules is largely based on the reported "unemployed" on a few farms, which is a very debatable figure.

Regarding your own state: Neither of the above figures for present total United States unemployment (the standard figure of 3,385,000, nor the CIO figure of 3,671,000) can be broken down by states. Both are too much of a guess. Moreover, of the present United States population of 161,350,000 about 12 per cent are over 60 years of age and 5 per cent are over 70 years of age. These figures differ greatly with different states. For this distribution of the age group, the Labor Department makes no adjustment. It thus will be seen that the whole business is guess work and should be corrected or suppressed. However, an unemployment of only 2 per cent is nothing to worry about. Such a small percentage should give confidence and optimism for the 1954 outlook.

You're Telling Me!

New Zealand's government announces that unemployment there just about doubled last year but everybody is pretty cheerful about it, even so. The number of unemployed went from only 42 to just 76.

It's gratify to hear of a real worker's paradise like New Zealand instead of fake ones like Russia.

What's this about a new "space patrol" motor car? The space most drivers are interested in is that which has to do with parking.

Those Republicans who oppose Sen. Joseph McCarthy's actions must regard the state of Wisconsin with mixed feelings. Senator Joe hails from there but the Badger State was also the birthplace of the GOP just 100 years ago.

Fifteen thousand African natives were confined to their homes by the Kenya colony government to force them to tell what they may know about Mau Mau activities. Seeking inside information, as it were.

The post office business must be buzzing. New Jersey bee keepers, we read, now mail the little stingers to customers.

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas led a group of footsore reporters on a 185-mile hike from Cumberland, Md., to Washington, D. C. This should make the jurist also a good judge on shoe leather.

In the long-drawn-out Indochinese struggle the Vietminh forces have consistently held to guerilla tactics. They have raided villages, attacked outlying forts, threatened cities—and they have avoided a conclusive test of strength. So it is not saying much, in a sense, to say that the present struggle for the fortress of Dien Bien Phu is the greatest pitched battle of the war.

Estimates of the size of the forces involved in this operation range between 35,000 and 65,000 men. Ho Chi-minh may have thrown as many as 45,000 soldiers into this effort, and the defenders may number 20,000. But those are the high figures. The French garrison is probably considerably smaller and may not total more than 11,000 effectives.

There is, then, a big difference between this battle and one of the major drives in the Korean War, when the Chinese "human waves" were made up of hundreds of thousands of men, not tens of thousands. Still, Ho is believed to have committed to this battle three of his eight divisions. That fact, and the determination displayed by his troops in pressing their attack, shows that much is at stake at Dien Bien Phu.

Possession of the fort would not win the war for Ho Chi-minh but it would put him in a strong position for the bargaining that will begin at Geneva on April 26 when Korea and Indochina will be discussed by Britain, France, Russia, the United States and China. If he fails, his postion will not be much worse than it is now, for he will still have the capacity to keep the war going.

The Vietminh leader has much to gain and little to lose at Dien Bien Phu. That is why he has made the largest commitment of his career—and why his followers have already suffered casualties estimated at between 6,000 and 8,000. In the cold arithmetic of war, these losses may be regarded as a good investment.

Young men in business are advised to be careful about their dress, presumably so they will become successful enough so they can afford to go around looking like bums.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Baruch And McCarthy

There is enough dirt in the current Cohn-Adams quarrel without dragging anti-Semitism and anti-Catholicism into it and those who are doing it are definitely performing a disservice to the United States.

I see that Drew Pearson and other have engaged in conveying unchecked information describing a meeting at which only Bernard Baruch, Joe McCarthy and I were present. None of the purveyors of misinformation were there. None of them can know first-hand what occurred there. And I have never read more lies about a quiet three quarters of an hour meeting in all the six decades of my life. My own silence about it up to now is due to a repugnance for breaching an elemental rule of hospitality which even newspaper reporters are expected to follow.

The meeting occurred only because Bernard Baruch and Senator McCarthy had never met before and each expressed a curiosity to see the other. Baruch was concerned over what seemed to him a generalization about his old alma mater, the College of the City of New York, which he felt was unfair. McCarthy had told me that he had corrected the erroneous implication.

I have for Mr. Baruch not only a high regard and respect but a deep affection. Joe McCarthy and I are friends and he was, on that particular day; my guest. So I brought the men together for a short visit. I had a feeling that Baruch really wanted to have a look at this unusual personality and McCarthy wanted to know this extraordinarily brilliant mind. There could have been no other purpose for the meeting.

Baruch is a courtly gentleman who never runs out of manners. He would not receive a man and insult him. McCarthy approached Baruch deferentially, as a younger man would one of Mr. Baruch's age and achievements. I must say that I have never seen Joe more mannerly.

The conversation started on the City College theme but passed swiftly because McCarthy said that he had already expressed his regrets that his statement had been so broad but that his regrets had gone unnoticed.

The subject then turned to world communism, each contributing something of his experience. Mr. Baruch spoke of the necessity of facing up to this Marxist disease. I found this part of the conversation extremely interesting. Both avoided any reference to the current quarrels.

I have seen it mentioned in one or two peephole columns, and Drew Pearson repeats it, that McCarthy attacked the Jewish managers of the great radio networks. This is a lie. Nothing of the sort was said. McCarthy was punctilious in not overstepping the bounds of hospitality, giving Mr. Baruch the lead in the conversation. Not once were the words "Jew" or "Jewish" spoken by either party.

Then the conversation turned on flexible price supports in agriculture. Mr. Baruch spoke admiringly of Ezra Taft Benson. McCarthy did not commit himself on this subject.

Ten minutes or so before the party broke up, Roy Cohn, who was supposed to be present, showed up and we went our way.

Drew Pearson makes the point that those who were present will deny his allegations. I go further. I state categorically and would do so under oath if necessary that whoever told Pearson or anybody else a story different from this eye and ear witness account of what occurred planted an untruthful story and those who are repeating falsehoods ought to go after him for doing it.

I am sure that if Senator McCarthy or anyone else abused Mr. Baruch's hospitality by making an improper request of him or intimidating him, Mr. Baruch would know how to close the session. The least he could do would be to shut off his hearing aid. At no time did either party refer to the rejection of time for McCarthy by the radio networks nor was the name of President Eisenhower mentioned. It was an unfocussed conversation.

Actually, the interview was surrounded by all the urbanities of civilized, mature men, who greeted each other as new acquaintances do and departed with the usual amenities. Somethhing has been made of the New York police being in the hall outside Mr. Baruch's door, because someone had threatened to kill the senator.

This is all there is to it and whoever says differently lies. I write this for the record.

Administration Sees 'Sensible Boom' Following Spring

Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

President Eisenhower is now getting an almost daily briefing on the economic situation. When he said at his press conference on Wednesday that he saw no need for "slam bang" action on the economic front, it was reflecting, of course, the combined best judgment of the men who brief him.

Chief among the briefers are the President's three-man Council of Economic Advisors; his special economic assistant, Dr. Gabriel Hauge; and — the man he listens to most carefully — Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey. These men unanimously agree that there is no clear and present danger of the economic down trend getting out of hand. Yet it is worth noting that the President left the door very much open to strong action in the future. And this suggests two questions which need to be answered.

If the down trend continues, at what point will the administration decide that the time for counter measures has come? And what sort of action will the administration take?

The President and his advisers have not, of course, defined in advance the precise point at which action will be taken. Yet they do have a fairly clear picture of the sort of economic situation which would demand strong counter measures.

If unemployment climbs to around eight per cent of the total labor force — a bit over 5,000,000 unemployed — and if other economic factors show a "net negative drift," strong counter measures will then be in order.

Three-Phase Plan

For human and political as well as economic reasons, the employment figures will be the most important in arriving at a judgment. In a press conference statement on February 17, in fact, the President used no other criteria, when he said that "we would have a very definite warning" if employment did not "begin to turn up" in March.

The figures for March will not be available until mid-April, but the expectation is that there will be another slight increase in unemployment. Yet unless something suddenly goes very wrong, there is no intention of taking counter measures until the whole economic picture for the spring begins to be available towards the end of May.

Even if unemployment is pushing up to the 5,000,000 mark by that time, "slam bang" action will not necessarily be taken. The President's advisers point out that in 1949, under the Truman administration, unemployment almost reached 5,000,000. The Democrats took no strong counter measures, but the economy righted itself naturally, even before the Korean War began.

Yet if there are other bad signs as well — if income and production dip again, if the current construction boom suddenly slackens, above all if there are sharp reductions in business spending for plant and equipment — then the administration will act. According to present planning, if the worse comes to the worse, this action will fall into three main phases.

Phase one will consist of executive action, like lowering interest rates further and generally adopting an all-out easy money policy. This will cause sharp pain to Secretary Humphrey, a hard money man from way back. But if it must be done it will be done.

Foresee "Sensible Boom"

If this limited surgery fails, more radical surgery will be proposed to Congress, in the form of another across-the-board cut in income taxes, probably of 10 per cent. This too will be done with infinite reluctance, and there is no intension of adopting the Democratic proposal for an increase in personal exemptions. But again, what must be done, will be done.

Finally, if the economy still looks like taking a real nose-dive, massive expenditures for public works will be proposed. This will only be done if there seems to be absolutely no other way out. But if the Eisenhower administration decides to prime the pump, the pump will be primed in a way to make Franklin D. Roosevelt look like a piker.

The President's advisers, it should be said, all believe that the odds are heavily against any such drastic steps being necessary. They all privately see the immediate economic future in about the same way — a gradual levelling off through the spring, followed by a gentle climb back towards a "sort of sensible boom." But if things don't work out that way, they have no intention of letting nature take its course.

"It's an unprecedented thing we're trying to do," one of them remarked. "After every war, way back to the Revolution, we've always had a terrible economic collapse. It won't be easy to prevent it happening again. But we do have new and powerful means at our disposal, and I think the thing can be done. At any rate, we've just got to do it."

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

On Thursday, January 28, there appeared in this oblong of querulous comment a line we felt would reverberate from the hills and bowl up the valleys.

It was in an article slugged, "Shriek of Silence."

It was about congressional quizzing of fellow travelers and ran, "If the answer tends to incriminate and degrade you that's not the fault of the question."

We still feel that way about gimmicks in general and gadgets in particular. I claim you should look your fellowman in the eye. Even if it's through a keyhole.

The claim of guilt by association has its boosters and rappers. There are two schools of thought on it and you cannot be teacher's pet in both.

The term "Shriek of silence" was based on the thought if you stand as mute as Tara's harp your silence plays a tune on your conscience.

Guilt by association doesn't mean birds of a feather are tarred together. We do claim if you are using a two-man saw you should know the guy on the other end.

No congressional committee baits you with that double-edged question, "When did you stop beating your wife?"

Either way you are as guilty as a shark spitting up a hat, shoes and cuff links.

Anyway, the beating has become more equitable. This is a man's world until the wife has had that second martini.

We feel that only Arthur Murray can lead the witness legally. And that only on the dance floor.

In courts of investigations there is no hiding. Emerson said when you have committed a crime the world is made of glass. What's the matter with printing the Fifth Amendment on cellophane?

More Experiments Needed On Cigarets And Cancer

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Smoking is on the medical pan and most of the excitement centers about the relationship between tobacco and lung cancer. The evidence is still presumptive, however, because scientific methods are exacting and when proof exists it leaves no doubt. The link between smoking and lung cancer was strengthened last year by the report that tar collected from a cigaret smoking machine produced cancer of the skin in mice.

From the scientist's point of view, this means there is something in tobacco that causes malignancies. It does not mean lung cancer, however, because no one knows whether the skin of a mouse reacts in the same way to tobacco smoke as does the lining membrane of the bronchi.

Furthermore, scientists never have been able to produce lung cancer in mice in this way. Experiments along this line usually are accomplished by placing mice in closed containers into which tobacco smoke is introduced. In one test in which 125 mice were used, two developed lung cancer but when the experiment was repeated no lung tumors were found. In this particular study, it was concluded that the two isolated malignancies developed spontaneously. In all fairness, these facts should be taken into consideration.

Meanwhile it cannot be denied that lung cancer is on the increase, more so in heavy smokers than in light smokers or total abstainers. But tobacco smoke is not the only irritant that most of us are forced to inhale with every breath; hence air pollution is another possibility. We are assured of one thing: the problem has reached a climax and action will be taken from now on.

The hacking and wheezing exhibited by the heavy smoker has been given the fancy name, smoker's respiratory syndrome. In addition, shortness of breath and constriction in the throat and upper air passageways are present. When the condition is severe it may be mistaken for bronchial asthma of allergic origin but studies usually reveal the difference. The fiery red throat, covered with a purulent discharge, is so typical the physician recognizes it immediately as smoker's throat. The same type of inflammation extends down the windpipe and into the bronchi. Wheezing is due to accumulated mucus that partially obstructs the air passageways and to spasm resulting from the constricting action of nicotine.

Victims of this syndrome are advised to stop smoking. Cure occurs within seven days in early cases but longer time is required in those who have been indulging for several decades. In some instances, an antibiotic is helpful whereas in others, treatment is of no value as the changes are permanent.

TOMORROW: Unrealized potentials.

DON'T ANSWER

M. C. writes: I have been bothered for a number of months with head noises which frequently express themselves as voices asking questions such as "Where are you?" and "How do you do?" A few months ago I called some friends crazy for claiming they saw flying saucers and I'm afraid if I told them about my head noises they would call me nuts. A phychiatrist I talked to said I appeared normal to him. What do you think is the trouble?

REPLY

There is no need to worry so long as you don't talk back to an imaginary companion. Meanwhile, consult a competent ear surgeon for treatment of your head noises.

KIDNEY INFECTION

M. W. writes: Does drinking large quantities of liquid help get rid of pus in the kidneys?

REPLY

It helps to keep the structures well irrigated. The ideal treatment is a combination of adequate fluid intake and a suitable renal antiseptic such as gastrisin or penicillin or one of the other antibiotics.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Nothing less than heartbreaking is Louis Sobol's tale of two shipwrecked Broadwayities, marooned on a South Seas atoll for months, who shrieked with joy to see a bottle floating in on the tide. With trembling hands one of them extracted a note from the bottle. Then his face fell. "Oh, nuts!" he exclaimed. "It's from us!"

Fellow, worse for wear, stumbled into a taxi and ordered, "Take me over to Broadway and Forty-ninth." The driver said, "You're at Broadway and Forty-ninth right now." "Jush splendid!" was the response. "But next time, d-don't d-drive so f-fast!"

"Well," said Pa Simpkins to his son, home from the state agricultural college, "what new fangled ideas they been teaching you?" Darndest thing," said the son, "but they're getting a milklike substance out of an ordinary peanut." Milk out of a peanut!" marveled Pa. "They must use a mighty low stool!"

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Here are some of the backstage reasons why members of the House Committee on Un-American Activities are aroused over its operations and why the ranking Republican, Congressman Pat Kearney of New York, recently issued a public statement calling the committee setup "rotten."

The committee has some devoted, conscientious members and investigators. However, bickering among the highly paid staff, which draws annual salaries of $197,000, is so bitter that some congressmen on the committee say privately that only the discovery of "another set of pumpkin papers" can restore its prestige and morale.

Chairman Velde of Illinois, now fighting for re-election and the chief cause of the bickering, knows he has to come up with something spectacular to save face, but in his efforts to do this so far, he has simply managed to pull more and more boners — such as subpoenaing Harry Truman.

Here's the run-down on the key figures on the staff. It's a huge staff with an annual payroll which eats up all but $78,000 of the committee's $275,000 appropriation.

Charles E. McKillips — A third-rate committee investigator frequently in hot water. Is so inept that on more than one occasion congressmen have been advised that "someone is trying to impersonate a committee investigator." It was no impersonator, however; it was just McKillips.

At the time of the "pumpkin papers" discovery, McKillips almost got fired because as a "gag" he deliberately posed sleeping in front of the committee safe. The safe contained the pumpkin papers and McKillips was assigned to guard them. The picture of the "sleeping" McKillips was carried by the wire services coast to coast, and the committee members failed to detect anything funny about it.

More recently the committee voted to drop McKillips after he submitted expense vouchers which included the cost of a trip to the Atlantic City race track. When he was not dropped, Congressman Kearney asked his fellow Republican, Congressman Velde, why McKillips was still on the payroll.

"I have overruled our action," Chairman Velde replied.

George Williams — Investigator, former FBI man, was in charge of the investigation of Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam which backfired. He joined the committee in April 1953 through the influence of his sister, Patsy Rhodes, who is secretary to Congressman Moulder of Missouri, a committee member. Salary: $9,211.28.

Dolores Anderson — She's the fiancee of Chairman Velde, is an A-1 stenographer and accompanies him on various business trips. Because of her closeness to Velde she's a real backstage power and is feared by other staff members, which adds to committee bickering.

Leslie Scott — An Illinois newspaperman and publisher. Scott's job is to check on Velde's constituents and help his re-election campaign. He owns the Lacon Home Journal and the Toluca Star Herald, both in Velde's district, but draws a salary of $6,927.78 from the taxpayers.

Earl Fuoss — Former FBI man. Leader of one of the warring factions that's splitting the committee. Though not a heavyweight, Fuoss has considerable power since he's largely responsible for getting Robert Kunzig named as committee counsel, and Kunzig knows it.

Robert Kunzig — Committee counsel. Politically active in Pennsylvania; was an Eisenhower delegate to the Chicago Republican Convention. Other staff members regard him as one who uses his position to play favorites. He was responsible for subpoenaing Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, which backfired. When asked by committee members why he issued the subpoena, he explained: "The McCarthy Committee was taking this up and I thought we should get in the act."

Courtney Owens, Donald Appell, Bill Wheeler — Committee investigators. All topnotch men.

Jackson Jones — Able young investigator and a hard worker. Jones was fired while the committee was holding hearings in Chicago because he refused to cooperate with Kunzig. Other committee members have demanded that he be retained.

Capital News Capsules

Too Small An Army — Army Chief of Staff General Ridgway has carried his fight against Army cuts to the Senate Appropriations Committee. He told senators flatly that he did not recommend the cutbacks in Army funds, though he said he was required to accept the decisions of his superiors and do his utmost to carry them out. He also testified that the Army hasn't spent a cent of the $2,000,000,000 diverted from the Air Force budget last year to help the Army pay its Korean War bills. He pleaded with Congress to reappropriate this money to the Army.

Rhee To Geneva — The American embassy reports President Syngman Rhee himself wants to head up the Korean delegation to the Geneva Peace Conference. Rhee has told his cabinet that if he is there in person he could dominate the conference, also make sure Secretary Dulles does not sell Korea out to the Communists. The American embassy is trying to discourage Rhee by pointing out that his firm leadership is needed in Korea.

Optimistic Outlook For '54

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — I urge readers not to take too seriously the federal unemployment figures which are released the second week of each month. Until they are issued on a per-capita basis and properly adjusted, I believe them to be unreliable and misleading.

Figures Are Guessed At

There are 63,000,000 employes (other than farmers) in these United States. Of these, only very few employes are interviewed. There are over 45,000,000 families in the United States. Of these, only 25,000 families are interviewed. Thus, it will be seen that to give out a figure of "3,385,000" is really ludicrous. It surely would be more logical to say about "3,400,000," and call it a "rough estimate."

The figures never show the real situation. When families are interviewed they report not only those who have been laid off, but many who are ill, or working at home, or perhaps too lazy to work. Recently, to help the Republicans get the farm vote, the coverage has been increased from 123 counties to 450 counties. This greatly increases the percentage of farm families included in the count. I forecast such figures will be found very unreliable as regards the status of those helpers who live on the farm, whether or not a salary is being paid them.

Politics Creep In Badly

When I was director of information and education of the Labor administration, I tried to overcome the political slant. For instance, during the Truman administration, the Republican families were constantly expecting a business collapse. Hence, they gave the interviewer a pessimistic report pretending business was bad; while Democratic homes gave good reports. Now the conditions are opposite. The Democratic homes are talking grief.

Another feature to be considered is that some states have a greater percentage of itinerant workers. Under present laws in many states, if persons on the labor force are employed for one or two quarters within a certain twelve-month period, then the person is entitled to unemployment insurance of from $20 to $30 per week, even though the person is not a resident of the state and perhaps has even left the state altogether. Your state's reported unemployment should really be adjusted in accordance with this unreasonable and nonconforming legislation. Any reader can get a free copy of what each of the 48 states is rolling up for federal unemployment benefits by writing to the Bureau of Employment Security Division of Reports, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C. Before leaving your present state to seek a job somewhere else, you should carefully read this report by states.

What Latest Figures Show

The reported unemployment of the entire United States on February 13, 1954, was 3,385,000 by the standard method, 3,671,000 by the new "CIO" method. These both are based on a total population of about 161,350,000, but this population is increasing about 250,000 a month. This means that the unemployed, figured on a labor force of 63,000,000, is, on a per-capita basis, only two per cent of the entire population. This compares with about ten per cent unemployed in 1932. I severely criticize any of the Labor Department or Commerce Department (who are the remains of a Democratic bureaucracy) for refusing to use the per capita figures. The are not only ignoring the growth of the country, but may also be changing the method of compiling the figures, to please the CIO crowd. This is like changing the rules of a game in the midst of a game. Furthermore, the increase reported under these new rules is largely based on the reported "unemployed" on a few farms, which is a very debatable figure.

Regarding your own state: Neither of the above figures for present total United States unemployment (the standard figure of 3,385,000, nor the CIO figure of 3,671,000) can be broken down by states. Both are too much of a guess. Moreover, of the present United States population of 161,350,000 about 12 per cent are over 60 years of age and 5 per cent are over 70 years of age. These figures differ greatly with different states. For this distribution of the age group, the Labor Department makes no adjustment. It thus will be seen that the whole business is guess work and should be corrected or suppressed. However, an unemployment of only 2 per cent is nothing to worry about. Such a small percentage should give confidence and optimism for the 1954 outlook.

Ken Loeffler Stresses Team Sport In LaSalle Dinner Talk

AS LASALLE LEADERS TALKED THINGS OVER—Brother David, director of public relations for LaSalle College, Philadelphia, and Kenneth D. Loeffler, head coach of LaSalle College's N.C.A.A. basketball champions, confer with Brother Daniel Hilary, F.S.C., principal of LaSalle High School and Brother Nicholas, of the LaSalle High faculty, prior to the annual LaSalle Sports Award Dinner, sponsored by the LaSalle Mothers Club, last night. Loeffler, whose Explorers beat Penn State and Bradley's Braves in the N.C.A.A. tourney at Kansas City, was the guest speaker at last night's affair. Shown left to right are: Bro. David, Coach Loeffler, Bro. Daniel Hilary and Bro. Nicholas, who made arrangements for the LaSalle College officials to come here.

AMONG LASALLE'S LETTER WINNERS — Dr. Leo H. Ley, Jr., who ministered to the ailing and injured gridders during the 1953 season, was among the letter winners at the Sports Awards Dinner of LaSalle High School last night at SS. Peter and Paul Parish Hall. In addition to the LaSalle "L," Dr. Ley also was presented a football upon which the names of the members of the squad are inscribed. Richard (Rickey) Harris, Bobby Christ and Denny Shuck were LaSalle's three-letter winners, having excelled in football, baseball and basketball. Christ and Shuck are seniors and Harris is a junior. The trophies held by Christ, Harris and Shuck are the same as presented to all LaSalle football lettermen. Christ also was the recipient of a trophy for having been selected on the All-Star football team. Those pictured above, left to right, are: Brother Daniel Hilary, F.S.C., LaSalle High principal; Harris, Christ, Dr. Ley, Brother Thomas, director of athletics, and Shuck.

41 Letters Go To Members Of Three Squads

Gridders Also Given Trophies; 100 Attend Mothers Club Affair

Competition is the life of the American boy and it is essential that every boy should play some team sport, Kenneth D. Loeffler, head coach of LaSalle College's N.C.A.A. basketball tournament champions told his audience of approximately 100 that assembled in SS. Peter and Paul Parish Hall last night for the annual Sports Award Dinner sponsored by the LaSalle Mothers Club.

Loeffler, whose Explorers have won 119 games and lost 25 over a five-year span, including the N.I.T. championship in 1952, was introduced by Brother David, director of public relations at the Christian Brothers' Philadelphia college.

Used Gola As Decoy

In introducing Loeffler, Bro. David stated that the LaSalle mentor was a graduate of Penn State College and the University of Pittsburgh law school, coached at Geneva, Yale and Denver and led the St. Louis Bombers to a pro league title. Speaking of the fabulous All-America Tom Gola, 6-foot-7 scoring ace of the Explorers who was unable to appear here, Bro. David emphasized that the LaSalle star could out-run all but a few in the college sport and credited Loeffler with sending Gola "up" as a great player. One important point stressed by Bro. David as proof of Loeffler's smartness as a coach came in the N.C.A.A. tourney where Tom was used as a decoy, resulting in other members of the team being the scoring players.

Loeffler's talk was interspersed with several humorous anecdotes that occurred during his coaching career. He related that many persons take different attitudes toward athletics, and cited one instance when a military leader who prescribed the purchase of archery sets for the athletes. Loeffler told of a wealthy owner of a pro basketball team who cut the salary of star Johnny Logan $10,000 and when asked why he did it he said —"so the player could fight his way back up." The same owner came into the players' dressing room before an important game and read a poem entitled: "Give More Than Ever Before." One of the players put the place in an uproar when he shouted: "Charity begins at home."

The LaSalle mentor also had a word for boys who fail to make the headlines. "All can't play on the first team," he declared, "but remember there is no such a player as an unimportant man."

Principal "Activity Minded"

Brother Thomas, director of athletics, thanked all those who made the affair possible. He stressed that Principal Br. Daniel is "activity minded" and added that the 200 boys at LaSalle participate in as many activities as the larger schools. He also thanked Coaches Norman F. Geatz, Jr., George Geatz, Bob Hall and Don Harden, who "have done wonders with the boys"; the leaders of the three new activities, namely, Jim Miller, rifle team; Charles Sloan, camera club, and Mr. Fleckenstein, of the Glee Club, and the support given the school by the press and radio.

Dr. Leo H. Ley, Jr., who served as LaSalle's team physician during the football season, was presented an autographed football to "kick around in his spare time." He was also the recipient of a school letter in appreciation of his services.

Gridmen Get Two Awards

The 23 members of the football team received trophies in addition to the coveted "L." Gridders receiving letters, were: Seniors: Robert Christ, Robert Feaga, Leo Franklin, William Kegg, Ronald Lennox, Jack Long, Dennis Shuck, James Williams, James Wilt and Jack O'Rourke. Juniors: John Blake, Joseph Conroy, William Dove, Dennis Drumm, Edward Feaga, Philip Geatz, Richard Harris, Harold Hudson and Kenneth Lowery. Sophomores: William Buzzard and Thomas Malamphy. Managers: Jack Kochis and Edward Lennox.

Basketeers receiving letters were: Seniors: Robert Christ, Galen McKenzie, Hugh Nolan, Bernard Spearman, Dennis Shuck. Juniors: William Dove, Richard Harris and Philip Geatz.

Baseball letter winners were: Seniors — Robert Christ, Ronald Connolly, Ronald Lennox, Galen McKenzie, Hugh Nolan, Dennis Shuck and Bernard Spearman. Juniors: Joseph Conroy, Richard Harris and Harold Hudson.

Riflemen Honored

Robert Thomas, of "The Torch," LaSalle school paper, received a letter, a trophy went to Pete Fraley for being the high scorer on the rifle team and James Sheehe, member of the rifle team, won an National Rifle Association award.

Father Lewis, former pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Church, now of McKeesport, Pa., received a special award.

The meal was prepared and served by the LaSalle Mothers Club.

Joseph Stakem acted as toastmaster, Father Marius Elsener, O.F.M., Cap., pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Church, invoked the blessing and benediction was pronounced by Rev. Regis Larkin, of St. Michael's Church, Frostburg.

Tri-Towns Will Fete Champion Cage Quintets

Achievement Dinner Planned April 8

WESTERNPORT — Members of Bruce High School, Piedmont High School and Howard High School basketball teams will be honored with a Tri-Towns Basketball Achievement Dinner Thursday, April 8 at 6:30 p. m.

The dinner is being co-sponsored by the Westernport and Luke Lions Club and the Piedmont Rotary Club to be held in the recreation hall of Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church.

Raschi Beats Yankees, 4-2

Ed Lopat Is Loser To St. Louis Cards

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 28 (AP)—Vic Raschi held his former New York Yankee teammates to five hits in as many innings today as the St. Louis Cardinals topped the world champions 4-2.

The result settled the spring series between the clubs at a game apiece. One game was rained out. The teams do not meet again.

Raschi, who was sold to St. Louis for $80,000 in a surprise deal late in February, gave up a run on a wild pitch. This came in the first inning after Gil McDougald tripled to deep left. The 35-year-old righthander now has allowed but 16 hits and five earned runs in 21 innings.

Eddie Lopat, veteran Yankee lefthander, operated on the hill for seven innings and was the losing pitcher. He was touched for eight hits and thee runs, one of the scores being unearned. Righthander Johnny Sain, in his first outing, faced the Redbirds in the final two innings and gave a run in the ninth when Rip Repulski singled and Red Schoendienst doubled.

Lakers Make NBA Playoff Finals

MINNEAPOLIS, March 28 (AP) — The Minneapolis Lakers finished fast for an 82-72 victory over Rochester today, clinching the Western Division championship in the National Basketball Association race.

Led by George Mikan with 17 points, five Lakers hit double scoring figures as Minneapolis burst into a quick early lead and then had to fight off a Rochester rally down the stretch.

Arnie Risen, Rochester center, was particularly difficult for the Lakers in the last stages. Big Arnie hit 24 points, 10 in the last period.

Toski Captures Azalea Tourney With 273 Score

Notches 4th Major Win In 7 Months

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 28 (AP)—Bob Toski, the little man with the big golf game, shot sub-par rounds of 70-71 today to win the $10,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament by three strokes with a 72-hole total of 273, 15 under par.

The 5-8, 127-pounder from Massachusetts who now plays out of Livingston, N. J., made it four major victories since Labor Day as he withstood a blazing challenge by George Fazio, Pine Valley, N. J., veteran, who came from far back in the pack with a pair of 67s today for second place at 276.

First money of $2,000 shot Toski's earnings for the year up to $5,794, almost $200 more than he won in all of 1953.

Fazio won $1,400 runnerup money. Tied for third at 278 were Lloyd Mangrum, Niles, Ill., and Mike Souchak, Mamaroneck, N.Y.

Sharing fifth place at 279 were Dutch Harrison, Ardmore, Okla., and Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N.Y. Harrison, came up with the best score of today's double round under leaden skies, a closing 65.

Next came Arnold Palmer, Wake Forest College senior and first day leader, who finished with 280 to tie Wally Ulrich, Maplewood, N.J. Second amateur back of Palmer was Frank Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio, who staged a 67 finish for 284.

Jackets Presented To Valley Girls

LONACONING — Principal Jack A. Petry presented jackets to the Valley High School girls basketball team on Thursday afternoon at an assembly program in the auditorium.

The Valley High Boosters Club awarded the jackets to the girls basketball team, coached by Mrs. Pauline S. Hamilton. Recipients of jackets were Martha Ann Staup, Leona Stafford, Shirley Smith, Frances Schlereth, Mary Braskey, Mary Dorothy Kirkwood, Lesta Eichhorn, Elsie Coburn, Shelva Wilson, Mary Alice Clark and Joyce Tharpe.

The sports jackets, black and white school colors, were used for the first season of Valley High School 1953-54 basketball team and purchased by the Boosters Club to award to the members of the team.

The Boosters Club recently awarded jackets to the Valley soccer team, winner of the WMI League championship.

Phils Trim Redlegs

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 28 (AP) — Earl Torgeson homered with a man on base today to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 6-4 exhibition baseball victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs. Cincinnati outhit the Phillies 16-10.

Torgeson's blast, the only extra base hit for Philadelphia, broke a 2-2 tie in the fifthand the Phils were never headed thereafter.

Jackie Collum started and lost for Cincinnati. He was relieved by Ken Raffensberger in the 6th. Lefty Curt Simmons pitched the first five innings and won his game.

Louise Suggs Wins Tourney

Edges Marlene Bauer, Babe Zaharias Third

SPARTANBURG, S. C., March 28 (AP)—Louise Suggs of Atlanta sank a 21-foot putt to beat Marlene Bauer of Sarasota, Fla., in a sudden-death playoff for the championship of the second annual Peach Blossom-Betsy Rawls Golf Tournament here today.

The pair had tied with 220s at the end of the 54-hole event.

Babe Zaharias, of Tampa, Fla., who entered today's 36-holes with a three-stroke lead, finished third, one stroke back of the leaders.

First place in the $3,500 event was worth $875 to Miss Suggs. Miss Bauer won $630 and Mrs. Zaharias $490.

Bosox Nose Out Tigers In 11th

Karl Olson's Single Decides 2-1 Battle

SARASOTA, Fla., March 28 (AP)—The rapidly improving Karl Olson, discharged from the Army late last season, cracked a sharp single to left center in the 11th inning today driving in the winning run as the Boston Red Sox downed the Detroit Tigers, 2-1.

A crowd of 2,485 Payne Field fans saw the Sox win their second extra inning exhibition game in two days. The Bostonians triumphed 3-1 over the St. Louis Cardinals in 13 innings yesterday at St. Petersburg.

Bonbus baby Billy Consolo opened the second extra inning by beating out an infield hit to third.

Olson failed twice in attempts to sacrifice the swift Consolo to second but when Detroit pitcher Dick Donovan wild pitched to the backstop Consolo raced to second.

Olson then singled to break up the marathon.

Physical Ed Instructors Criticize Little Leagues

Urge More Emphasis On School Program

FREDERICK, Md., March 28 (AP) — More emphasis on a physical education program for elementary schools and less on the Little League baseball program were urged yesterday at a statewide meeting of nearly 300 physical education instructors.

William C. Diehl, assistant superintendent of Washington County schools, urged the planning of a program which would provide for more supervised recreation among youngsters.

The criticism of Little League baseball, which involves teams for boys from 8 to 12, found partial agreement from Charlie Keller, former New York Yankee star who coached Frederick to the state Little League championship last year.

Keller said he thought extension of the program into regional and national playoffs created "too much pressure" on the youngsters and "too many thrills and too many disappointments early in life." Keller said, however, that he thoroughly approved of the program on a state level.

A panel of students, parents and educators urged that better supervised recreation programs be established in Maryland grade schools.

Crescent J. Bride, supervisor of physical education in Montgomery County, said he thought high schools also should tighten their eligibility rules. Bride said members of high school teams should not be allowed to play on independent teams as well. He said this was too strenuous for most boys.

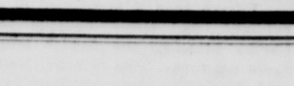

Baltimore Buys Murray From A's

THOMASVILLE, Ga., March 28 (AP)—General Manager Art Ehlers of the Baltimore Orioles announced today the purchase of 35-year-old catcher Ray Murray from the Philadelphia Athletics in a straight cash deal.

Terms of the transaction were not disclosed. No players were involved.

Murray, a 6-3, 204-pounder, played in 84 games for the Athletics last year and compiled a .284 batting average. He hit six home runs and had 41 runs-batted-in.

Ken Loeffler Stresses Team Sport In LaSalle Dinner Talk

AS LASALLE LEADERS TALKED THINGS OVER—Brother David, director of public relations for LaSalle College, Philadelphia, and Kenneth D. Loeffler, head coach of LaSalle College's N.C.A.A. basketball champions, confer with Brother Daniel Hilary, F.S.C., principal of LaSalle High School and Brother Nicholas, of the LaSalle High faculty, prior to the annual LaSalle Sports Award Dinner, sponsored by the LaSalle Mothers Club, last night. Loeffler, whose Explorers beat Penn State and Bradley's Braves in the N.C.A.A. tourney at Kansas City, was the guest speaker at last night's affair. Shown left to right are: Bro. David, Coach Loeffler, Bro. Daniel Hilary and Bro. Nicholas, who made arrangements for the LaSalle College officials to come here.

AMONG LASALLE'S LETTER WINNERS — Dr. Leo H. Ley, Jr., who ministered to the ailing and injured gridders during the 1953 season, was among the letter winners at the Sports Awards Dinner of LaSalle High School last night at SS. Peter and Paul Parish Hall. In addition to the LaSalle "L," Dr. Ley also was presented a football upon which the names of the members of the squad are inscribed. Richard (Rickey) Harris, Bobby Christ and Denny Shuck were LaSalle's three-letter winners, having excelled in football, baseball and basketball. Christ and Shuck are seniors and Harris is a junior. The trophies held by Christ, Harris and Shuck are the same as presented to all LaSalle football lettermen. Christ also was the recipient of a trophy for having been selected on the All-Star football team. Those pictured above, left to right, are: Brother Daniel Hilary, F.S.C., LaSalle High principal; Harris, Christ, Dr. Ley, Brother Thomas, director of athletics, and Shuck.

41 Letters Go To Members Of Three Squads

Gridders Also Given Trophies; 100 Attend Mothers Club Affair

Competition is the life of the American boy and it is essential that every boy should play some team sport, Kenneth D. Loeffler, head coach of LaSalle College's N.C.A.A. basketball tournament champions told his audience of approximately 100 that assembled in SS. Peter and Paul Parish Hall last night for the annual Sports Award Dinner sponsored by the LaSalle Mothers Club.

Loeffler, whose Explorers have won 119 games and lost 25 over a five-year span, including the N.I.T. championship in 1952, was introduced by Brother David, director of public relations at the Christian Brothers' Philadelphia college.

Used Gola As Decoy

In introducing Loeffler, Bro. David stated that the LaSalle mentor was a graduate of Penn State College and the University of Pittsburgh law school, coached at Geneva, Yale and Denver and led the St. Louis Bombers to a pro league title. Speaking of the fabulous All-America Tom Gola, 6-foot-7 scoring ace of the Explorers who was unable to appear here, Bro. David emphasized that the LaSalle star could out-run all but a few in the college sport and credited Loeffler with sending Gola "up" as a great player. One important point stressed by Bro. David as proof of Loeffler's smartness as a coach came in the N.C.A.A. tourney where Tom was used as a decoy, resulting in other members of the team being the scoring players.

Loeffler's talk was interspersed with several humorous anecdotes that occurred during his coaching career. He related that many persons take different attitudes toward athletics, and cited one instance when a military leader who prescribed the purchase of archery sets for the athletes. Loeffler told of a wealthy owner of a pro basketball team who cut the salary of star Johnny Logan $10,000 and when asked why he did it he said —"so the player could fight his way back up." The same owner came into the players' dressing room before an important game and read a poem entitled: "Give More Than Ever Before." One of the players put the place in an uproar when he shouted: "Charity begins at home."

The LaSalle mentor also had a word for boys who fail to make the headlines. "All can't play on the first team," he declared, "but remember there is no such a player as an unimportant man."

Principal "Activity Minded"

Brother Thomas, director of athletics, thanked all those who made the affair possible. He stressed that Principal Br. Daniel is "activity minded" and added that the 200 boys at LaSalle participate in as many activities as the larger schools. He also thanked Coaches Norman F. Geatz, Jr., George Geatz, Bob Hall and Don Harden, who "have done wonders with the boys"; the leaders of the three new activities, namely, Jim Miller, rifle team; Charles Sloan, camera club, and Mr. Fleckenstein, of the Glee Club, and the support given the school by the press and radio.

Dr. Leo H. Ley, Jr., who served as LaSalle's team physician during the football season, was presented an autographed football to "kick around in his spare time." He was also the recipient of a school letter in appreciation of his services.

Gridmen Get Two Awards

The 23 members of the football team received trophies in addition to the coveted "L." Gridders receiving letters, were: Seniors: Robert Christ, Robert Feaga, Leo Franklin, William Kegg, Ronald Lennox, Jack Long, Dennis Shuck, James Williams, James Wilt and Jack O'Rourke. Juniors: John Blake, Joseph Conroy, William Dove, Dennis Drumm, Edward Feaga, Philip Geatz, Richard Harris, Harold Hudson and Kenneth Lowery. Sophomores: William Buzzard and Thomas Malamphy. Managers: Jack Kochis and Edward Lennox.

Basketeers receiving letters were: Seniors: Robert Christ, Galen McKenzie, Hugh Nolan, Bernard Spearman, Dennis Shuck. Juniors: William Dove, Richard Harris and Philip Geatz.

Baseball letter winners were: Seniors — Robert Christ, Ronald Connolly, Ronald Lennox, Galen McKenzie, Hugh Nolan, Dennis Shuck and Bernard Spearman. Juniors: Joseph Conroy, Richard Harris and Harold Hudson.

Riflemen Honored

Robert Thomas, of "The Torch," LaSalle school paper, received a letter, a trophy went to Pete Fraley for being the high scorer on the rifle team and James Sheehe, member of the rifle team, won an National Rifle Association award.

Father Lewis, former pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Church, now of McKeesport, Pa., received a special award.

The meal was prepared and served by the LaSalle Mothers Club.

Joseph Stakem acted as toastmaster, Father Marius Elsener, O.F.M., Cap., pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Church, invoked the blessing and benediction was pronounced by Rev. Regis Larkin, of St. Michael's Church, Frostburg.

The sports jackets, black and white school colors, were used for the first season of Valley High School 1953-54 basketball team and purchased by the Boosters Club to award to the members of the team.

The Boosters Club recently awarded jackets to the Valley soccer team, winner of the WMI League championship.

Phils Trim Redlegs

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 28 (AP) — Earl Torgeson homered with a man on base today to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 6-4 exhibition baseball victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs. Cincinnati outhit the Phillies 16-10.

Torgeson's blast, the only extra base hit for Philadelphia, broke a 2-2 tie in the fifthand the Phils were never headed thereafter.

Jackie Collum started and lost for Cincinnati. He was relieved by Ken Raffensberger in the 6th. Lefty Curt Simmons pitched the first five innings and won his game.

St. Clair Wins Race

NAPLES, March 28 (AP) — The American-bred, Italian-owned St. Clair today won the grand prize of Agnano, the trotting race on which Italy's national lottery pays off $33,000. The American racer overcame a 20-member handicap imposed on all foreign favorites and covered the 1,700 meters in 1:19.04.

Louise Suggs Wins Tourney

Edges Marlene Bauer, Babe Zaharias Third

SPARTANBURG, S. C., March 28 (AP)—Louise Suggs of Atlanta sank a 21-foot putt to beat Marlene Bauer of Sarasota, Fla., in a sudden-death playoff for the championship of the second annual Peach Blossom-Betsy Rawls Golf Tournament here today.

The pair had tied with 220s at the end of the 54-hole event.

Babe Zaharias, of Tampa, Fla., who entered today's 36-holes with a three-stroke lead, finished third, one stroke back of the leaders.

First place in the $3,500 event was worth $875 to Miss Suggs. Miss Bauer won $630 and Mrs. Zaharias $490.

Karl Olson's Single Decides 2-1 Battle

SARASOTA, Fla., March 28 (AP)—The rapidly improving Karl Olson, discharged from the Army late last season, cracked a sharp single to left center in the 11th inning today driving in the winning run as the Boston Red Sox downed the Detroit Tigers, 2-1.

A crowd of 2,485 Payne Field fans saw the Sox win their second extra inning exhibition game in two days. The Bostonians triumphed 3-1 over the St. Louis Cardinals in 13 innings yesterday at St. Petersburg.

Bonbus baby Billy Consolo opened the second extra inning by beating out an infield hit to third.

Olson failed twice in attempts to sacrifice the swift Consolo to second but when Detroit pitcher Dick Donovan wild pitched to the backstop Consolo raced to second.

Olson then singled to break up the marathon.

The Tigers scored their single run in the second inning, an unearned run off lefthanded Leo Kiely, another returned GI, who went seven innings.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., March 28 (AP)—The first cuts in the 48-man spring training squad of the Baltimore Orioles sent a pitcher and two infielders to Richmond, Va., of the International League yesterday.

Infielder Dee Phillips was sold outright to the Virginians and rookie infielder Bob Caffrey and pitcher Frank Fanovich were optioned. They left Albuquerque last night for Richmond's spring training camp at Sanford, Fla.

Chicago Sox Trip Dodgers

Fain Paces Attack In 10 To 5 Triumph

TAMPA, Fla., March 28 (AP) — Ferris Fain connected for two doubles and a single to lead a 12-hit attack on three Brooklyn pitchers as the Chicago White Sox defeated the National League champions 10-5 today.

Sherman Lollar and Johnny Lipon hit home runs for the Sox, while all of the Brooklyn tallies resulted from homers. Billy Cox hit for the circuit with two on in the second while Sandy Amoros and Jackie Robinson homered in the ninth.

Don Johnson and Harry Dorish shared the pitching for the American Leaguers. Carl Erskine started for Brooklyn and hurled three scoreless frames after a two-run first.

Physical Ed Instructors Criticize Little Leagues

Urge More Emphasis On School Program

FREDERICK, Md., March 28 (AP) — More emphasis on a physical education program for elementary schools and less on the Little League baseball program were urged yesterday at a statewide meeting of nearly 300 physical education instructors.

William C. Diehl, assistant superintendent of Washington County schools, urged the planning of a program which would provide for more supervised recreation among youngsters.

The criticism of Little League baseball, which involves teams for boys from 8 to 12, found partial agreement from Charlie Keller, former New York Yankee star who coached Frederick to the state Little League championship last year.

Keller said he thought extension of the program into regional and national playoffs created "too much pressure" on the youngsters and "too many thrills and too many disappointments early in life." Keller said, however, that he thoroughly approved of the program on a state level.

A panel of students, parents and educators urged that better supervised recreation programs be established in Maryland grade schools.

Crescent J. Bride, supervisor of physical education in Montgomery County, said he thought high schools also should tighten their eligibility rules. Bride said members of high school teams should not be allowed to play on independent teams as well. He said this was too strenuous for most boys.

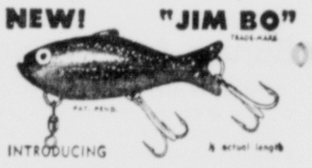

Baltimore Buys Murray From A's

THOMASVILLE, Ga., March 28 (AP)—General Manager Art Ehlers of the Baltimore Orioles announced today the purchase of 35-year-old catcher Ray Murray from the Philadelphia Athletics in a straight cash deal.

Terms of the transaction were not disclosed. No players were involved.

Murray, a 6-3, 204-pounder, played in 84 games for the Athletics last year and compiled a .284 batting average. He hit six home runs and had 41 runs-batted-in.

Olson-Gavilan Go Highlights Fight Program

Middleweight Title Is At Stake Friday

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) — Middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson of San Francisco defends his crown against welterweight king Kid Gavilan of Cuba at Chicago Friday night in the "fight of the year."

The outstanding 15-rounder between the two champions tops a great all-around card for the week. it's truly the "week of the year" in boxing.

Bobo Wins 12 In Row

The 26-year old Olson, winner of 12 in a row, makes his first defense since he won the 160-pound crown by whipping Turpin last October. He is the 9-5 favorite to turn back the clever, 28-year-old Cuban who is hoping to become the fifth welterweight champion to win the middleweight title too. The others were Tommy Ryan, Mickey Walker, Lou Brouillard and Ray Robinson.

Chicago's Stadium is scaled to hold 19,400 and gross $360,000. Starting at 10 p.m. EST, the bout will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) coast to coast. Chicago and a 10-mile area around the city will be blacked out of the telecast.

On Monday, Dan Bucceroni, No. 3 heavyweight contender from Philadelphia, takes on Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, the fast-rising, 22-year-old New York youngster who stopped Rex Layne and beat Clarence Henry in his last two starts. Bucceroni is an 8-5 favorite.

The ten-round bout at Brooklyn will start at 10 p.m. EST. It will be telecast (Dumont) to some parts of the country.

Fight In London

Roland LaStarza of New York, the fourth ranking heavyweight contender from New York, opposes burly Don Cockell, fifth ranking contender from England, in a ten-rounder in London Tuesday night.

This is LaStarza's first outing since he was stopped in 11 rounds by heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, Sept. 24. On the same card, England's Randy Turpin, former middleweight champion, meets Sweden's Olle Bengsston in a ten, and Trinidad's Yolande Pompey faces Italy's Ivano Fontana in another middleweight ten.

The Wednesday night TV fight (CBS) matches lightweight contenders Art Persley, Red Cross, Ia., and Armand Savoie, Montreal, at St. Louis. Starting time is 10 p.m. EST.

Saturday night's coast to coast television fight (ABC, 9 p.m. EST), matches Percy Bassett, top ranking featherweight from Philadelphia, and undefeated Cisco Andrade of Los Angeles at Washington, D.C.

Saddler takes on Augie Salazar of San Francisco in a non-title ten-rounder at the Boston arena Thursday night.

Globetrotters Win

NEW YORK, March 28 (INS) — A crowd of 18,243 jammed Madison Square Garden this afternoon to see the Harlem Globetrotters mix comedy and basketball to launch their annual spring barnstorming tour with a 73-to-70 victory over the College All-Stars.

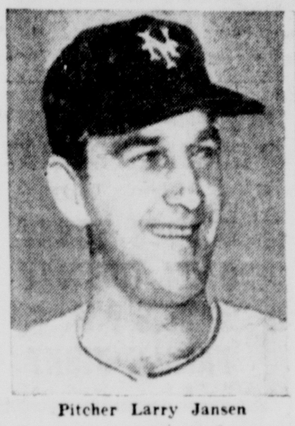

The Globetrotters had to come from behind as the All-Stars, led by Bob Leonard of Indiana and Dick Rosenthal of Notre Dame, piled up a 35-to-30 halftime lead. The two teams play another game at the Garden tonight.

N. Y. Giants May Be Just That With Improved Pitching Staff

Pitcher Larry Jansen

Pitcher John Antonelli

Outfielder Willie Mays

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is another in a series of stories on major league baseball clubs in training. Others will follow.

By S. D. ROCKWELL
Central Press Correspondent

For one whose club came apart at the seams last season and wound up a poor fifth in the National league race, Manager Leo Durocher of the New York Giants is strangely contented this spring. How come?

"We're not going to finish fifth again," he tells you confidently. "This is a pretty good ball club and it might go all the way."

A pretty good ball club, you ask? What makes it so different from the club that barely staggered to the finish of the '53 race?

"Lots of things," Durocher says. "Willie Mays is finally out of the Army. Our pitching staff is stronger. Maglie and Jansen are in better shape."

It is general knowledge that the Giants' collapse last season was due to lack of good pitching. Sal Maglie, Larry Jansen and Jim Hearn totaled 28 victories. Hoyt Wilhelm, the sensational rookie of '52, lost his effectiveness.

The Giants' staff was in such deplorable condition, in fact, that the top winner was a freshman, Ruben Gomez. And he posted only 13 victories.

The first steps toward strengthening the mound were made when Bobby Thomson, whose home run in '51 was heard 'round the world, was traded to the Milwaukee Braves for left-handed pitchers John Antonelli and Don Liddle.

"Both of them should help us—Antonelli in particular," Durocher says. "He's only a kid and he's got great stuff. He could be one of the best in the league this year.

"But don't overlook Maglie and Jansen. The Barber has been looking terrific. You know, he went to doctors last fall and they found that he had a curvature of the spine. They put a lift in his shoe to correct the condition and now he feels all right.

"Jansen had back trouble, too, but it seems to have cleared up. At least, it hasn't been bothering him yet and he's looked pretty good on the mound."

DUROCHER, naturally, is enthusiastic about Mays, the young Negro who came out of nowhere in 1951 to help the Giants capture the pennant. The following summer he went into the Army and now, at 22, he is ready to continue what promises to be a great career.

"There's no one like Willie," Durocher says. "Great arm, great speed, great power. And no one loves to play ball more than that kid. He'll be even better than he was in '51. I don't think the Army took anything out of him."

The Giants' camp had no sooner opened than the talkative pilot named seven regulars: Monte Irvin, Mays and Don Mueller in the outfield, Whitey Lockman at first base, Davey Williams at second, Al Dark at shortstop and Hank Thompson at third base.

He neglected to include Wes Westrum, the Giants' veteran catcher, on the first string, but the burly backstop took matters in his own hands and began blasting the ball. Westrum was a disappointment last year, batting only .224 and knocking in only 30 runs.

Westrum is now being challenged by Ray Katt, who battled .326 and hit 28 home runs for Minneapolis. Another candidate is Ebba St. Claire, also acquired from Milwaukee in the Bobby Thomson deal.

DUROCHER feels that the Giants have greater depth all around than they had last year. Some promising graduates of Minneapolis and Nashville have given them a better bench, he says.

One is Foster Castleman, a young infielder who came out of the Army last summer and was sent to Minneapolis where he batted .368 in 20 games. Castleman is now second base understudy to Davey Williams, who has a chronic back condition.

Another prospect is big Bill Taylor, who won the batting championship of the Southern association with a .350 mark at Nashville. A six-four, 210-pound giant, Taylor may need further seasoning, but Durocher has tabbed him for future stardom.

"Bob Hofman will be my No. 1 pinch hitter and utility infielder," Leo says. "A real handy guy to have around."

As for pitching, the Giants will sink or swim with Maglie, Jansen, Hearn, Antonelli, Wilhelm and Gomez. There isn't much talent coming up from the farms to take the place of the elderly members of the staff.

One possibility, though, is John McCall, purchased, from San Francisco, where he won 12 games and lost seven last year. Another is Mario Picone, who won 14 games and lost eight for a poor Minneapolis club.

"Everyone seems to worry more about my pitching than I do," Durocher says. "I'm very confident that we have all the help we need. I'm certain that Maglie and Jansen will come back."

JUDGING TH'? GIANTS

On The Line
by Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS) —I seem to be on a U.N. kick lately. But what can a guy do who has given up cubebs for Lent?

U. N. is more than a debating society. Matter of fact, it is accomplishing something now which will come as a surprise to its sharper critics, one of whom, Bugs Baer, once demanded, "Do something or put back the brewery," a hilarious reference to a treasured building which had to be razed to make room for Hammarskjold's glass works.

U. N. has gone into the fishing business. Its F O A (For An Agriculture Organization) has made the depressing discovery that although half the surface of the earth is covered by the sea only one per cent of the food for the earth's 2,500,000,000 people is pulled from this protein rich water.

Most people fish incorrectly, after all these teeming centuries, U. N. says. It deplores "the low efficiency with which the great majority of the world's fisherman carry on their work, with only wind and muscle to drive their boats and haul their nets and lines."

"In tropical areas," says an exclusive understatement from FOA, "the fishermen often rely on the wind that blows from the land in the morning to take their simple sailing boats to the fishing grounds and on the breeze that blows from the sea in the afternoon to bring them home again." Winds, FOA adds darkly, "are weak and inconstant."

U. N. is doing something about this. It sent a master fisherman, a fisheries biologist, and a marine engineer to Ceylon in 1951. Incredibly, with the exception of a single steam-trawler, there was not one motor-powered fishing boat on the island, though it has 60,000 people whose main occupation is fishing.

U. N. put small diesels in three Ceylonese fishermen's boats, and gave the instructions how to maintain them. At the end of six months it offered to remove the engines and restore the boats to their primitive stage, but the fishermen begged permission to buy the engines. They had done better than any fishermen in the memory of the grayest graybeard. There is now a great demand for such engines, and people are eating better because more fish are being caught — in a land where the fisherman's lot was so depressed for centuries that a young man inheriting a fishing boat often inherited also the debts of his fisherman grandfather and father.

The same thing was tried in Saudi Arabia, India, Liberia, Turkey, Israel and Iraq. The Red Sea was considered "fished out" for centuries. Now it is yielding commercially profitable tonnages of fish. Actually, there had never — never — been a motor-powered fishing vessel operated by a Saudi Arabian before U. N., an international version of Ike Walton strolled along.

Now a fishing company is being sponsored with a capital of more than a million pounds sterling, and ice plants are being built to preserve a finny harvest which had awaited only an engine capable of propelling fishermen to it.

Did a piece recently suggesting that we were being too rough on Carlos Prio Socarras, president of Cuba and a good friend of the U. S. until forced to flee after Batista overthrew the government.

Somebody else thinks so, too:

"I read your article in the Miami Herald regarding the exiled president of Cuba. It was the first I have read that gives the real facts and in a concise manner. It was a great mistake to bring charges against him the way it was done.

"I have been in touch with the reaction it had on the Latin American countries, and it has made a hero out of Prio and put us in a very bad light. Prio worked very well with me when I was U. S. ambassador to Cuba. He was always very friendly to the U.S.A.

"Yours truly —

"ROBERT BUTLER."

Phils Purchase Bobby Morgan From Dodgers

Brooklyn Will Get Dick Young, Cash

TAMPA, Fla., March 28 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers today sold utility infielder Bobby Morgan to the Philadelphia Phillies for a reported $60,000 and second baseman Dick Young. Young has been assigned to Montreal, a Brooklyn farm club in the International League.

Morgan, a righthanded batter who will be 28 in June, has spent three seasons with the Dodgers, after leading the International League in batting in 1949 with Montreal. He also was named the league's most valuable player that year.

Originally a shortstop, the blond Oklahoman played all infield positions for Brooklyn, opening two seasons as the regular third baseman. Morgan batted .260 in 69 games last year. In each of his three years with the Dodgers he hit seven homers.

Young, a 25-year-old switch-hitter, spent the 1953 season with both Louisville and Charleston in the American Association, batting .236.

Casey Comments

ST. PETERSBURG (AP) — Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees has his own opinion of Ted Williams, broken left collarbone or not. Here's what Casey says.

"He played for me in the All-Star game in Chicago when he crashed against the left field wall. They took two bones out of his arm and it made him better.

"Then before that Dixie Walker fractured his collarbone as a Yankee and look what he did for Brooklyn."

Neptune is a planet of our solar system which we can never see with the naked eye.

Middleweight Title Is At Stake Friday

The outstanding 15-rounder between the two champions tops a great all-around card for the week. it's truly the "week of the year" in boxing.

Bobo Wins 12 In Row

The 26-year old Olson, winner of 12 in a row, makes his first defense since he won the 160-pound crown by whipping Turpin last October. He is the 9-5 favorite to turn back the clever, 28-year-old Cuban who is hoping to become the fifth welterweight champion to win the middleweight title too. The others were Tommy Ryan, Mickey Walker, Lou Brouillard and Ray Robinson.

Chicago's Stadium is scaled to hold 19,400 and gross $360,000. Starting at 10 p.m. EST, the bout will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) coast to coast. Chicago and a 10-mile area around the city will be blacked out of the telecast.

On Monday, Dan Bucceroni, No. 3 heavyweight contender from Philadelphia, takes on Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, the fast-rising, 22-year-old New York youngster who stopped Rex Layne and beat Clarence Henry in his last two starts. Bucceroni is an 8-5 favorite.

The ten-round bout at Brooklyn will start at 10 p.m. EST. It will be telecast (Dumont) to some parts of the country.

Fight In London

Roland LaStarza of New York, the fourth ranking heavyweight contender from New York, opposes burly Don Cockell, fifth ranking contender from England, in a ten-rounder in London Tuesday night.

This is LaStarza's first outing since he was stopped in 11 rounds by heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, Sept. 24. On the same card, England's Randy Turpin, former middleweight champion, meets Sweden's Olle Bengsston in a ten, and Trinidad's Yolande Pompey faces Italy's Ivano Fontana in another middleweight ten.

The Wednesday night TV fight (CBS) matches lightweight contenders Art Persley, Red Cross, Ia., and Armand Savoie, Montreal, at St. Louis. Starting time is 10 p.m. EST.

Saturday night's coast to coast television fight (ABC, 9 p.m. EST), matches Percy Bassett, top ranking featherweight from Philadelphia, and undefeated Cisco Andrade of Los Angeles at Washington, D.C.

Saddler takes on Augie Salazar of San Francisco in a non-title ten-rounder at the Boston arena Thursday night.

Globetrotters Win

NEW YORK, March 28 (INS) — A crowd of 18,243 jammed Madison Square Garden this afternoon to see the Harlem Globetrotters mix comedy and basketball to launch their annual spring barnstorming tour with a 73-to-70 victory over the College All-Stars.

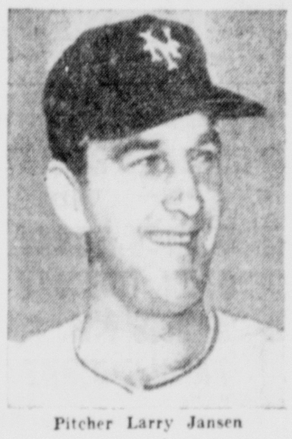

The Globetrotters had to come from behind as the All-Stars, led by Bob Leonard of Indiana and Dick Rosenthal of Notre Dame, piled up a 35-to-30 halftime lead. The two teams play another game at the Garden tonight.

N. Y. Giants May Be Just That With Improved Pitching Staff

Pitcher Larry Jansen

Pitcher John Antonelli

Outfielder Willie Mays

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is another in a series of stories on major league baseball clubs in training. Others will follow.

By S. D. ROCKWELL
Central Press Correspondent

For one whose club came apart at the seams last season and wound up a poor fifth in the National league race, Manager Leo Durocher of the New York Giants is strangely contented this spring. How come?

"We're not going to finish fifth again," he tells you confidently. "This is a pretty good ball club and it might go all the way."

A pretty good ball club, you ask? What makes it so different from the club that barely staggered to the finish of the '53 race?

"Lots of things," Durocher says. "Willie Mays is finally out of the Army. Our pitching staff is stronger. Maglie and Jansen are in better shape."

It is general knowledge that the Giants' collapse last season was due to lack of good pitching. Sal Maglie, Larry Jansen and Jim Hearn totaled 28 victories. Hoyt Wilhelm, the sensational rookie of '52, lost his effectiveness.

The Giants' staff was in such deplorable condition, in fact, that the top winner was a freshman, Ruben Gomez. And he posted only 13 victories.

The first steps toward strengthening the mound were made when Bobby Thomson, whose home run in '51 was heard 'round the world, was traded to the Milwaukee Braves for left-handed pitchers John Antonelli and Don Liddle.

"Both of them should help us—Antonelli in particular," Durocher says. "He's only a kid and he's got great stuff. He could be one of the best in the league this year.

"But don't overlook Maglie and Jansen. The Barber has been looking terrific. You know, he went to doctors last fall and they found that he had a curvature of the spine. They put a lift in his shoe to correct the condition and now he feels all right.

"Jansen had back trouble, too, but it seems to have cleared up. At least, it hasn't been bothering him yet and he's looked pretty good on the mound."

DUROCHER, naturally, is enthusiastic about Mays, the young Negro who came out of nowhere in 1951 to help the Giants capture the pennant. The following summer he went into the Army and now, at 22, he is ready to continue what promises to be a great career.

"There's no one like Willie," Durocher says. "Great arm, great speed, great power. And no one loves to play ball more than that kid. He'll be even better than he was in '51. I don't think the Army took anything out of him."

The Giants' camp had no sooner opened than the talkative pilot named seven regulars: Monte Irvin, Mays and Don Mueller in the outfield, Whitey Lockman at first base, Davey Williams at second, Al Dark at shortstop and Hank Thompson at third base.

He neglected to include Wes Westrum, the Giants' veteran catcher, on the first string, but the burly backstop took matters in his own hands and began blasting the ball. Westrum was a disappointment last year, batting only .224 and knocking in only 30 runs.

Westrum is now being challenged by Ray Katt, who battled .326 and hit 28 home runs for Minneapolis. Another candidate is Ebba St. Claire, also acquired from Milwaukee in the Bobby Thomson deal.

DUROCHER feels that the Giants have greater depth all around than they had last year. Some promising graduates of Minneapolis and Nashville have given them a better bench, he says.

One is Foster Castleman, a young infielder who came out of the Army last summer and was sent to Minneapolis where he batted .368 in 20 games. Castleman is now second base understudy to Davey Williams, who has a chronic back condition.

Another prospect is big Bill Taylor, who won the batting championship of the Southern association with a .350 mark at Nashville. A six-four, 210-pound giant, Taylor may need further seasoning, but Durocher has tabbed him for future stardom.

"Bob Hofman will be my No. 1 pinch hitter and utility infielder," Leo says. "A real handy guy to have around."

As for pitching, the Giants will sink or swim with Maglie, Jansen, Hearn, Antonelli, Wilhelm and Gomez. There isn't much talent coming up from the farms to take the place of the elderly members of the staff.

One possibility, though, is John McCall, purchased, from San Francisco, where he won 12 games and lost seven last year. Another is Mario Picone, who won 14 games and lost eight for a poor Minneapolis club.

"Everyone seems to worry more about my pitching than I do," Durocher says. "I'm very confident that we have all the help we need. I'm certain that Maglie and Jansen will come back."

JUDGING THE GIANTS

On The Line
by Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS) —I seem to be on a U.N. kick lately. But what can a guy do who has given up cubebs for Lent?

U. N. is more than a debating society. Matter of fact, it is accomplishing something now which will come as a surprise to its sharper critics, one of whom, Bugs Baer, once demanded, "Do something or put back the brewery," a hilarious reference to a treasured building which had to be razed to make room for Hammarskjold's glass works.

U. N. has gone into the fishing business. Its F O A (For An Agriculture Organization) has made the depressing discovery that although half the surface of the earth is covered by the sea only one per cent of the food for the earth's 2,500,000,000 people is pulled from this protein rich water.

Most people fish incorrectly, after all these teeming centuries, U. N. says. It deplores "the low efficiency with which the great majority of the world's fisherman carry on their work, with only wind and muscle to drive their boats and haul their nets and lines."

"In tropical areas," says an exclusive understatement from FOA, "the fishermen often rely on the wind that blows from the land in the morning to take their simple sailing boats to the fishing grounds and on the breeze that blows from the sea in the afternoon to bring them home again." Winds, FOA adds darkly, "are weak and inconstant."

U. N. is doing something about this. It sent a master fisherman, a fisheries biologist, and a marine engineer to Ceylon in 1951. Incredibly, with the exception of a single steam-trawler, there was not one motor-powered fishing boat on the island, though it has 60,000 people whose main occupation is fishing.

U. N. put small diesels in three Ceylonese fishermen's boats, and gave the instructions how to maintain them. At the end of six months it offered to remove the engines and restore the boats to their primitive stage, but the fishermen begged permission to buy the engines. They had done better than any fishermen in the memory of the grayest graybeard. There is now a great demand for such engines, and people are eating better because more fish are being caught — in a land where the fisherman's lot was so depressed for centuries that a young man inheriting a fishing boat often inherited also the debts of his fisherman grandfather and father.

The same thing was tried in Saudi Arabia, India, Liberia, Turkey, Israel and Iraq. The Red Sea was considered "fished out" for centuries. Now it is yielding commercially profitable tonnages of fish. Actually, there had never — never — been a motor-powered fishing vessel operated by a Saudi Arabian before U. N., an international version of Ike Walton strolled along.

Now a fishing company is being sponsored with a capital of more than a million pounds sterling, and ice plants are being built to preserve a finny harvest which had awaited only an engine capable of propelling fishermen to it.

Did a piece recently suggesting that we were being too rough on Carlos Prio Socarras, president of Cuba and a good friend of the U. S. until forced to flee after Batista overthrew the government.

Somebody else thinks so, too:

"I read your article in the Miami Herald regarding the exiled president of Cuba. It was the first I have read that gives the real facts and in a concise manner. It was a great mistake to bring charges against him the way it was done.

"I have been in touch with the reaction it had on the Latin American countries, and it has made a hero out of Prio and put us in a very bad light. Prio worked very well with me when I was U. S. ambassador to Cuba. He was always very friendly to the U.S.A.

"ROBERT BUTLER."

The average American man or woman thinks that three children are an ideal number. The wives think the first child should not arrive until the second year of marriage.

Phils Purchase Bobby Morgan From Dodgers

Brooklyn Will Get Dick Young, Cash

TAMPA, Fla., March 28 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers today sold utility infielder Bobby Morgan to the Philadelphia Phillies for a reported $60,000 and second baseman Dick Young. Young has been assigned to Montreal, a Brooklyn farm club in the International League.

Morgan, a righthanded batter who will be 28 in June, has spent three seasons with the Dodgers, after leading the International League in batting in 1949 with Montreal. He also was named the league's most valuable player that year.

Originally a shortstop, the blond Oklahoman played all infield positions for Brooklyn, opening two seasons as the regular third baseman. Morgan batted .260 in 69 games last year. In each of his three years with the Dodgers he hit seven homers.

Young, a 25-year-old switch-hitter, spent the 1953 season with both Louisville and Charleston in the American Association, batting .236.

Casey Comments

ST. PETERSBURG (AP) — Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees has his own opinion of Ted Williams, broken left collarbone or not. Here's what Casey says.

"He played for me in the All-Star game in Chicago when he crashed against the left field wall. They took two bones out of his arm and it made him better.

"Then before that Dixie Walker fractured his collarbone as a Yankee and look what he did for Brooklyn."

Neptune is a planet of our solar system which we can never see with the naked eye.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 28 (INS)—I knew very well after I saw "Knock On Wood" that Paramount would not let Danny Kaye go without a struggle. Sure enough, Norman Panama and Melvin Frank have sold the studio "The Court Jester" for Danny, which goes before the cameras in July.

Sylvia Fine will write the lyrics for her ever lovin' husband's comedy, part of which will be filmed in England, according to Don Hartman. Two million dollars will be spent on the picture, and it's going to be one of Para's big movie ventures with vistavision and technicolor.

Jean Simmons is being sought to play opposite Daniel.

The happiest Oscar winner of them all, Donna Reed, has something new to cheer about. She'll play Mrs. Sigmund Romberg in "The Sigmund Romberg Story" at MGM with Jose Ferrer and Merle Oberon.

A few years ago Donna was indigo blue because she felt she wasn't getting anywhere.

Now she has the Oscar and TWO important films at MGM. Before she does the Romberg story she'll be in "The Last Time I Saw Paris."

David Wayne and Audrey Hepburn are the "winnahs" of the Antoinette Perry awards which are to stage actors what the Oscars are to Hollywood.

I haven't seen Audrey in "Ondine" but I most certainly did see David Wayne in "Teahouse Of The August Moon" and if anyone ever deserved a tribute as "best actor" it is David. His is one of the most sensitive and gently humorous portrayals of theatre history.

What a year for Audrey Hepburn! Both the Oscar and the Antoinette within days of each other and earlier the Film Critics award.

Nancy Sinatra, Jr. wanted to make sure her daddy would win the academy award, so she followed the St. Genesius medal she and Frankie Jr. gave him with a St. Anthony medal, presented on the night of the awards.

Frank had dinner with the two children, but he was so nervous he couldn't eat, and neither could they.

On the back of the St. Genesius medal was a small Oscar, so all in all Frank just had to win, both for his performance, for going after the role of Maggio, and for the spiritual aid in his behalf entreated by both his children.

The girl who gives a man a little competition is doing all right for herself, and that's what Kay Williams Spreckels has been doing to Hal Hayes.

Kay has had a guest in town, Jack Hogan, head of United Insurance Company, who comes from Chicago. He came to see Kay and brought along his mother and father. Of course, another reason for the Hogan visit is that a big insurance building is being built in Los Angeles.

Kay insists that she and Jack are merely friends, but she is the only girl he dated while he was here.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Joan Crawford introduced me to Charles Baron, who was having dinner with her and Jennings Lang at Chasen's. He is Joan's new romance.

And, at Chasen's after the academy awards, William Holden had a party of about 10, and his Oscar was in the center of the table.

Nancy and Ronnie Reagan, who were with Bill and Brenda, had smiles that wouldn't come off. As for Richard Carlson, in the same party, several people rushed up and congratulated him, he looks so much like Bill.

I went to Chasen's with Dr. and Mrs. Myron Prinzmetal, and Blanche Prinzmetal was as pretty as any of the stars. With them and Jimmy McHugh I had gone earlier to the awards. Jimmy went home early—doctor's orders.

Jeanne Crain and Paul Brinkman joined us at dinner.

Don Hartman handed me a telegram he had received from Audrey Hepburn the morning of the awards in which she said, "Am sorry you will be disappointed, but the fact that you want me to have an Oscar is award enough for me."

At Ramonoff's, Anita and Buddy Adler gave a party to celebrate "From Here To Eternity," which carried off the major portion of the awards.

Over the weekend Ken Tynin, critic for London Punch, arrived to spend a week with the James Masons and another week with the Gene Kellys.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

The Great Tradition Of Roguery

"Colonel Humphrey Flack," which may be the first big hit of the Dumont network (apart from Bishop Sheen), is based on short stories written by Everett Rhodes Castle for "The Saturday Evening Post" where you may have stumbled on this rascal before.

John Crosby

Colonel Flack is described as a modern day Robin Hood. Well, of course, there are a lot of modern day Robin Hoods, the most conspicuous one being Hi Ho Silver, otherwise known as the Lone Ranger. (And, speaking of the Lone Ranger, I was thinking wishfully the other day how nice it would be to put a lot of other actors in masks where their acting would be fairly skillfully concealed. Back to business, Crosby.)

But this particular modern day Robin Hood is the suavest, the funniest and the most adult Robin Hood around. Alan Mowbray, who plays him, may just have been born for this role. He plays Flack as if he were having the time of his life and some of that feeling of fun—quite a lot of it—rubs off on the spectators.

Colonel Flack is a man who just roams around, perpetually on the brink of bankruptcy, and gets himself into trouble of other people's choosing. Somebody is trying to rook somebody else and the Colonel just happens to be passing by. He plunges to the rescue, pulling his unwilling accomplice, Garvey, in with him.

This, of course, is a fairly rigid and far from original formula but it works very well in this case because Mowbray is such a wonderful rogue. On one show, for example, a bunch of hoodlums were trying to shake down a drug store in a protection racket. Mowbray just happened to be in there. To get the hoods off the back of the druggist, Mowbray impersonated a big gangster from Chicago who scared the little hoods right out of their wits.

Watching Mowbray think on his feet, while outwitting the hoods, is about the best good clean fun there is on this sort of weekly situation comedy. On a more recent one Mowbray was summoned to the Collector of Internal Revenue Office to explain the following deductions in his income tax: rental one elephant, purchase six tear gas bombs, rental one python. "Are all these necessary to your business?" asked the income tax man. Well, it turned out they all were and Mowbray explained them all away with superb plausibility. (Reminds me of a man I know who deducted $500 with the explanation "Rolled by an Arab." The income tax people got awfully curious about that item but, as it happened, he had been rolled by an Arab.)

Garvey, the Colonel's sidekick, is forever trying to keep his boss (or whatever the relationship between them is. It's not clear) out of these scrapes. "But, Colonel," he will say. "That's impossible." Says the Colonel: "Yes, I know. Fascinating case, isn't it?" And he'll go on to quote Socrates or Cicero in the original Latin. The last time he quoted Socrates, the Latin, freely translated, meant: "You got to have guts."

Flack's schemes for rescuing the widows and orphans from the clutches of scallywags—he's a better scallywag than they are—are always fairly preposterous but terribly entertaining. Last time I looked he somehow contrived to get all the furniture of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Pomeranians moved out on the sidewalk and then moved back in again—I forget why, exactly. But it worked. It always does.

In the end, on this show, the widows and orphans always get their money back. The villains are always discomfited. And that's about all that happens to the villains. This is a very gentle show. Flack and Garvey wind up with just enough money to pay the hotel bill with nothing left over.

DUMMY REVERSAL PLAY

MANY pretty good players have never employed the procedure known by veterans as "dummy reversal" play. It consists merely of treating the dummy hand as if it were the declarers, ruffing out its losers with the opposite trumps and eventually drawing trumps with the dummy's cards instead of the declarer's. It is vital to certain contracts, especially when the declarer's hand contains so many losing cards that getting rid of them is not feasible, but the dummy contains so few losers that the means of consuming enough of them are available.

	♠ A K Q 4 ♥ K 9 7 5 4 ♦ A K J 3 ♣ None
♠ 8 7 5 3 ♥ 8 6 ♦ 8 5 4 ♣ A 8 7 2	N W E S	♠ 6 ♥ A J 10 ♦ 9 7 2 ♣ Q J 10 6 4 3
	♠ J 10 9 2 ♥ Q 3 2 ♦ Q 10 6 ♣ K 9 5

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	2 ♣	2 ♥	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♦	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
6 ♠

South could easily tell from his partner's bids that North held exactly five hearts and four-carders of spades and diamonds. North couldn't be so sure of South's calls except that he clearly showed four spades and some kind of support in the other two suits to help solidify them, enough to urge him into small slam.

Contemplating his situation after the club Q lead, North noted how difficult it might be for him to take care of enough of his heart losers, if not impossible. Then he studied the "reverse" possibilities and saw the light.

So he put the club K on the lead, ruffed the A with the spade 4, led the heart 4 to the 10 and Q, ruffed the club 9 with the spade A, led the diamond 3 to the 10, ruffed the last club with the spade K, scored his own final trump, the Q, went to dummy with the diamond J to the Q and used the spade J, 10 and 9 to extract West's remaining trumps. The diamond A and K brought a discard of the heart 3, and the heart K was then given up to East's A.

Just run through the play, treating North as the master hand and not for ruffing purposes, and see where you get. In this case, nowhere. The contract is impossible except by reverse play.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

What differences in play could be caused by West's choice of the heart A or the club 2 as his lead against South's 6-Diamonds doubled?

DUMMY REVERSAL PLAY

MANY pretty good players have never employed the procedure known by veterans as "dummy reversal" play. It consists merely of treating the dummy hand as if it were the declarers, ruffing out its losers with the opposite trumps and eventually drawing trumps with the dummy's cards instead of the declarer's. It is vital to certain contracts, especially when the declarer's hand contains so many losing cards that getting rid of them is not feasible, but the dummy contains so few losers that the means of consuming enough of them are available.

	♠ A K Q 4 ♥ K 9 7 5 4 ♦ A K J 3 ♣ None
♠ 8 7 5 3 ♥ 8 6 ♦ 8 5 4 ♣ A 8 7 2	N W E S	♠ 6 ♥ A J 10 ♦ 9 7 2 ♣ Q J 10 6 4 3
	♠ J 10 9 2 ♥ Q 3 2 ♦ Q 10 6 ♣ K 9 5

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	2 ♣	2 ♥	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♦	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
6 ♠

South could easily tell from his partner's bids that North held exactly five hearts and four-carders of spades and diamonds. North couldn't be so sure of South's calls except that he clearly showed four spades and some kind of support in the other two suits to help solidify them, enough to urge him into small slam.

Contemplating his situation after the club Q lead, North noted how difficult it might be for him to take care of enough of his heart losers, if not impossible. Then he studied the "reverse" possibilities and saw the light.

So he put the club K on the lead, ruffed the A with the spade 4, led the heart 4 to the 10 and Q, ruffed the club 9 with the spade A, led the diamond 3 to the 10, ruffed the last club with the spade K, scored his own final trump, the Q, went to dummy with the diamond J to the Q and used the spade J, 10 and 9 to extract West's remaining trumps. The diamond A and K brought a discard of the heart 3, and the heart K was then given up to East's A.

Just run through the play, treating North as the master hand and not for ruffing purposes, and see where you get. In this case, nowhere. The contract is impossible except by reverse play.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ K 10 8 6 3 2 ♥ None ♦ A 10 ♣ A K J 9 3
♠ A Q ♥ A Q J 8 3 ♦ 7 4 ♣ 7 5 4 2	N W E S	♠ J 9 5 4 ♥ K 6 5 4 2 ♦ J ♣ Q 8 6
	♠ 7 ♥ 10 9 7 ♦ K Q 9 8 6 5 3 2 ♣ 10

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

32 Fatalities Occur In Homes

In announcing these figures, J. Charles Judge, of the State Health Department, revealed that fire was the number one killer, accounting for 13 of the deaths.

Nine deaths were caused by falls, five by mechanical suffocation, and two by non-mechanical suffocation. Gas poisoning, firearms, and drowning resulted in one death each.

The statistics on fatal home accidents are the first to be released by the newly created program at the State Health Department. The three-year pilot study, financed by a grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, was launched in the counties the first of this year.

Moose Plan Family Night

Cumberland Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose, will hold Family Night tomorrow night from 9 to midnight, with music by the Helen Pettie Trio.

The Smith Triplets, accordionists will provide a floor show and Russ Minnicks will be master of ceremonies in a Gay 90s musical program.

German Teacher Guest

Miss Kaete Elise Lorenzen, a German teacher who is in this country to study its educational system, will speak at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club tomorrow at 12:15 in Central YMCA. Her topic will be the educational situation at the present time.

Following the regular program, there will be a meeting of the club's board of directors in the YMCA library.

DEATHS AND FUNERAL NOTICES

MRS. TERESA MATESE

FROSTBURG — Mrs. Teresa Matese, 80, widow of Vincent Matese, died Saturday in Allegany County Infirmary, Cumberland, where she had been a patient three months.

A native of Palermo, Italy, Mrs. Matese came to the United States at the age of 20. She had resided here and in Cumberland for the past 60 years.

Surviving are three sons, John and Anthony Matese, Frostburg, and Joseph Matese, Cleveland; three daughters, Mrs. Anna Pinto, Frostburg; Mrs. Mary Minnella and Miss Angela Matese, Jackson Heights, Long Island, N. Y.; two brothers, Joseph and Paul Taormina, Cleveland, and two sisters, Mrs. Anna D. Piero, Chicago, and Mrs. Sant Ristivo, Detroit.

The body is at the Durst Funeral Home. A requiem high mass will be celebrated today 9:30 a. m. in St. Michael's Catholic Church. Interment will be in the parish cemetery.

MISS DINA ABRAMS

Miss Dina Abrams, 87, died Saturday at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Isaac Hirsch, 218 Schley Street. She had been in failing health a year.

Born March 1, 1867 in Pittsburgh, Miss Abrams was a daughter of the late Adolph and Charlotine (Fink) Abrams. She held membership in B'er Chayim Congregation.

A service was held at the Hirsch residence last night with Rabbi Daniel Lowy officiating.

The funeral cortege will leave this morning for Pittsburgh where burial will take place in West View Cemetery.

REYNOLDS FUNERAL

Rites for John G. "Jack" Reynolds, 72, of 831 Columbia Avenue, who died Tuesday at Sacred Heart Hospital, were conducted Saturday from the Kight Funeral Home by Rev. John U. Lyness, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Interment was in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Active pallbearers were Perry Simoni, Leo and Joseph Renaldi, Norwood Zegles, C. L. Hartman and William R. King. Honorary pallbearers included Joseph Campone, Joseph and Frank Cantone, Carlo Criston, Joseph Tofani, W. J. Staggs, H. E. Smith, C. H. Miller, C. H. Duckworth, C. T. Mason, R. S. Compton, Leon Jerns, R. D. Murray and T. F. Davis.

YARNELL SERVICES

FROSTBURG—Services for Mrs. Emma J. Yarnell, 81, who died Friday evening at the residence of a daughter, Mrs. Marshall Ferree, 134 West Main Street, will be conducted today at 2 p. m. from the Hafer Funeral Home by Rev. John Bayley Jones, pastor of First Methodist Church, and Rev. Paul V. Taylor, pastor of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church. Burial will take place in Fishertown (Pa.) Cemetery.

LIGHT FUNERAL

Services for Myers G. Light, 66, former city commissioner who died Wednesday at his home, 511 Prince George Street, were held Saturday at the George Funeral Home. Rev. Adam E. Chairman Favors Home Show As Annual Feature Miles G. Thompson Jr., who served as general chairman of the first Cumberland Home Show, which attracted some 8,200 Tri-State area residents to the Footer Building in three days ending Saturday, expressed a hope yesterday that such a program can be continued as an annual Spring feature here.

Thompson praised other members of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce who assisted him in readying the old building and operating the show once the time arrived. The Home Show was considered by far the most outstanding Jaycee project of the past year.

Mrs. Harold R. Smith, 607 Shriver Avenue, Saturday night was judged the winner of the "Mrs. Maryland" bakeoff conducted as a closing feature of the show.

In second place was Mrs. Paul A. Hilaire, 110 LeFevre Road, this city, and third, Mrs. Lillian Nugent of Baltimore.

Mrs. Smith won a two-week free trip to Florida for herself and her family. While in Florida she will compete for national bakeoff honors.

Mrs. Helen G. Pettie, 15 South Lee Street, the Jaycee grand prize of a 21-inch console model television set; Agnes McDonald, Midland, $50 savings bond, Liberty Trust Company; Mrs. W. B. Miller, 541 Patterson Avenue, radio from Marple's Jewelry Store.

Leona Davidson, 13 Vermont Avenue, ovenette, Wolf's Furniture Store; Mrs. Doris Crowe, Mt. Savage, electric range, Burkey's TV and Appliance Store; Mrs. Elmo Evans, 30 Grand Avenue, gallon of paint and $10 worth of wallpaper from Purucker's Wallpaper Store.

Mrs. John Bohn, 643 Henderson Avenue, electric dryer, Sterling Electric Company; Mrs. Inez Lewis, South Water Street, Frostburg, door chimes, Whitacre's Appliance Store; Helen M. Henderson, garbage disposal unit from R. H. Lapp, and Sons (Plumbing contractors, and Rex Swisher, LaVale, screen door or $100 towards storm windows from the Rusco Window and Supply Company.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company gave a door mirror to F. G. Hicks, 312 South Street. Super Concrete Company presented 100 pounds of masonry paint to Bessie Wiegand, 5 Orchard Stret.

32 Fatalities Occur In Homes

A total of 32 fatal home accidents were reported in the counties of Maryland during January and February of this year.

In announcing these figures, J. Charles Judge, of the State Health Department, revealed that fire was the number one killer, accounting for 13 of the deaths.

Nine deaths were caused by falls, five by mechanical suffocation, and two by non-mechanical suffocation. Gas poisoning, firearms, and drowning resulted in one death each.

The statistics on fatal home accidents are the first to be released by the newly created program at the State Health Department. The three-year pilot study, financed by a grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, was launched in the counties the first of this year.

Thinkers Praised By McKeldin At Dedication

Lowndes Hall Ceremonies Held

"We must have people who can think for themselves," Governor Theodore R. McKeldin told an overflow audience yesterday on the occasion of the dedication of Lowndes Hall, the new administration and library building on the campus of Frostburg State Teachers College.

The new building was named in honor of Lloyd Lowndes, first Republican governor of Maryland, and his son, Tasker G. Lowndes, who for 17 years was president of the State Board of Education.

Members of the Lowndes family present for the dedication were Miss Elizabeth Lowndes of Cumberland, daughter of the late Governor; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lowndes and daughter, Susa, and Mr. and Mrs. Bladen Lowndes and son, Tasker G. Lowndes, of Baltimore and New York.

No Moratorium

"Let's Have No Thought Moratorium" was the topic of Governor McKeldin's remarks. "We must have thinkers—people who think for themselves and do not automatically follow the leader, whoever he happens to be," he added.

The Governor stressed that the primary responsibility upon teachers at such institutions as Frostburg State Teachers College is to get students to think for themselves. Following the majority is not always a good rule, for many times the minority may be right in a particular situation, he pointed out.

McKeldin observed that Maryland was founded by Catholics 320 years ago, but that they believed in freedom of worship. As a result this colony early gained a reputation which led to its nickname as "The Free State." Marylanders are free to think as they wish on all important issues.

Beall, Gunter Take Part

The Governor was introduced by United States Senator J. Glenn Beall, whose ancestors once owned the land on which the original building of the college and Lowndes Hall is now located.

Earlier in the dedication program yesterday William A. Gunter of Cumberland, a member of the State Board of Education, paid tribute to Lloyd Lowndes.

"No better summation of his outstanding accomplishments and character can be given than the single sentence appearing on your programs this afternoon: 'Lloyd Lowndes (1845-1905) at times lawyer, banker, Congressman, Governor—at all times a gentleman.'...

"In his work on behalf of the expansion of this college, Governor McKeldin has been encouraged, coaxed, persuaded, cajoled and mesmerized by the greatest human dynamo this college has ever known—Miss Lillian C. Compton—and to whom we shall ever be indebted for the very fine job performed by her as president of this college during the last nine years. Perhaps, with the continued help of Governor McKeldin, it may be possible to erect another beautiful building upon this campus and express our feelings of this grand person by naming it 'Compton Hall.'...

Guests Introduced

"Long stand Lowndes Hall, and may the gentility and culture gleaned from the books in its library ever remind the readers of two genteel, cultured gentlemen—Lloyd Lowndes and Tasker Lowndes — whose surname it bears."

Miss Compton presided at the ceremonies, which lasted about one hour and 20 minutes.

After an organ prelude by Miss Eleanor Smith and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner by the audience, Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, this city, gave the invocation.

Ivan C. Diehl introduced the platform guests. Then, Nathan L. Smith, director of the State Department of Public Improvement, presented Lowndes Hall. It was accepted by Wendell D. Allen of Baltimore, president of the State Board of Education.

Then came Gunter's tribute and a tribute to Tasker G. Lowndes, by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools. After Governor McKeldin's remarks, Rev. Richardson delivered the benediction. The Maryland Singers offered three different selections during the program.

Preceding the program in the auditorium, guests were entertained at luncheon in the residence dining hall of the college. The new building was open for inspection by the public from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Dedication Luncheon

'Bunion Boys' Reach Capital After Eight-Day Canal Hike

Only Nine Of Original Party Still Walking As Douglas Expedition Ends

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Weary hikers rested tired muscles today after an eight-day 184 mile walk along the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal prompted by debate over whether a scenic highway should be built along the waterway.

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas wants the canal kept as it is. Two editorial writers for the Washington Post-Times Herald, Robert Estabrook and Merlo Pusey, favor the construction of a highway through the area.

Thirty-seven hikers, the same number but not the identical group which started out from Cumberland, Md., finished the hike late Saturday afternoon.

The group reached lock five on the canal and boarded a mule drawn barge for the last five miles into the capital.

Whether any minds had been definitely changed as a result of the hike was debatable. The 55-year old Justice Douglas apparently won the hiking honors. He finished strong after walking the entire distance.

Among those who made it on foot most of the way was Warren F. Gardner, publisher of the Meriden, Conn., record.

He crossed the finish line with a turkey buzzard feather decorating his cap.

"He was in good spirits and very good company. He only rode when his legs just wouldn't carry him any further."

The provision truck, which accompanied the hiking party was used to ferry some of the hikers when the trip became arduous.

Much of the country is now largely wild.

Hagerstown Urges Canal Compromise

HAGERSTOWN, March 28 (AP)— Nine days, 184 miles and thousands of words later, the question at hand between Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and two editorial writers of the Washington Post and Times-Herald still remains:

Should the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal strip between Cumberland, Md., and Washington be developed for recreational purposes or should it be converted into a Federal Parkway?

Harold Porter, president of the Hagerstown Chamber, said the group's canal committee thinks existing county and state roads should be improved with links being constructed between them where needed. That would make the area accessible to more people. In a fashion, that might satisfy the proponents of a parkway.

The committee, according to Porter, also favors the idea of improving the area for picnickers and campers. That should please Douglas.

Justice Douglas, the two editorial writers, and others who took a hike along the canal last week arrived in Washington yesterday afternoon. Douglas indicated to Secretary of the Interior McKay he would send him a letter about the area's development possibilities.

McGinnis To Address District Nurse Group

J. C. McGinnis of the North American Accident Insurance Company of Chicago will address District 1, Maryland State Nurses Association, at a meeting at 7:45 p. m. Wednesday at Memorial Hospital Nurses Home.

Christine J. Williams will preside at the meeting and McGinnis will be introduced by Lila Vandegrift, program chairman. McGinnis will speak on "The Economic Security Program for the Nurse."

At the business meeting which will follow, Miss Williams will give a report on the March 15 meeting in Baltimore. All section chairmen and other members are urged to attend.

'Annie' To Be Staged Here This Evening

The famous musical hit, "Annie Get Your Gun," will be staged today at 8:30 p. m. in Fort Hill High School auditorium under auspices of the Cumberland Optimist Club.

Reserved seat tickets are still available and may be purchased at the Sports and Hobby Shoppe, Sykes Music Store or Whitacre's Appliance Store.

They will also be sold at the door. The ticket office will open at 7:15 p. m. Starring Lynne Torres and a Broadway cast, the musical includes such popular song hits as "No Business Like Show Business," ;"The Girl That I Marry," "I've Got The Sun In The Morning," and "Anything You Can Do."

Proceeds from the stage production will go toward a fund to send members of the Junior Optimist Club to a week of camping this summer on Town Creek.

Frank Kaplon, vice president of the local Optimist Club and chairman of Boys Work, said the 25 youths will attend the supervised camp of Rev. Carl White located in the Belle Grove area along Town Creek.

Music for tonight's production, according to Paul S. Bixler, publicity chairman, will be provided by the Wilton Sykes orchestra. Robert O. Collins, club president, is general chairman and Richard Shaw is in charge of ticket sales.

Youth Wounded In Shoulder By .22 Rifle

Police, who received a call at 12:40 a. m., said the shooting occurred about 12:25 a. m. in the bathroom of the Simpson home. A .22 calibre rifle was used.

The youth was reported to have called to his mother that he had shot himself, although the parents told police they had heard no shot.

City Police Detective Roy C. Hawse, who investigated, said the boy was taken to the hospital by his father and an uncle. Attaches said the wound was "clean," with no bones broken. The boy was suffering from shock when admitted to the hospital.

Lose A Dog?

Riley said one dog is a little black pooch with a scar over the right eye. The other is a big, intelligent collie. Riley said the owners may claim their dogs by calling him at Gaithersburg 486-W-2.

Grass Fire Checked

Firemen from East Side station yesterday afternoon answered a grass fire call on Willowbrook Road near the city limits. No damage was reported in the fire, which was out on arrival. The call came in at 12:17 p. m.

McKeldin Urges Marylanders To Adopt Home Rule

Governor Foresees 'Overwhelming' Vote

BALTIMORE, March 28 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin today appealed for overwhelming adoption of municipal home rule in the November elections as a move toward home rule in Maryland counties.

"I believe your overwhelming vote for it in November will convince your representatives in the General Assembly that you favor home rule in the counties as well."

He said it is unfortunate that "we have no such active organization as the Maryland Municipal League helping us build up sentiment for home rule in the counties."

He said the adoption of home rule would save valuable legislative time that is now wasted "on these various local matters with which the individual members of the Legislature had no concern and in which they had no interest."

He said the system of framing local legislation in the General Assembly has deprived the state of much of local government which is the "grass roots form of government."

He said that by having local legislation handled in the General Assembly "matters which the people of a community considered of prime importance to them and to them alone have been made political footballs on the floor of the assembly."

He said many local bills caused log jams in the closing hours of many sessions, many were lost in the shuffle and many got through which would have been killed if the lawmakers had more time to consider them.

Under a bill passed by the recent session of the General Assembly, Maryland cities would be divided into four population classes. The Legislature then would define spheres of authority for each class of city.

Advocates have said the volume of bills in the General Assembly would be cut by as much as 20 per cent under the act.

Snyder Is Jailed On Liquor Count

Charles L. Snyder, of 210 Paca Street, unable to pay a fine of $100, was given a 30-day jail term Saturday in Police Court after he pleaded guilty to furnishing a 15-year-old girl with intoxicants.

His arrest resulted from a "drinking party" Thursday in the defendant's second-floor apartment, police said.

Lt. James E. Van, of the City Police Detective Bureau, investigated the case after the girl's father reported she returned home in an intoxicated condition. During Saturday's trial she admitted drinking beer and whisky furnished by Snyder.

Election Board Seeks $38,992 In New Budget

Figures Submitted To Commissioners

The Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors proposes to spend $1,643.25 less in the fiscal year which starts July 1 than it is during the current fiscal period, according to the board's budget, which has been submitted to the County Commissioners.

William A. Wilson, president, and Edward P. Kaylor, clerk, submitted a budget calling for expenditures totaling $38,992.50. This year the board operates on a $40,635.75 budget. A breakdown of the 1954-55 budget shows $2,075 for supplies and incidental expenses concerning office maintenance, $11,940 for salaries of all regular employes, $22,485 for regular salaries, including all poll workers and extra workers, and $2,492.50 for printing. Of the regular salaries item $16,882 is to go for poll workers.

District Forester William H. Johnson presented his budget for the county's participation in fire prevention and suppression. This $6,350 budget is the same as for the current fiscal year which ends June 30. Included in that total is $3,527 salary for a guard, $1,000 each for fire suppression and for tools and equipment.

Another budget recently submitted was the civil Defense expenditures as prepared by William G. Barger, county Civil Defense director. Included in his $15,145 is $4,870 in money in the 1953-54 budget which cannot be spent during the current fiscal period. Deducting that amount would lower the budget to $10,275 in new money or $395 less than the budget for the current 12 months.

Chief Civil Defense items are $5,000 in matching funds for training equipment, communications equipment and equipment for rescue, medical and radiological uses. That amount will be matched in state and federal funds. Also included in the budget $3,375 for Ground Observer Corps and $1,900 for administrative expenses.

Frank A. Wolfhope, auditor for the Upper Potomac River Commission, informed the County Commissioners that the commission will need the same amount next year as the $26,454 included in the current budget.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher asked for $2,680 for incidental expenses in his office. Largest single item was $700 for communications, including telephone and telegraph expenses.

The Weather

Many persons took advantage of yesterday's beautiful weather, and a Sunday drive or a stroll in the woods was the order of the day for most Cumberlanders. At Constitution Park, where a high temperature of 70 degrees and a low of 30 was reported, superintendent Robert Golden observed that a number of people used the park to hike in the sunshine. The humidity at 6:00 p. m. was 48 per cent, and at 8 p. m., the thermometer stood at 59 degrees. Today's forecast calls for partly cloudy skies and scattered showers this afternoon, with the mercury expected to dip tonight.

Taxi Service Is Resumed By Two Companies

Two-Year Contract Gets Approval

Taxi service for Cumberland and vicinity was resumed yesterday morning at 7 o'clock when the two major cab companies got back into operation under a union contract.

Business, however, was not quite up to par yesterday according to spokesmen for both the Astor and Yellow Top cab companies. They said it would be several days before residents would again be used to calling.

On the first day back to work, Yellow Top had some difficulty when the company's switchboard went out of order temporarily.

Astor reported that their calls were a "little off," but that normal operations should be realized in four or five days.

An announcement of the strike's end was made Saturday night by company and union officials, ending the strike which went into effect February 15.

At that time, the Astor and Yellow Top companies informed their drivers that they were adopting a cab-lease system.

A long series of negotiations instigated by Mrs. Margaret Kimble, deputy labor commissioner of Maryland, ended Saturday at 4:20 p. m. with the union accepting a two-year contract.

The signing of the contract has the two companies abandoning their lease proposal. Under it, the drivers would have rented the cabs from the companies, buying their own gas at a discount and keeping a percentage of the gross receipts.

Mrs. Kimble was here two weeks ago in an attempt to settle the dispute, but was unsuccessful at that time.

After sessions Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the contract, effective for two years and retroactive to February 1, was approved by the drivers and firms.

Under the new pact, wage schedule percentages of present drivers will remain static, but will be modified for new employes.

Only One-Third As Many File In County Races

Political Activity Far Under '50 Level

Only about one-third as many candidates for county offices have filed this year as did in the 1950 campaign despite the fact that the deadline for candidates to certify is only a little over three weeks away.

The county and state primary election is Monday, June 28. Candidates must file at least 70 days before the election or not later than Monday, April 19.

When the deadline arrived four years ago 53 Republicans and 26 Democrats had filed for various positions. Because they faced no primary opposition, the names of seven of the Republicans and eight of the Democrats did not appear on the primary ballot. They were automatically certified for the November general election.

26 Candidates

So far this year all of the 26 candidates who actually have filed are Republicans. Four other members of the GOP have announced their candidacy but have not yet posted their $25 fee and sworn that they belong to no subversive organizations. All candidates must do that.

Whereas 26 Democrats put their hats in the ring as candidates four years ago, not a single one has yet announced or filed in this election year.

All of the offices that were at stake in 1950 are on the line again this year except the position as judge of Circuit Court. Four years ago, one Republican and two Democrats filed for that 15-year term.

So far in the campaign contests in the Republican primary are certain for 11 positions. They are the six county seats in the House of Delegates, the three positions as County Commissioners, the job as County Treasurer and that of Register of Wills.

Seven GOP candidates have filed for the six House of Delegates posts and three others have announced that they will be candidates. Two of the six incumbents have not publicly made their plans known. Four years ago there were 15 Republican candidates for the six positions.

Five For County Board

For county commissioners there are now five official candidates in the Republican primary and a sixth man has announced he will vie for one of the three positions. Even that activity cannot compare with four years ago when eight Republicans filed.

In the county treasurer race there are already three candidates filed for the Republican primary, the same number although different individuals who competed four years ago.. The register of wills, who faced no opposition in the 1950 primary or general election, has one candidate filed against him so far in 1954.

Six other incumbents have filed but no opponents have been announced against them. These include the three judges of Orphans Court, the clerk of Circuit Court, the clerk to the County Commissioners and the sheriff.

Committee Aspirants

The only other filed candidates are three men who seek election to the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County. No fee is required for filing for the committee but none of the seven incumbents has yet filed his intentions. The seven committee members will be elected June 28, not just nominated as is the case of the other positions.

Neither of the incumbents nor any opponents have announced or filed for the positions as state senator and state's attorney although there has been much talk about contests for both posts.

Back in 1950, the minority party, the Democrats, had 18 candidates on the primary ballot. Fourteen of them were candidates for the six positions on the Democratic State Central Committee, and two each sought nomination for Circuit Court judge and sheriff.

Eight other Democrats, who faced, no primary opposition, competed in the general election. Among them were six candidates for the House of Delegates, one for county commissioner and one for state's attorney.

Obviously, then, if the number of candidates this year is going to compare with 1950, the politicians will have to get busy in the next three weeks.

Today's Sermonette

Not my will, but thine, be done. Luke 22:42.

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Living Stone Church of the Brethren by the pastor, Rev. Arthur Scrogum. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The Meaning Of Surrender

By REV. ARTHUR SCROGUM

At the beginning of His ministry Jesus was tempted by the devil who tried to get Him to follow some other course than that for which the Father had sent Him into the world. When He completely overcome the three temptations with which He was confronted, Luke tells us, the devil departed from Him until an opportune time.

Jesus' victory in the wilderness did not free Him from further temptation. Instead, He was continually tempted, just as we are. When the people wanted to make Him king, He resisted the temptation to become an earthly monarch. When Peter told Him He should not suffer death, as He had said He must do, He overcame the great urge to take some other way than that of suffering. When He faced arrest He rejected the power which lay at His disposal to call legions of angels. No one is ever beyond temptation while on earth, and neither was the Master.

The one supreme test in our Lord's earthly ministry, however, came in the hours which He spent in Gethsemane just before His arrest, trial and crucifixion. It was the most terrible and yet the most triumphant experience of His public ministry. We are charmed by the story of the nativity. Our hearts are stirred by the profound truths set forth in the Sermon on the Mount. We marvel at the manner in which the blind receive their sight, the lepers are cleansed, and the dead are restored to life. But the greatest challenge comes to us when we see, first the agony and then the victory of Gethsemane and Calvary.

We can never fully comprehend the Master's suffering in the garden. Each of the evangelists contributes to the scene. Matthew says He was sorrowful and troubled. The term which is translated troubled, or "very heavy," indicates homesickness of soul. The utter solitude of Christ in this experience is stressed. He was forsaken by the Father that He might meet our need. Mark says he was distressed or "sore amazed," and troubled. The terrible burden of man's sin was upon Him. Luke says His sweat became like great drops of blood. It was his last and greatest attempt to escape the awful cup which He was about to drink, the cup of sin, of guilt and of punishment.

Jesus faced far more than mere physical suffering and death. His soul was separated from the Father, with whom He had always maintained the closest of fellowship. His sinless soul was being made sin for the whole world. We can never fully understand all that is involved in this profound event. We do not need to fully undestand it. We need only to believe it, to accept it and to live by it.

There are some things, however, which we can and should understand. The Master gained a complete victory. He did it by accepting God's will rather than following His own. He said, "Not my will, but thine, be done." He faced His arrest, His trial, and His crucifixion with an assurance and a poise at which we marvel. He could have such assurance and poise because of His complete reliance upon God.

As a result of His victory, salvation is established for all who will accept it. We are saved by accepting the will of God for our lives. That is our only road to victory. We, too, must say, "Not my will, but thine, be done."

Disgruntled Skunk Causes "Stink" At Local Restaurant

A local resident, who reportedly has been living in Cumberland for the past year, raised quite a stink yesterday afternoon near a local restaurant and brought the humane officer and regional game warden into action.

Police headquarters received a call yesterday about 5:20 p. m. with the news that an obnoxious odor had been detected in the vicinity of the restaurant.

Closer nasal examination by authorities proved the resident was definitely a skunk. Police called the humane officer who later contacted the game warden in an effort to cope with the problem.

This afternoon some bait containing poison will be placed near the abode of the skunk in order that its "carryings-on" will be curtailed permanently.

German Teachers Hear McKeldin In Frostburg

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin's reputation as an orator probably soon will be carried to West Germany.

Two German teachers who are spending three weeks in Allegany County studying the public school system were in the overflow audience which attended the dedication ceremonies at Frostburg State Teachers College yesterday afternoon. They are Freia Wunderlich and Dr. Kaete Elise Lorenzen.

Governor McKeldin spoke at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Frostburg yesterday morning. He talked about his trip to the Holy Land.

Police Boys Club To Start Spring Athletic Schedule With Training Session Saturday

Members of the Cumberland Police Boys Club will begin spring training in softball and baseball Saturday at 9 a. m. at Community Ball Park, Wineow Street.

Officer Harry Iser, supervisor and instructor of the club, yesterday said all boys between the ages of six and 16 are welcome to attend the opening session and to join the organization.

Iser said that when Constitution Park Pool opens members will be able to enjoy swimming privileges at the pool from 9 a. m. till noon on Saturdays, at which time other sports will be slated in the park.

During the summer months the club's softball team will compete with other teams of the city, Iser said.

Preparations will be made and plans discussed soon to raise funds for a one-week camping trip this summer for the members.

During the winter months the club has been meeting at Fort Hill High School from now on the members will participate in sports activities at Community Ball Park every Saturday until the opening of the pool, Iser added.

Local residents interested in contributing to the Police Boys Club fund may do so by contacting Milton Bernstein, secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Pvt. Loay Twigg Goes To Fort Hood, Texas

Pvt. Loay Twigg, 32 Blackiston Avenue, has been transferred from Fort Jackson, S. C., to Fort Hood, Texas, for duty with the First Armored Division. In joining this company, Pvt. Twigg becomes a member of the famed "Old Ironsides" division.

Thinkers Praised By McKeldin At Dedication

Lowndes Hall Ceremonies Held

"We must have people who can think for themselves," Governor Theodore R. McKeldin told an overflow audience yesterday on the occasion of the dedication of Lowndes Hall, the new administration and library building on the campus of Frostburg State Teachers College.

The new building was named in honor of Lloyd Lowndes, first Republican governor of Maryland, and his son, Tasker G. Lowndes, who for 17 years was president of the State Board of Education.

Members of the Lowndes family present for the dedication were Miss Elizabeth Lowndes of Cumberland, daughter of the late Governor; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lowndes and daughter, Susa, and Mr. and Mrs. Bladen Lowndes and son, Tasker G. Lowndes, of Baltimore and New York.

No Moratorium

"Let's Have No Thought Moratorium" was the topic of Governor McKeldin's remarks. "We must have thinkers—people who think for themselves and do not automatically follow the leader, whoever he happens to be," he added.

The Governor stressed that the primary responsibility upon teachers at such institutions as Frostburg State Teachers College is to get students to think for themselves. Following the majority is not always a good rule, for many times the minority may be right in a particular situation, he pointed out.

McKeldin observed that Maryland was founded by Catholics 320 years ago, but that they believed in freedom of worship. As a result this colony early gained a reputation which led to its nickname as "The Free State." Marylanders are free to think as they wish on all important issues.

Beall, Gunter Take Part

The Governor was introduced by United States Senator J. Glenn Beall, whose ancestors once owned the land on which the original building of the college and Lowndes Hall is now located.

Earlier in the dedication program yesterday William A. Gunter of Cumberland, a member of the State Board of Education, paid tribute to Lloyd Lowndes.

"No better summation of his outstanding accomplishments and character can be given than the single sentence appearing on your programs this afternoon: 'Lloyd Lowndes (1845-1905) at times lawyer, banker, Congressman, Governor—at all times a gentleman.'...

"In his work on behalf of the expansion of this college, Governor McKeldin has been encouraged, coaxed, persuaded, cajoled and mesmerized by the greatest human dynamo this college has ever known—Miss Lillian C. Compton—and to whom we shall ever be indebted for the very fine job performed by her as president of this college during the last nine years. Perhaps, with the continued help of Governor McKeldin, it may be possible to erect another beautiful building upon this campus and express our feelings of this grand person by naming it 'Compton Hall.'...

Guests Introduced

"Long stand Lowndes Hall, and may the gentility and culture gleaned from the books in its library ever remind the readers of two genteel, cultured gentlemen—Lloyd Lowndes and Tasker Lowndes — whose surname it bears."

Miss Compton presided at the ceremonies, which lasted about one hour and 20 minutes.

After an organ prelude by Miss Eleanor Smith and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner by the audience, Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, this city, gave the invocation.

Ivan C. Diehl introduced the platform guests. Then, Nathan L. Smith, director of the State Department of Public Improvement, presented Lowndes Hall. It was accepted by Wendell D. Allen of Baltimore, president of the State Board of Education.

Then came Gunter's tribute and a tribute to Tasker G. Lowndes, by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools. After Governor McKeldin's remarks, Rev. Richardson delivered the benediction. The Maryland Singers offered three different selections during the program.

Preceding the program in the auditorium, guests were entertained at luncheon in the residence dining hall of the college. The new building was open for inspection by the public from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Dedication Luncheon

'Bunion Boys' Reach Capital After Eight-Day Canal Hike

Only Nine Of Original Party Still Walking As Douglas Expedition Ends

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Weary hikers rested tired muscles today after an eight-day 184 mile walk along the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal prompted by debate over whether a scenic highway should be built along the waterway.

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas wants the canal kept as it is. Two editorial writers for the Washington Post-Times Herald, Robert Estabrook and Merlo Pusey, favor the construction of a highway through the area.

The canal, originally built to carry coal from the Cumberland mountain area to the Potomac, is now largely overgrown.

Thirty-seven hikers, the same number but not the identical group which started out from Cumberland, Md., finished the hike late Saturday afternoon.

The group reached lock five on the canal and boarded a mule drawn barge for the last five miles into the capital.

All the rest of the hike, in varying weather, had been along the abandoned towpath of the canal.

Whether any minds had been definitely changed as a result of the hike was debatable. The 55-year old Justice Douglas apparently won the hiking honors. He finished strong after walking the entire distance.

Nine persons qualified as all-the-way hikers, out of more than 40 who took part in the expedition at various stages.

Among those who made it on foot most of the way was Warren F. Gardner, publisher of the Meriden, Conn., record.

He crossed the finish line with a turkey buzzard feather decorating his cap.

"He was a very determined member of the party," reported Aubrey Graves, country editor of the Post-Times Herald.

"He was in good spirits and very good company. He only rode when his legs just wouldn't carry him any further."

The provision truck, which accompanied the hiking party was used to ferry some of the hikers when the trip became arduous.

Much of the country is now largely wild.

Hagerstown Urges Canal Compromise

HAGERSTOWN, March 28 (AP)—Nine days, 184 miles and thousands of words later, the question at hand between Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and two editorial writers of the Washington Post and Times-Herald still remains:

Should the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal strip between Cumberland, Md., and Washington be developed for recreational purposes or should it be converted into a Federal Parkway?

A Hagerstown Chamber of Commerce committee thinks it has the answer in the form of a compromising "omnibus plan."

Harold Porter, president of the Hagerstown Chamber, said the group's canal committee thinks existing county and state roads should be improved with links being constructed between them where needed. That would make the area accessible to more people. In a fashion, that might satisfy the proponents of a parkway.

The committee, according to Porter, also favors the idea of improving the area for picnickers and campers. That should please Douglas.

Justice Douglas, the two editorial writers, and others who took a hike along the canal last week arrived in Washington yesterday afternoon. Douglas indicated to Secretary of the Interior McKay he would send him a letter about the area's development possibilities.

McGinnis To Address District Nurse Group

J. C. McGinnis of the North American Accident Insurance Company of Chicago will address District 1, Maryland State Nurses Association, at a meeting at 7:45 p. m. Wednesday at Memorial Hospital Nurses Home.

Christine J. Williams will preside at the meeting and McGinnis will be introduced by Lila Vandegrift, program chairman. McGinnis will speak on "The Economic Security Program for the Nurse."

At the business meeting which will follow, Miss Williams will give a report on the March 15 meeting in Baltimore. All section chairmen and other members are urged to attend.

Eagles Will Nominate

The nomination of officers for Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will be held tomorrow at a meeting beginning at 7:30 p. m., according to Charles W. Robinette, president.

Lose A Dog?

Ray Riley of Seneca yesterday informed The News that he is taking care of a couple of dogs that followed the Douglas expedition along the C&O Canal towpath last week.

Riley said one dog is a little black pooch with a scar over the right eye. The other is a big, intelligent collie. Riley said the owners may claim their dogs by calling him at Gaithersburg 486-W-2.

'Annie' To Be Staged Here This Evening

The famous musical hit, "Annie Get Your Gun," will be staged today at 8:30 p. m. in Fort Hill High School auditorium under auspices of the Cumberland Optimist Club.

Reserved seat tickets are still available and may be purchased at the Sports and Hobby Shoppe, Sykes Music Store or Whitacre's Appliance Store.

They will also be sold at the door. The ticket office will open at 7:15 p. m. Starring Lynne Torres and a Broadway cast, the musical includes such popular song hits as "No Business Like Show Business," ;"The Girl That I Marry," "I've Got The Sun In The Morning," and "Anything You Can Do."

Proceeds from the stage production will go toward a fund to send members of the Junior Optimist Club to a week of camping this summer on Town Creek.

Frank Kaplon, vice president of the local Optimist Club and chairman of Boys Work, said the 25 youths will attend the supervised camp of Rev. Carl White located in the Belle Grove area along Town Creek.

Music for tonight's production, according to Paul S. Bixler, publicity chairman, will be provided by the Wilton Sykes orchestra. Robert O. Collins, club president, is general chairman and Richard Shaw is in charge of ticket sales.

Youth Wounded In Shoulder By .22 Rifle

An 18-year-old Willowbrook Road youth was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital early yesterday morning suffering a gunshot wound in the left shoulder which police said was apparently self-inflicted.

William C. Simpson Jr. of 449 Willowbrook Road was reported in "good" condition last night by hospital attaches.

Police, who received a call at 12:40 a. m., said the shooting occurred about 12:25 a. m. in the bathroom of the Simpson home. A .22 calibre rifle was used.

The youth was reported to have called to his mother that he had shot himself, although the parents told police they had heard no shot.

City Police Detective Roy C. Hawse, who investigated, said the boy was taken to the hospital by his father and an uncle. Attaches said the wound was "clean," with no bones broken. The boy was suffering from shock when admitted to the hospital.

Ivan Hall To Address Lions On Wednesday

Ivan Hall, assistant development manager of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, will be the speaker at this week's meeting of the Lions Club, Wednesday at 12:15 in the Green Room of Central YMCA. His subject will be "Experiences in the Manufacturing of Propelling Charges."

The regular monthly meeting of the Lions' board of directors will be held Friday at 6:30 p. m. in the George Williams Room of the Y.

McKeldin Urges Marylanders To Adopt Home Rule

Governor Foresees 'Overwhelming' Vote

BALTIMORE, March 28 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin today appealed for overwhelming adoption of municipal home rule in the November elections as a move toward home rule in Maryland counties.

In a radio talk the governor said of the proposed constitutional amendment:

"I believe your overwhelming vote for it in November will convince your representatives in the General Assembly that you favor home rule in the counties as well."

He said it is unfortunate that "we have no such active organization as the Maryland Municipal League helping us build up sentiment for home rule in the counties."

He said the adoption of home rule would save valuable legislative time that is now wasted "on these various local matters with which the individual members of the Legislature had no concern and in which they had no interest."

He said the system of framing local legislation in the General Assembly has deprived the state of much of local government which is the "grass roots form of government."

He said that by having local legislation handled in the General Assembly "matters which the people of a community considered of prime importance to them and to them alone have been made political footballs on the floor of the assembly."

He said many local bills caused log jams in the closing hours of many sessions, many were lost in the shuffle and many got through which would have been killed if the lawmakers had more time to consider them.

Under a bill passed by the recent session of the General Assembly, Maryland cities would be divided into four population classes. The Legislature then would define spheres of authority for each class of city.

Advocates have said the volume of bills in the General Assembly would be cut by as much as 20 per cent under the act.

Snyder Is Jailed On Liquor Count

Charles L. Snyder, of 210 Paca Street, unable to pay a fine of $100, was given a 30-day jail term Saturday in Police Court after he pleaded guilty to furnishing a 15-year-old girl with intoxicants.

His arrest resulted from a "drinking party" Thursday in the defendant's second-floor apartment, police said.

Lt. James E. Van, of the City Police Detective Bureau, investigated the case after the girl's father reported she returned home in an intoxicated condition. During Saturday's trial she admitted drinking beer and whisky furnished by Snyder.

Election Board Seeks $38,992 In New Budget

Figures Submitted To Commissioners

The Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors proposes to spend $1,643.25 less in the fiscal year which starts July 1 than it is during the current fiscal period, according to the board's budget, which has been submitted to the County Commissioners.

William A. Wilson, president, and Edward P. Kaylor, clerk, submitted a budget calling for expenditures totaling $38,992.50. This year the board operates on a $40,635.75 budget. A breakdown of the 1954-55 budget shows $2,075 for supplies and incidental expenses concerning office maintenance, $11,940 for salaries of all regular employes, $22,485 for regular salaries, including all poll workers and extra workers, and $2,492.50 for printing. Of the regular salaries item $16,882 is to go for poll workers.

District Forester William H. Johnson presented his budget for the county's participation in fire prevention and suppression. This $6,350 budget is the same as for the current fiscal year which ends June 30. Included in that total is $3,527 salary for a guard, $1,000 each for fire suppression and for tools and equipment.

Another budget recently submitted was the civil Defense expenditures as prepared by William G. Barger, county Civil Defense director. Included in his $15,145 is $4,870 in money in the 1953-54 budget which cannot be spent during the current fiscal period. Deducting that amount would lower the budget to $10,275 in new money or $395 less than the budget for the current 12 months.

Chief Civil Defense items are $5,000 in matching funds for training equipment, communications equipment and equipment for rescue, medical and radiological uses. That amount will be matched in state and federal funds. Also included in the budget $3,375 for Ground Observer Corps and $1,900 for administrative expenses.

Frank A. Wolfhope, auditor for the Upper Potomac River Commission, informed the County Commissioners that the commission will need the same amount next year as the $26,454 included in the current budget.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher asked for $2,680 for incidental expenses in his office. Largest single item was $700 for communications, including telephone and telegraph expenses.

Taxi Service Is Resumed By Two Companies

Two-Year Contract Gets Approval

Taxi service for Cumberland and vicinity was resumed yesterday morning at 7 o'clock when the two major cab companies got back into operation under a union contract.

Business, however, was not quite up to par yesterday according to spokesmen for both the Astor and Yellow Top cab companies. They said it would be several days before residents would again be used to calling.

On the first day back to work, Yellow Top had some difficulty when the company's switchboard went out of order temporarily.

Astor reported that their calls were a "little off," but that normal operations should be realized in four or five days.

An announcement of the strike's end was made Saturday night by company and union officials, ending the strike which went into effect February 15.

At that time, the Astor and Yellow Top companies informed their drivers that they were adopting a cab-lease system.

A work stoppage by the drivers, members of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs, then began.

A long series of negotiations instigated by Mrs. Margaret Kimble, deputy labor commissioner of Maryland, ended Saturday at 4:20 p. m. with the union accepting a two-year contract.

The signing of the contract has the two companies abandoning their lease proposal. Under it, the drivers would have rented the cabs from the companies, buying their own gas at a discount and keeping a percentage of the gross receipts.

Mrs. Kimble was here two weeks ago in an attempt to settle the dispute, but was unsuccessful at that time.

After sessions Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the contract, effective for two years and retroactive to February 1, was approved by the drivers and firms.

Under the new pact, wage schedule percentages of present drivers will remain static, but will be modified for new employes.

Today's Sermonette

Not my will, but thine, be done. Luke 22:42.

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Living Stone Church of the Brethren by the pastor, Rev. Arthur Scrogum. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The Meaning Of Surrender

By REV. ARTHUR SCROGUM

At the beginning of His ministry Jesus was tempted by the devil who tried to get Him to follow some other course than that for which the Father had sent Him into the world. When He completely overcome the three temptations with which He was confronted, Luke tells us, the devil departed from Him until an opportune time.

Jesus' victory in the wilderness did not free Him from further temptation. Instead, He was continually tempted, just as we are. When the people wanted to make Him king, He resisted the temptation to become an earthly monarch. When Peter told Him He should not suffer death, as He had said He must do, He overcame the great urge to take some other way than that of suffering. When He faced arrest He rejected the power which lay at His disposal to call legions of angels. No one is ever beyond temptation while on earth, and neither was the Master.

The one supreme test in our Lord's earthly ministry, however, came in the hours which He spent in Gethsemane just before His arrest, trial and crucifixion. It was the most terrible and yet the most triumphant experience of His public ministry. We are charmed by the story of the nativity. Our hearts are stirred by the profound truths set forth in the Sermon on the Mount. We marvel at the manner in which the blind receive their sight, the lepers are cleansed, and the dead are restored to life. But the greatest challenge comes to us when we see, first the agony and then the victory of Gethsemane and Calvary.

We can never fully comprehend the Master's suffering in the garden. Each of the evangelists contributes to the scene. Matthew says He was sorrowful and troubled. The term which is translated troubled, or "very heavy," indicates homesickness of soul. The utter solitude of Christ in this experience is stressed. He was forsaken by the Father that He might meet our need. Mark says he was distressed or "sore amazed," and troubled. The terrible burden of man's sin was upon Him. Luke says His sweat became like great drops of blood. It was his last and greatest attempt to escape the awful cup which He was about to drink, the cup of sin, of guilt and of punishment.

Jesus faced far more than mere physical suffering and death. His soul was separated from the Father, with whom He had always maintained the closest of fellowship. His sinless soul was being made sin for the whole world. We can never fully understand all that is involved in this profound event. We do not need to fully undestand it. We need only to believe it, to accept it and to live by it.

There are some things, however, which we can and should understand. The Master gained a complete victory. He did it by accepting God's will rather than following His own. He said, "Not my will, but thine, be done." He faced His arrest, His trial, and His crucifixion with an assurance and a poise at which we marvel. He could have such assurance and poise because of His complete reliance upon God.

As a result of His victory, salvation is established for all who will accept it. We are saved by accepting the will of God for our lives. That is our only road to victory. We, too, must say, "Not my will, but thine, be done."

Only One-Third As Many File In County Races

Political Activity Far Under '50 Level

Only about one-third as many candidates for county offices have filed this year as did in the 1950 campaign despite the fact that the deadline for candidates to certify is only a little over three weeks away.

The county and state primary election is Monday, June 28. Candidates must file at least 70 days before the election or not later than Monday, April 19.

When the deadline arrived four years ago 53 Republicans and 26 Democrats had filed for various positions. Because they faced no primary opposition, the names of seven of the Republicans and eight of the Democrats did not appear on the primary ballot. They were automatically certified for the November general election.

26 Candidates

So far this year all of the 26 candidates who actually have filed are Republicans. Four other members of the GOP have announced their candidacy but have not yet posted their $25 fee and sworn that they belong to no subversive organizations. All candidates must do that.

Whereas 26 Democrats put their hats in the ring as candidates four years ago, not a single one has yet announced or filed in this election year.

All of the offices that were at stake in 1950 are on the line again this year except the position as judge of Circuit Court. Four years ago, one Republican and two Democrats filed for that 15-year term.

So far in the campaign contests in the Republican primary are certain for 11 positions. They are the six county seats in the House of Delegates, the three positions as County Commissioners, the job as County Treasurer and that of Register of Wills.

Seven GOP candidates have filed for the six House of Delegates posts and three others have announced that they will be candidates. Two of the six incumbents have not publicly made their plans known. Four years ago there were 15 Republican candidates for the six positions.

Five For County Board

For county commissioners there are now five official candidates in the Republican primary and a sixth man has announced he will vie for one of the three positions. Even that activity cannot compare with four years ago when eight Republicans filed.

In the county treasurer race there are already three candidates filed for the Republican primary, the same number although different individuals who competed four years ago.. The register of wills, who faced no opposition in the 1950 primary or general election, has one candidate filed against him so far in 1954.

Six other incumbents have filed but no opponents have been announced against them. These include the three judges of Orphans Court, the clerk of Circuit Court, the clerk to the County Commissioners and the sheriff.

Committee Aspirants

The only other filed candidates are three men who seek election to the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County. No fee is required for filing for the committee but none of the seven incumbents has yet filed his intentions. The seven committee members will be elected June 28, not just nominated as is the case of the other positions.

Neither of the incumbents nor any opponents have announced or filed for the positions as state senator and state's attorney although there has been much talk about contests for both posts.

Back in 1950, the minority party, the Democrats, had 18 candidates on the primary ballot. Fourteen of them were candidates for the six positions on the Democratic State Central Committee, and two each sought nomination for Circuit Court judge and sheriff.

Eight other Democrats, who faced, no primary opposition, competed in the general election. Among them were six candidates for the House of Delegates, one for county commissioner and one for state's attorney.

Obviously, then, if the number of candidates this year is going to compare with 1950, the politicians will have to get busy in the next three weeks.

Disgruntled Skunk Causes "Stink" At Local Restaurant

A local resident, who reportedly has been living in Cumberland for the past year, raised quite a stink yesterday afternoon near a local restaurant and brought the humane officer and regional game warden into action.

Police headquarters received a call yesterday about 5:20 p. m. with the news that an obnoxious odor had been detected in the vicinity of the restaurant.

Closer nasal examination by authorities proved the resident was definitely a skunk. Police called the humane officer who later contacted the game warden in an effort to cope with the problem.

This afternoon some bait containing poison will be placed near the abode of the skunk in order that its "carryings-on" will be curtailed permanently.

German Teachers Hear McKeldin In Frostburg

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin's reputation as an orator probably soon will be carried to West Germany.

Two German teachers who are spending three weeks in Allegany County studying the public school system were in the overflow audience which attended the dedication ceremonies at Frostburg State Teachers College yesterday afternoon. They are Freia Wunderlich and Dr. Kaete Elise Lorenzen.

Governor McKeldin spoke at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Frostburg yesterday morning. He talked about his trip to the Holy Land.

Police Boys Club To Start Spring Athletic Schedule With Training Session Saturday

Members of the Cumberland Police Boys Club will begin spring training in softball and baseball Saturday at 9 a. m. at Community Ball Park, Wineow Street.

Officer Harry Iser, supervisor and instructor of the club, yesterday said all boys between the ages of six and 16 are welcome to attend the opening session and to join the organization.

Iser said that when Constitution Park Pool opens members will be able to enjoy swimming privileges at the pool from 9 a. m. till noon on Saturdays, at which time other sports will be slated in the park.

During the summer months the club's softball team will compete with other teams of the city, Iser said.

Preparations will be made and plans discussed soon to raise funds for a one-week camping trip this summer for the members.

During the winter months the club has been meeting at Fort Hill High School from now on the members will participate in sports activities at Community Ball Park every Saturday until the opening of the pool, Iser added.

Local residents interested in contributing to the Police Boys Club fund may do so by contacting Milton Bernstein, secretary-treasurer of the organization.
